SET BARNS ON FIRE

Farmers Capture an Incendiary Near Port Hope.

MAN THOUGHT TO BE INSANE

Traced by Footmarks In the Snow—Twenty-Six Cattle, Twenty Hogs and Nine Horses Burned—Whole Year's Crop Destroyed — Straw Stack Fired—Wanted to Go to Jail — May Be Insane.

Port Hope, Dec. 2.—Thomas Kow, a French-Canadian, thirty-nine years of age, who speaks broken English, says that his home is at 66 Notre Dame street, Montreal, is now in the jail here charged with incendiarism.

About five o'clock yesterday morning a large frame barn belonging to John Harcourt at Port Britain, about three miles west of Port Hope, was set on fire, and in spite of all that could be done by neighbors was completely destroyed with its entire contents, consisting of twenty-six head of cattle, twenty hogs, nine horses and the year's crop of grain.

Immediately afterwards a straw stack some distance away belonging to Bill Brown was set on fire and burned. Southorpe and Dickinson, two farmers, who had been attracted to the first fire, noticed tracks leading from the barn. They easily followed them through the fresh snow that had fallen during the night. The tracks led to the straw stack and from there to the school-house. There they followed the tracks to Wesleyville, where they saw Kow ahead of them.

When he saw them coming he stepped into the ditch at the side of the road and waited for them, but offered no resistance and was brought to Port Hope. On he was placed in the cells by Chief Bond. Speaking to a reporter Kow was very extraordinary story, and there is some doubt as to whether he is of sound mind. He says that he was on his way to Kingston from Toronto, and that he deliberately set fire to the barn and strawstack for the purpose of being sent to jail. He says that he also tried to set fire to the school-house, but did not succeed in doing so. He says that he has served eight months in jail at Ottawa for stealing $50, and also does not seem to realize that assault upon a girl. There was but $400 insurance on Mr. Harcourt's barn.

PRIEST BURNED TO DEATH.

$100,000 of Church Property Destroyed In Blaze at Covington.

Covington, La., Dec. 2.—One life is known to have been lost, and over $100,000 worth of property was destroyed in a fire which here Saturday, when St. Joseph's Academy, St. Joseph's Convent, St. Joseph's Monastery and St. Joseph's Catholic Church were burned. All of these institutions occupied a lot together near Covington. The fire started in the room of the charred body of Rev. Joseph Buck, who was attached to the academy, as a priest.

The fire which started in the dormitory of St. Joseph's Monastery, was caused by a radiator becoming too hot. There was a large number in the academy when the alarm was started, and many of the pupils had to escape, but Rev. Mr. Buck is believed to have been the only one to lose his life.

The buildings were all practically new. Father Buck's room, containing over 8,000 valuable works and that of the students with 1,000, were destroyed.

Soo Forgers Sentenced.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 2.—Harry Smith and Howard Stewart were sentenced for passing bogus checks here, the former sentenced Saturday by Magistrate Elliott. Smith, drew two years at the Central Prison, Toronto, and Stewart got seven years carrying explosives, three years for forging Fraser's name to his possession, and five years for burglary, the sentences to run concurrently.

Smith refused to reveal his real name. He is afraid that he would kill his aged mother, who lives somewhere in England.

Was Chinaman Bowstring.

Vancouver, Dec. 2.—A sensational story surrounds the mysterious death of a Chinaman, named Ah Chong, who was in jail awaiting trial on a charge of theft. His body was found hanging against a window ledge in the lavatory by the acting jailer and a trusty.

The trusty says that when he touched the body he felt heavily on the prisoner's shoulders, and the trusty says he cut a noose off the Chinaman's neck. The story is that the Chinaman was bowstrung.

Hanged With Clothesline.

New York, Dec. 2.—Despondent over the fact that he had failed to withdraw in time a considerable sum he is said to have had on deposit in the suspended Borough Bank of Brooklyn, George Fruntzen, aged 32, a diamond polisher, committed suicide Saturday night by hanging himself with a piece of clothesline at his home in Brooklyn.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Alexandra. Born at Copenhagen, Dec. 1, 1844.

ARE NOT IN REVOLT.

Reports of Civil War In Portugal Without Foundation.

Lisbon, Dec. 2.—The baseless character of the alarmist rumors representing that Portugal was on the eve of civil war, and revolution has been fully established by the independent investigation of a staff correspondent of the Associated Press.

There never seems to have been the slightest excuse for the stories circulated from the frontier that the King was a prisoner in the castle, that the crown prince had been banished, and that the navy had mutinied.

A strong suspicion exists that such reports were part of a campaign of Premier France's enemies, instituted in order to create distrust abroad in the country's financial position, and thus discredit and bring about the downfall of the Premier at home.

Nothing could be more peaceful than the appearance of the streets, through which the Associated Press correspondent travelled from Madrid to Lisbon. Not the remotest evidence of popular excitement or agitation was observable.

In Lisbon business moves on in the traditional dreamy Portuguese fashion. The King drives and walks daily unattended, and Saturday night occupied his box at the opera. France, the "dictator," also goes abroad unmolested.

REDMOND PRAISES CANADA.

Says Ireland Needs System of Self-Government That Exists Here.

London, Dec. 2.—(C. A. P.)—John Redmond, speaking at Glasgow, drew a direct analogy between the political position of Canada and Ireland. The remedy which made the Dominion prosperous and happy was that which Ireland needed, he said. He pointed out the divergence between the French and British in Canada, was much greater than between the Catholics and Unionists in Ireland, yet Sir Wilfrid Laurier enjoyed the confidence of both the former to a remarkable degree. He expressed his appreciation of Canadian support of home rule for Ireland.

Cunard Line to Canada.

London, Dec. 2.—A correspondent of the Canadian Associated Press, writing from Liverpool, says it is more than probable that the Cunard Co. in the near future will secure a share of the emigration traffic to Canada, as it is understood negotiations are now going on regarding the train and line running steamers direct to Canada. It is believed that the traffic the Cunard Co. seek a share of is confidential.

A Melbourne cable says that Premier Deakin, speaking at the Imperial Federation League, said a motion of the question of the adjustment of relations between the Mother Country and the dominions overseas is necessary and would doubtless be seriously dealt with. In the meantime it was desirable that principles should be laid down.

Fell Dead In Quarrel.

Quebec, Dec. 2.—Theodore Tanguay, an engineer, 60 years old, residing at Wolfe street, Levis, went into a young men's club at Levis Saturday night, about 11 o'clock, and quarrelled with a man named Wagner. During the quarrel he fell heavily on the floor and with Wagner upon him, and when they got up they found that Tanguay was dead.

Zulu Chief Murdered.

Pietermaritzburg, Natal, Dec. 2.—Murders and outrages, including the killing in Zululand of two chiefs who were friendly to Great Britain, are causing uneasiness throughout Natal, and particularly in the border settlements. The governor has issued a proclamation directing that the forces now in Zululand be strengthened and calling on all persons to render assistance, if required in the work of restoration, order.

ENTOMBED IN A MINE

Over Fifty Miners Imprisoned in Naomi Pit at Fayette.

MANY THOUGHT TO BE DEAD

Black Damp Caused Explosion—Miner Carried Naked Light—Tons of Rock and Coal Brought Down—Entrance Entirely Blocked—Eleven Men Shut Off by the Flames In Drytown Mine.

Monongahela, Pa., Dec. 2—Between 50 and 60 miners are entombed in the Naomi mine of the United Coal Co., at Fayette City, as the result of an explosion of black damp, last night.

It is thought many are dead behind tons of rock and coal, which fell during the concussion and blocked the entrance. The explosion was caused, it is said, when a miner with an open lamp entered one of the old workings.

Drytown, Cal., Dec. 2—Eleven miners in the Premier Gover mine are shut off from the surface by a fire which is raging at the 1,100 foot level, and all hope of rescue alive has been abandoned. The miners were working below the 1,100 foot level.

WHIRLED AROUND SHAFT.

Joseph C. Cornett Injured In Owen Sound Cement Mill.

Owen Sound, Dec. 2—A serious accident occurred at the Imperial Cement Works here shortly before 6 o'clock on Saturday evening, as a result of which Joseph C. Cornett, one of the oldest and best employes of the company, is now lying at the General and Marine Hospital in a very precarious condition.

The injured man had occasion to climb on to a platform about sixteen feet from the ground in the coal grinding room when in some manner, as yet unexplained, his clothing caught in the machinery, and in a moment he was whirled around a shaft. His left leg was broken above the knee, his shoulder dislocated, his back and ankle hurt, and fears are entertained that he is injured internally. Never a shred of clothing was torn from his body.

Several other workmen were in the room at the time of the accident, and it is to their prompt action in stopping the machinery that Cornett owes his life. It is only two weeks ago since the injured man's father had his ankle broken by being caught in a belt in the same mill.

THE ELEVATOR DROPPED.

Twenty Persons Crash Down Ten Storeys In Chicago.

Chicago, Dec. 2—Two men are reported killed and six persons are badly injured in a passenger elevator which fell ten floors Saturday in the store of Edelsheimer, Stein & Co., clothiers, 204 Jackson boulevard.

Twenty persons said to have been in the elevator when it fell.

As the elevator left the landing on a downward trip the cable parted and the cage plunged downward, crashing to the bottom of the shaft with a terrific force.

Most of the occupants were employes of firms in the building.

Two bodies were taken out of the car at the bottom of the shaft.

Lion Tamer Attacked.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 2.—In order to smile at the famous Mercedes Lion menagerie, Louis Roth, the young German trainer who does an act with the Roland sisters in the Lion Lair, was careless enough to take his eyes off a lion named Saturday afternoon from Atlas, the surliest lion of the collection, and he suddenly felt his leg being torn by the sharp claws of the beast, which had sprung upon him the moment he was free from his gaze. Just as the lion's claws sunk into his flesh Roth saw the flash of a revolver, and Atlas, finding himself suddenly confronted, sprang under the gaze of Miss Lamonte. She fired two shots in the lion's face.

The pistol shot caused a panic among the big crowd present. As soon as Roth had been rescued Miss Lamonte threw her arms about his neck and fainted.

"We must marry at once, Louis. I cannot wait longer. This life is too dangerous, too much hazard."

St. Mary's Power Bylaw.

St. Mary's, Ont., Dec. 2.—It is announced that a debenture bylaw for $80,000 will be sufficient to cover the cost of a distribution plant here for Niagara power. This is $10,000 less than was first estimated.

SCENE IN THE DOUMA

Russian Premier's Rule Scathingly Condemned.

MAY RESULT IN CHALLENGE

Duel Likely Between Stolypin and Rodichoff — Latter Made Vigorous Attack—Second Drumhead Court-Martial—Mobbed by Reactionaries—Great Tumult In Chamber—Was Apology Offered?

St. Petersburg, Dec. 2.—The "Stolypin Necktie," an expression used by Fedor Rodichoff, the orator of the Constitutional Democrats, in the Douma Saturday afternoon, to designate the summary regime of drumhead courts-martial instituted by Premier Stolypin in August, 1906, and decreed out of existence by the second Douma last April, is the phrase on all lips in the capital. The phrase has already become historic and has completely blotted out the effect of the Ministerial declaration in subsequent debates and destroyed the complacency of the Conservatives, restoring the tense atmosphere of the earlier Douma.

Upon that Stolypin, who, in company with his colleagues, was sitting next to the Speaker's tribune, the words fell as a thunderbolt, recalling the most painful incident of his career as Premier. He turned deathly white, clenched the desk and stared motionless for several minutes at the unprecedented storm let loose by the Reactionaries surging past him. Finally he left the chamber without uttering a word. The Associated Press learns that to the Ministers with him in the pavilion, Mr. Stolypin announced firmly his decision to challenge M. Rodichoff to a duel.

GREAT STORM OF ASHES.

Alaska Covered With Fine, Gritty Ashes From Volcanoes.

Nome, Alaska, Dec. 2.—Nome and practically the entire Seward peninsula are shrouded in an ashy haze, and the ground for miles is covered several inches deep with a fine gritty powder which is believed to be volcanic ash.

Several other volcanoes have been the dust blowing in from the ocean. At first little attention was paid to the freak of nature, as it was expected that it would soon cease. Instead, however, the fall continued, and after a day became so dense as to seriously interfere with outdoor pursuits. Miners coming into town reported that for miles the snow was so impregnated with the ashes that sledding was almost impossible. Further the air is so full of ashes that breathing is difficult, and the fine powder has sifted into houses and business places to such an extent that it is thick on floors and household furniture.

It is believed that some of the numerous volcanic islands between this coast and Siberia are again in eruption, and the ash downpour is the result.

TRACKS UNSAFE.

Railway Trainmen File Complaint Against the Missouri Pacific.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The brotherhood of Railway Trainmen has filed with the Postmaster-General a complaint against the Missouri Pacific Railway Co. for maintaining tracks that are alleged to be unsafe.

In view of the fact that the lives of postal employes may be endangered by reason of the rapid running of trains over unsafe roadbeds, the Postmaster-General is urged to make an investigation of the charges.

The complaint has been referred to the second Assistant Postmaster-General.

Tried to Wreck Train.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Wm. Leffair, Michael Fryer and Frank Roberts, aged, respectively, 20, 14 and 12 years, was before the county jail grand jury, charged with having attempted to wreck a New York Central passenger train at a curve a mile east of the city. A section hand flagged the train after he had discovered that railroad spikes had been driven between the rail joints.

Speaker Cannon Re-nominated.

Washington, Dec. 2.—In the caucus of the Republican members of the House Saturday night, Speaker Cannon was re-nominated for Speaker. All the old members of the House were renominated. The caucus refused to seat Peter A. Meier of the 9th New York district, who was elected as an independent.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! For a remedy that will strengthen the weakened digestive organs, purify the blood and generally put the system in a healthy condition so that I can now safely kill the pains and pangs of this dreadful disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Berlin, I spent years in study and research, during which time Hoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without what I call an experiment, I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, Rheumatism yields to my treatment. Hoop's Rheumatic Remedy—prepared from simple ingredients, easily found in Rheumatic blood—is fast becoming a household word, because of this remedy's ability to do more good than other medicines, and, that, when taken, it does not remove the pain only, but, it does remove the cause—the Rheumatic poison—from the blood. This is why I can now safely kill the pains and pangs of this dreadful disease.

Thawing Dynamite.

Cobalt, Dec. 2.—P. M. Mallory, employed by the Davis Silver Mining Co., came down from Englehart on Saturday, and brought some details of a serious blasting accident, which happened on Friday at Bell's Cut, about four miles north of Boston station. Three Italians, engaged on rock work there, were thawing dynamite when it exploded, killing one man instantly and fatally injuring another. The third was also badly injured, but was able to walk.

Infant Found Dead.

Winnipeg, Dec. 2.—A young woman who came to Maidstone recently and endeavored to earn a livelihood by dressmaking was confined in her rooms without the knowledge of any one about a few weeks ago, and the dead body of the infant has been found in her trunk by accident by a woman who was doing her washing. Death was due either to asphyxiation or neglect, it is alleged, and is being detained by the police, pending further investigation.

Copper Dividend Declared.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 2.—The Calumet and Arizona Mining Co. declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share Saturday as compared with $5 three months ago. The heavy cut is said to be due to the drop in the price of copper and inability to sell the product readily.

JAP LABOR WAS FOR C. P. R.

Reason Disclosed For Rush of Asiatics to Canada.

Vancouver, Dec. 2.—Drafts of fresh war contracts now in force between Gotch and six corporations for the supply of Japanese labor were presented at the closing session Saturday of Commissioner King's investigation.

The two principal ones were those signed by Governor Dunsmuir for the Wellington Coal Co. and that of the C. P. R. The others were Macdonell, Gowski & Co., British Columbia General Contract Co. and two saw mills. Gotch made a hard fight against the presentation of these contracts, but it was urged that unless he presented them Governor Dunsmuir, Manager Bell of the C. P. R., and others would be called to testify. In the contract for the Wellington colliery, 500 miners are to be employed, the total wages being paid to the Canadian Nippon Co., at a rate from $1.35 to $1.90 per day. The Canadian Nippon Co. is to receive $5 for each man supplied. An agreement with the C. P. R. is in force, lasting till 1919, at similar wages, the Japs being entitled to free transportation and low freight rates. Here is a summary of the results of the investigation, although Commissioner King's report probably will not be ready for a week.

That no one is promoting a Chinese or Hindu immigration scheme. Japanese Association is responsible for the Japs. Gotch, agent of the Canadian Nippon Co. frankly admits having brought in 1,400 laborers, mostly supplied to the Wellington Colliery Co., 15 to the British Columbia General Contracting Co., and over one thousand to the C. P. R.

GREATER OTTAWA.

Eight Thousand People Will Be Added to the Capital.

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—The boundaries of Ottawa will be largely extended in the near future. Ottawa East has just agreed to annexation with the city on terms of fixed assessment for eight years, and no bonus of improvements. Rideauville and Ottawa South decided Saturday upon annexation if the terms can be arranged. Today Hintonburg will pass upon the question, and there is little doubt that it will be carried.

The additional population to the city will be about 8,000, but these suburbs are remarkably progressive and have been growing fast this last few years.

BOILERS EXPLODED.

Two Men Killed and Railway Station Wrecked.

Brunswick, Me., Dec. 2.—The boilers of the heating apparatus at the Maine Central Railroad station exploded early this morning, blowing the roof entirely off the station and reducing the building to a mass of wreckage. The bodies of Walter Harris, car inspector, and William Wood, worth, night baggagemaster, were found in the ruins. The station staff of twelve men, who were all but eight years ago at a cost of about $20,000. The explosion forced Mr. Woodworth was attending to a hot water furnace in the basement. The exact cause of the explosion is not known.

Japan Receives Report.

Tokio, Dec. 2.—Baron Ichiji, chief of the Bureau of Commerce of the Japanese Foreign Office, left for the United States and Canada for the purpose of investigating the immigration question, arrived here yesterday and conferred with the officials of the Foreign Office. He stated he engaged in a thorough canvass of the situation in the United States. In an interview, Baron Ishii said:—"My visit to the United States and Canada proves to me that the opposition to the Japanese is based partly upon race prejudice, though considerable of it is due to labor troubles instigated by agitators. I found Japanese residents in the United States, and those who resent the incoming of their countrymen from the Hawaiian Islands and Mexico, which is illicit to Mikado. It is proper for Japanese to conserve the interests of their countrymen in foreign lands, and, if there are any, to protect them. I, in my opinion, it will be necessary, in order to keep absolutely faith with the United States to prevent immigration of laborers thitherto adopted, or, because an extension and is not disagreeable. We should send laborers to Mexico, Hawaiian Islands, etc. The Foreign Office is now engaged in investigating the representations of the United States ambassador concerning the character and number of Japanese laborers.

"The indications are that the Japanese Government will be formal but verbal assurances of a future rigid exclusion of all that can be termed strictly labor immigration to the United States, being careful also to limiting the number moving for Canada.

Man Stabbed at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Dec. 2.—There was a serious stabbing affray shortly after o'clock Saturday night in the Italian colony on Rabey street. As a man was going to Midio, 17 Railway street, is in the hospital with a stab wound received in his left side, and his neighbor, D. Dominick, who lives at 19 Railway street, is in the jail, charged with making the wound.

The police have not yet been able to learn what the trouble was about, as neither of the principals can speak English. Constable Duncan was summoned to the place about 8 o'clock. He found Midio lying at his home, weak from the loss of blood. The wounded man directed Dominick as his assailant.

Franco-Canadian Treaty.

London, Dec. 2.—(C. A. P.)—Prof. Hewins, secretary of the Tariff Reform League, circulates in the press a lengthy analysis of the Franco-Canadian treaty. He points out that Canada in a number of instances has made British trade rates altogether, materially reducing the preference. He criticises the Canadian government clauses and emphasizes how the entering into the composition of his widely celebrated letter. Thus he has taken his summary of clauses and paragraphs into his full conference. Thus too he has removed the medicines from among merchandise of doubtful merits, and made the medicines of known composition.

By his bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his Favorite Prescription is confident that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest criticism.

Not only does the Wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver and bowels, and for all those diseases of internal nature, but have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all its ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous medical works, containing a full and complete extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing its use in stronger possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free on receipt of stamps to pay postage, addressed to Dr. Pierce, in Dr. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral poisons or habit-forming drugs, and that he does not claim to cure Consumption, but only medical roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, sick, ailing women, are those recommended and prescribed, years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Prescription, was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of this and other most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians. Thus, the Dr. Pierce's Prescription is a scientific medicine, for regulating, strengthening, invigorating and quieting the nervous prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, accompanied by painful backache, bearing-down pains and irritating about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

"Will you excuse me a moment?" he said, and as she looked at him he noticed a tired himself but he noticed a trace of anxiety in her eyes. He fore open the missive.

"By Jove!" he cried.

"What is it?" she could not prevent herself from saying, leaning forward.

"I am ordered home. The admiralty commands me to take the first steamer for England."

"Is that serious?"

He laughed with well feigned hilarity.

"Oh, no, not serious; it's just their way of doing things. They might easily have allowed me to come home in my own ship. My only four is I shall have to take the train for New York early tomorrow morning. But," he said, holding out his hands, "it is not serious if you allow me to write to you and if you will permit me to hope that I may receive an answer."

She placed her hand in his, this time without hesitation.

"You may write," she said, "and I will reply. I trust it is not serious."

CHAPTER V.

IN midafternoon of the day following the entertainment on board the Consternation our two girls were seated opposite one another under the rafters of the sewing room in the listless, desultory manner of those who have not quite home till morning, till daylight did appear. The dominant note of a summer cottage is the rocking chair, and there were two in the sewing room, where Katherine and Dorothy swayed greatly back and forth as they talked. They sat close to the low, broad window sill, presented so beautiful a picture of the blue bay and the white shipping. The Consternation lay moored with her broadside toward the town, all sign of festivity already removed from hull and rigging, and to the scarcely slumber satisfied eyes of the girls something of the sadness of departure seemed to hang as a base around the great ship. The girls were not discussing the past, but rather anticipating the future, forecasting it, with long, silent pauses intervening.

"So you will not stay with us? You are determined to turn your wealthy back on the poor Kempt family?" Katherine was saying.

"But I shall return to the Kempt family now and then, if they will let me. I must get away for a time and think. My life has suddenly become all topsy turvy, and I need to get my bearings, as does a ship that has been driven a storm and had her rudder broken."

"She dunno where she are,' as the song says.

"Exactly. That is the state of things."

"I think it's too bad, Dorothy, that you did not ever tell us more about the announcement of your good fortune. Just imagine what an ovation you would have had on board the yacht last night if it had been known that the richest woman in Canada was aboard, a pretty, shy little creature sitting all by herself, and never indulging in even one dance."

"I abouldn't in the least care for that sort of ovation, Kate, and if every one present were as real friends as the festivities as I, they must all have enjoyed themselves immensely. I believe my friend Kate did my share of the dancing as well as her own."

"She danced, and she danced, and she danced them a' din.' I think these are the words of the Scottish song that the prince quoted. He seems up in Scottish poetry and does not even regret being called a Scotchman. The energetic person of the song seems to have danced them all to a standstill, and I understand him, for I believe one 'a' means 'all' and 'din' means 'dose,' but I told him I'd rather learn Russian than Scotch; it was so much easier, and his highness was good enough to laugh at that. Didn't the lieutenant ask you to dance at all?"

"Oh, yes, he did."

"And you refused?"

"I refused."

"I didn't think he had sense enough to ask a girl to dance."

"You are ungrateful, Katherine. Remember he introduced you to the prince."

"Yes, that's so. I had forgotten. I shall never say anything against him again."

"You like the prince, then?"

"Of all the crowned heads, emperors, kings, sultans, monarchs of every description, dukes, counts, earls, marquises, whom I have met and who have persisted my life taking me to share their royal perquisites I think I may say quite truthfully that I like this Jack Lamont better than any one of them."

"Surely Prince Jack has not offered you his principality already?"

"No, not yet, but with an eye to the future I have persuaded him to give up Austria and read Mark Twain, who is not only equally humorous but much more sensible than the Russian writer. Just, dear, not be allowed to give away his estates to the peasants as his silly sister has done. I may need them later on."

"Oh, you've got that far, have you?" "I have got that far. He hasn't, he doesn't know anything about it, but I'll wake him up when the right time comes. There are many contingencies. I'm sanity about him. He told me that he intended to give up his estates, but in the first place he had been too busy and in the second he needed the money. His good sense, however, repaired reflining, so that to may get rid of the dross. I don't blame him; I blame Tolstoi. For instance, when I asked him if he had patented his liquid city invention he said he had not and wish to make a profit from his discovery, but intended it for the good of humanity at large. Imagine such an idiotic idea as that!"

"I think such views are entirely to his credit," affirmed Dorothy.

"Oh, of course, but the plan is not practicable. If he allows such an invention to slip through his fingers, the Standard Oil people will likely get it, and, of it, form a monopoly, and then where would humanity at large be? I tell him the right way is to patent it, make all the money he can and use the cash for benefiting humanity under the direction of some suitable person like myself."

"Did you suggest that to him?"

"I did not intimate who the sensible person was, but I elucidated the principle of the thing."

"Yes. And what did he say?"

"Many things, Dorothy, many things. At one time he became sentimental about his possessions in foreign lands. He seems to owe several castles, and when he visits any of them he cannot prevent the noujiks, if that is the proper term for the peasants, from over there, from prostrating themselves on the ground as he passes by, beating their foreheads against the earth and chanting in choice Russian the phrase: 'Defer, defer. Here comes the lord high executioner,' or words to that effect. I told him I didn't see why he should interfere with so picturesque a custom, and he said if I visited one of his castles that these estimable people at a word from him would form a corduroy road in the mud with their bodies, so that I might step dry shod from the carriage to the castle doors, and I suggested that he should at least spread a bit of stair carpet over the poor wretches before I made my progress across that foul yard."

"Well, you did become confidential if you discussed a visit to Russia."

"Yes, didn't we? I suppose you don't approve of my forward conduct?"

"I am sure you acted with the utmost prudence, Kate."

"I didn't lose any time, though, did I?" "I don't know how much time is required to attain the point of friendship you reached. I am inexperienced. It is true I have proposed to a first sight, and I am merely waiting to be told whether or not this is an instance of it."

"Oh, you are very difficient, aren't you, sitting there as demure as a glass on the next floor. Won't you come down and see him trampled on?"

"No, thank you. I shall most likely drop off to sleep and enjoy forty winks in this very comfortable chair. Don't be too harsh with the young man, Kate. You are quite wrong in your surmises when you may look surprised, but I'm telling the truth. After I walked so proudly off with his high mightiness we had a most agreeable dance together. Then I proposed to return to the ship, but the young man would not have it so, and for the moment I felt flattered. By and by I became aware, however, that it was not because of my company he avoided your vicinity, but that he was sacrificing himself for his friend."

"What friend?"

"Lieutenant Drummond, of course."

"How was he sacrificing himself for Lieutenant Drummond?"

"I surmise that the tall lieutenant did not fall a victim to my wiles as I had at first supposed, but, in some inconceivable manner, one can never tell how these things happen. He was most anxious to be left alone with the coy Miss Dorothy Amburst, who does not understand how long a time it takes to fall in love at first sight, although she has read of these things, dear, innocent girl. The first villain of the piece has said to the second villain of the piece: 'There's a superfluous young woman over on our bench; I'll introduce you to her. You lure her off to the gaiety dance and keep her away as long as you can, and I'll do as much for you some day.'

"Whereupon Jack Lamont probably swore—I understand that profanity is sometimes distressingly prevalent aboard ship—but nevertheless he allowed the lieutenant to lead him like a lamb to the slaughter. Well, not being powerful enough to throw him overboard when I realized the state of the case, I did the next best thing. I became cloyingly sweet to him. I smiled upon him; I listened to his fargrags of nonsense about the chemical components of his various notable inventions, as if a girl attends a ball to study chemistry! Before half an hour had passed the infant had come to the conclusion that here was the first really sensible woman he had ever met. He soon got to making love to me, as the horrid phrase goes, as if I were a mixture to be compounded of this ingredient and that, and then shaken before taken. I am delighted to add, as a testimony to my own powers of pleasing, that Jack soon forgot he was a sacrifice, and, really, with a little instruction he would become a most admirable flirt. He is coming to call upon me this afternoon, and then he will get his eyes opened. I shall tread on him as if he were one of his own moujiks."

"What a wonderful imagination you have, Kate. All you have said is pure fancy. I saw he was taken with you from the very first. He never even glanced at me."

"Of course not; he wasn't allowed to."

"Nonsense, Kate. If I thought for a moment you were really in earnest I should say you underestimate your own attractions."

"Oh, that's all very well, Miss Dorothy Dimple. You are trying to draw red herring across the trail because you know that what I want to hear is why Lieutenant Drummond was so anxious to get me somewhere else. What use did he make of the opportunity the good natured prince and my sweet complacency afforded him?"

"He said nothing which might not have been overheard by any one."

"Come down to partierlars, Dorothy, and let me judge. You are so inexpe-

"I don't just remember"—

"No, I thought you wouldn't. Did he talk of himself or of you?"

"Of himself, of course. He told me why he was going to Russia and spoke of some checks he had met in his profession."

"Ah! Did he cash them?"

"Obstacles, difficulties that were in his way, which he hoped to overcome."

"Oh, I see. And did you extend that sympathy which"—

"There was a knock at the door, and you said come in, bearing in mind, dear, that I'm alone in this room, and it's a sewing and sitting room too. Do I look all right, Dorothy?"

"To me you seem perfection."

"Ah, well I am going to take a glass on the next floor. Won't you come down and see him trampled on?"

"No, thank you. I shall most likely drop off to sleep and enjoy forty winks in this very comfortable chair. Don't be too harsh with the young man, Kate. EDITORIAL NOTES.

For the ten years ending March 31st, 1907, Canada's exports of home manufactures increased from $10,470,749 to $28,279,019. This is a great showing to the face of greatly increased demands from a greatly widened and quickened home market.

Montreal Herald: Before Mr. Sellars, in Canada and the Witness gets made up their minds what is at the bottom of the replacement of Welsh Protestants by Catholic French-Canadians in the township, it might be worth while to see whether there is any material difference between that and the displacement of Scotch Catholics by French-Canadians in Glengarry. There doesn't seem to be any very dark mysterious explanations of very natural occurrences!

Mr. Whitney is still showing about what he did to Laurier's good friend. Maybe it is more comfortable dwelling upon that than thinking what fate Mr. Hyatt Nesbitt may be concocting for him.

Mr. Borden, in his Ottawa speech, showed much indignation with those who suggest that he had anything to do with the distribution of election funds. If he really feels that way about it, why doesn't he ask Mr. Hazelrigg Graham to publish the letter he mentioned, which they concerned each other so closely.

Canadian Courier: Do you notice the loud and enthusiastic silence which has followed the acceptance of the nomination in Peterboro of Sir Hugh Dupper? There are a lot of men who would rather hear of the nomination of young Master Dupper than of the nomination of Premier in the year 1927.

ELECTRIC LIGHT IN PETERBORO.

67c. Per Month for 10 Lights, or 7c Per Month Per Light.

A reader sent the following note to the Toronto Globe a few days ago:

In a prominent place in Peterboro' I see you intimate that the rate of nine dollars a year for light is impossible. I beg to inform you that I had a contract for years with the Peterborough Light and Power Co. to light my house with ten sixteen candle power lamps for $9.3 years, less 10 per cent. for prompt payment. The rate noted me $7.8ninia per month for ten lights, 40 watts each of less than 7 cents a month for each light. Some of my neighbors, who used a large number of lamps, had an even lower price. You see by this that such a rate is possible.

The Globe says it is looking for just such facts as are presented by the writer. Is there any other place in Ontario where ten lamps of 16 candle power can be had for $8.70 per year? It would seem as if Peterboro' is for a spin in a close by itself.

RUGBY

RALLY SNOWED UNDER

Peterborough rugby team, champions of Ontario, run up against a real rough thing on Saturday when they meeted the Montreal team, champions of the inter-provincial series. In the latter city, the score being 72 to 16. The visitors made a sort of holiday in the opening play, but after that they were hopelessly outplayed, the splendid combination of 72 of the home team not withstanding. The weather conditions were unfavorable, the turf being frozen and the day miserably cold. However, the boys got their $500 and will now be able to close their season with a clean sheet.

HOCKEY

THE GAME ON ROLLERS

The match on Wednesday evening next on Lindsay Roller Rink, between Uptonians and Lindsay teams, is expected to prove the most interesting and spectacular event ever witnessed in the town. Hockey on rollers is something new in Lindsay at any rate; and unexpected developments may be looked forward to with confidence. Leon Koyl will have a good team of fast skaters, while the Uptonians boys, having played the game before, will be backed with all kinds of confidences. It will be a great game beyond a doubt.

If the necessary financial support can be obtained a Manitoba International league team will tour Canada and the States.

The ice will be with us in a short time, and it won't be long until the O.H.A. grouping will be made known. It will be like old times to see Lindsay in a group with Peterboro, Port Hope and Port Perry.

Leonard Nesbitt, recently on The Post staff, but now doing reporting work on The Express, Woodstock, was elected secretary of the junior O.H.A. Club. Nesbitt is getting his hand in all right, all right.

"Buck" Irving, our old townsman the who captained the local septette the year "Hadds" Black and Jack Kennedy were on the line-up, is very enthusiastic over the new Canadian pro league, and he is devoting much valuable time to the furtherance of his schemes. "Buck" can be safely called the father of the professional game in Lindsay. He will play on the defence again this season.

Lindsay Post: Cobalt will be said with Corbeau behind him, and three or four Hamilton Falls players in front of him. "Buck" should have a winning seven.

ODDS AND ENDS OF SPORT.

SELLEN WON IT.

The Royal Canadian Bicycle Club (Toronto) twin mile Marathon race on Saturday, Nov. 23, for the Cameron Cup was won by Percy Sellen, of the R.C.C., in 5.53 2-5, with W. G. Hood, of the Central Y.M.C.A., second, in 56.52 4-5.

Edward Payson Weston says he derives his strength from a prune diet. That accounts for the agility and strength of the star boarder in plodding the Bradley on pay day.

Winnipeg Telegram: A. G. Galbraith, for consistent bowling, can be counted on to lead the league in Winnipeg. On November 21, in seven consecutive games, he made 223,230, 220, 207, 212, 204, 252, respectively, while his last four days' run of 200 and over at the Strand alleys bowling lists he passed that mark twenty-four times.

Mr. George O'Neil, proprietor of the Tecumseh house at London, and well and favorably known in Lindsay, has donated a handsome silver trophy to the Thistle Curling Club, of London, to be played for in the club bonspiel this winter.

Sporting Life: Joe Kelley is enjoying the winter at Baltimore, and just now is keeping his ear close to the ground, hoping to hear a rumbling started at Boston when President George H. Dovey makes his final effort.

Herb Clarke, pioneer bicycle rider, of Woodstock, passed Saturday at Vancouver. He landed the first high wheel championship of the world, and for several years was the star at all W. A. A. A. meets, seating all comers with ease.

J. B. Taylor, crack runner of the University of Pennsylvania, who is believed to be the fastest quarter-mile man in the United States, has been made the victim of spite and jealousy. The A. A. U. has adopted a rule devised by a southern lawyer which permits Taylor to run in intercollegiate meets, but bars him from all other competitions. At the Louisiana Exposition Taylor defeated every man who went against him and was hissed. The NNorfolk and Richmond associations withdrew from the A. A. U. because it permitted his entry. There was no objection except as to his color. Are a quarter-miler he is absolutely without a rival. In his first year he set the intercollegiate record at 49 1-5, and last year he made it 48 4-5.

MOVEMENT FOR THE UNION OF ALL PROTESTANT BODIES

Rev. W. Herald Stacey, of Toronto, is Busy Securing Signatures to a Petition, and Expects to Cover the Province.

Mr. Binn, a student from Albert College, Belleville, arrived in town Saturday in connection with the Church Union Evangelistic Movement, of which Rev. W. Herald Stacey, of Toronto, is general secretary. The intention is to secure endorsers in favor of the union of all Protestant denominations.

THE PETITION

Following is a copy of the petition, which is being presented for signatures:

"Believing that a closer union among all Christian denominations would mean a great saving of money, remove the cause of many sectarian disputes; make easier the conversion of the unsaved, and fulfil the prayer of Christ for Christian unity; we, the inter-denominational workers of the Church Union Movement express gratitude to your honorable body for the active steps you have already taken in the matter and express the hope that you will continue your efforts until the best possible unity among Christian denominations is obtained."

EXTENSION OF THE WORK

Speaking of Mr. Stacey, the Toronto News of Oct. 5th, 1907, says:

"Rev. W. Herald Stacey, of this city, General Secretary of the Church Union Evangelistic Movement, has just completed an important canvas of Toronto and suburbs, securing the names of about twenty thousand endorsers to a petition which advocates the union of all Protestant denominations, and which in due time will be presented to the highest council of Anglican, Baptist and other denominations in the long list of members are to be found many prominent business and professional men. The number includes over 4,000 Anglicans, 5,000 Methodists, 4,000 Presbyterians, and 2,000 Baptists. The rest are Congregationalists and others. Plans are made for the extension of the work during the coming year throughout the Province of Ontario. With the aid of speakers, canvassers and other helpers, the number of names will be increased at least 100,000, and local secretaries of the movement will also be appointed in the towns and cities visited. Meanwhile a Toronto Committee will act as the General Secretary in planning a great rally, to be held in Massey Hall on some date next September or October."

Under Mr. Stacey's personal effort the petition was endorsed in Toronto by over twenty thousand persons, many of whom were prominent business, professional men and a good list of clergymen.

The present aim is to secure at least one hundred thousand endorsers throughout the Province of Ontario, and after a great rally, which will be held in Massey Hall, Toronto, next September, the petition will be presented to the highest councils of the different denominations.

The movement is not connected with the proposed union between the Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists, but embraces all the Protestant denominations.

Canada as a Dumping Ground.

The following extract from a late English paper shows the tendency of poor law guardians, magistrates and others in authority to get rid of "undesirables" by shipping them to Canada. The item states; It was reported at a meeting of Windsor guardians yesterday that an able-bodied young couple and family of five children had been inmates of the workhouse for nearly two years, and were costing the ratepayers a hundred pounds per annum. The guardian said that these people had better than nine of ten families in the village of Old Windsor. The master said that the man was employed in whitewashing and his wife in the nursery. It was stated that the reason the family did not go out was that no one in Windsor would lend them a house, as they never paid rent. The clerk said the case is perfect. FIRE IN THE EAST WARD.

Stable Destroyed on Queen-st.—Incendiarism Suspected.

This morning about 5.45 Driver Beall, of the Fire Department, received a telephone message stating that there was a fire over on the east ward. He rang the alarm at that hour and started over to the fire, which proved to be a barn away out on Queen-st., owned by Mr. Geo. Fate.

The place was practically gutted when the team arrived, and it was no use stretching the hose. The men stood by till the danger was over and then returned to the hall. The alarm had not been in for about two weeks, and owing to the sudden and complete destruction of the place, incendiarism is thought to have been the cause. Mr. Fate carried a small amount of insurance on the building.

Of honor, dignity and dought;

To do the work I have to do,
And do it in a cheerly way;
To earn so much as I may need
For my own wants and my kin and poor,
To win, perhaps, a cheering word
From her whose grace I manifest;
To do not hurt by thoughtless speech;

Guelph College Judging Team Won Out in Chicago.

This morning Mr. F. H. Reed, Agricultural Master at the Collegiate Institute received a telegram from President G. C. Creelman, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, stating that the Guelph team had again won the International Live Stock Judging Contest Trophy, being first in sheep and second in cattle and swine.

This victory was won in competition with eight of the best American Colleges at the Chicago Fat Stock Show, and since it is the third time the $300 trophy has been won by the O. A. C., it means that the College now has permanent possession of it.

Mr. Reed was a member of the Guelph team three years ago.

—Mr. Bert Menzies, as treasurer of the gymnasium committee, is looking after the sale of tickets for the gymnasium men's banquet. The banquet and meeting for gentlemen on Wednesday evening will be addressed by C. H. Ashley, physical director of the West End Y.M.C.A. Toronto. ROLLER HOCKEY

The first game of Roller Hockey ever played in Lindsay will be played at the Roller Rink on Wednesday night of this week between the fast Roller Hockey Team from Peterboro, and Lindsay's fast team. This should prove to be a very fast and exciting game. The team that will play against Peterboro on Wedne-day night will be the same boys who have entered into the intermediate class on ice for the coming season, and we expect them to give a good account of themselves before the season closes.

Every person should turn out on Wednesday night to see this game and to help the boys along. As this is a benefit for the Hockey Team, they should get a good start off for the season.

We expect the Mayor and Town Council to be present, and the Mayor will place the ball for the first Roller Hockey ever seen in Lindsay.

The rinks will open at 7.45, skating until 8.30, then the Hockey for 20 minutes each way, and there will be skating until 10.30 with Band in attendance.

As the Peterboro rink is closed now we will have all skates here for that night. Every person who comes to see the Hockey game Wednesday night will get skates free.

A Decayine Party

(Bible Class Correspondent)

The "grand old party," of the Macdonalds, and Tuppers and Thompsons surely has fallen far when it has to present to the electors of Colchester such leaders as the Fowler-Ritchie-Bute outfit who performed in Truro yesterday. Such a spectacle has never been witnessed in the history of the Conservative party of Nova Scotia before. No wonder the organs of the Opposition are wailing about the "dearth of leaders."

DIGBY.

What's the matter with Digby? It's all right, but our correspondent has gone to sleep. (The farmers around here have all their roots stored away and most of their ploughing done.

Miss Martha Armstrong visited friends here on Tuesday.

Mrs. T. Fitzgerald, who has been on the sick list for some time, is now to be out again.

Most of the boys around here are gone to the north camps.

Our school has opened again with a large attendance. Some of our people do not realize what an important influence upon their children a school teacher may have. Most of us think that all children need from us is a little reading, writing and arithmetic. We never stop to consider how her association will influence their lives. We never think of the effect she has on them, morally and socially, but as a matter of fact it is perfectly possible for a school teacher to do more harm than good unless her moral and social influence upon the children is of the right kind. We want for our children one who not only has a good education, but is also in sympathy with farmers and farm life. School teachers who are continually giving their pupils purely visions of city life and running down the farm, are one of the greatest curses evils with which farmers have to put up. See that your district has the right kind of teacher, one who loves the country and who will inspire in your children a love for it too. If they don't love it now, invite her for our home, that you may know her, and she may know your children better, keep her in sympathy with farm life by helping her enjoy it. If you can get this kind of a teacher, and will treat her as she ought way, she will have an influence for good upon your children far beyond what you have ever before realized a teacher could have.

UPHILL

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

This place was favoured last week with a visit from his honour Judge Harding, accompanied by County Solicitor McDiarmid, and our own (Bob) B. J. McLaughlin, barrister, etc. all of Lindsay. The reason of the unexpected visit was in connection with the trouble arising over the last valuation of the county, which was appealed against by a number of the northern township, and which His Honor is trying to adjust, and in order to do so intelligently, decided to see the general character of the north townships. It was a very commendable undertaking, but a laborious one for Judge Harding. However, his Honor seemed to enjoy his drive greatly.

The weather has been unusually fine lately for this season of the year, which will shorten the winter some one save feed, which is of great importance this winter, besides allowing people a great chance to complete their fall ploughing and other necessary work.

The collectors are the order of the day. They report little trouble in collecting.

We notice from reports of deer hunting parties that in some parts deer are plentiful. This has not been so in this part. Parties who hunted north of here (except in Longford) report deer as being very scarce, some parties who hunted the whole season not even getting one shot, others only one, whilst others more fortunate got their full complement. There is some talk of asking the government to prohibit hunting of deer in the northern part of Victoria for a number of years in order that they may have time to become extinct in this locality.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST

Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made on the money on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties on one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by residing on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined to mean not more than nine miles in direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A home-tender intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

The Best is the Kind We Sell.

JUST A WORD WITH YOU.

If you want a good Suit for the Winter, or a good Black or Blue Beaver Overcoat, a Medium cloth, buy it at a reliable place and pay a fair and proper price for it. Buy it at a store where they sell at the same price to everybody. This is the only fair and honest way to sell goods. The fellow that wants to have "get something off," when he buys a suit, always gets it at his price, but he pays more. He pays $3.00 or more the suit is worth. Look out for the clothier who says "the regular price of this suit is $15.00 but you can have it for $12.00 as you always trade here." Watch him! Yes, watch the salesman, who talks to you in this manner, for he throws out the same bait to everybody. $10.00 would buy the same suit at a one-price store. When you buy a suit take its quality into consideration and not how much the merchant pretended to come down from the regular price for if he asks you the right price in the first place he can't come down at all. Now if you are ready to buy an Overcoat or a Suit of Clothes you can save money by calling and doing business with me. If I do not please you with the goods, your money is cheerfully refunded.

THE OLD AGE LIMIT.

Odor and his 60-year-old theory doesn't cut very much ice when we consider that he was defeated by Weston, the veteran walker. The old man's wonderful walk must be looked upon as the most remarkable athletic feat of the decade.

HE'S DREAMING.

Shrubb is certainly the limit, frankly in a Boston paper he was credited with winning an hide of yet hope two columns in length under the caption "How I defeated Lord Desborough." Shrubb says he will of now be defeated the Indian in numerous trials. Shrubb never raced with Longboat, as a matter of fact.

Joseph J. Lee, of Somerville, Mass., retained his claim to the New England amateur cross country championship by winning the New England cross country run at Lynn on Thursday covering the distance in 57 minutes. Lee was the only Canadian in the best round-the-bay race at Hamilton.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Dean Farthing, of Kingston, in a recent address on temperance said:

Intemperance literally meant self-control. The term temperance was generally used in a restricted sense of prohibition or total abstinence. It was not necessarily so, as there was as much need of temperance in eating and in speech as in drinking. It is so very easy to say let us banish drink from our land, but let the question come, it comes back to us, is it right to do so? Drinking or eating is not in itself a sin, but the abuse or use of it is where the wrong comes in. The thing itself may not be wrong. We say this by our blessed Lord himself. He drank wine and turned water into wine. We dare to say, too, that the wine was not fermented. So we must not be carried away with the idea that drinking is a crime. If we are, we may do more harm than we can do good. Every effort to make it such fails, as we see by the consumers being so seldom willing to come forward and assist in the prosecutions. There seems to be a feeling that one's liberty is being trampled upon, on when the drink problem is affected. But the fear that the traffic would not be permitted to interfere with our own personal safety nor to prove a stumbling block in our brother's way. It would if it stead be much better to put restrictions upon ourselves for the proof of the contrary and for the benefit of others. No drunkard can inherit the kingdom of God.

NEW CURE FOR CATARRH.

Post Readers Have a Chance to Try it on Money-Back Plan.

Since nobody knows when people have suffered from indigestion, sick headache, blackening, dizzy spells, dyspepsia after eating, sleeplessness, and many other symptoms of stomach trouble, and have found the usual remedies powerless.

(At last a prescription called Mi-o-na stomach tablets is offered to the misery processor and general public as a final solution of curing stomach troubles. Mi-o-na is so far ahead of anything else made it, in the last few years, the acknowledged sensation in to-day.

Indigestion, which is so common a trouble, is the principal cause of a great share of the general poor health. It has misleading symptoms that seemingly have no reference to the stomach, such as headaches, backaches, nervous symptoms, etc. These conditions, if neglected, become chronic and hard to shake off.

Mi-o-na acts on the whole digestive system, Mi-o-na, and you will soon find that the stomach and bowels do their work as they should. There will be no distress after eating, and the refuse will be expelled from the system, without the aid of physic.

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results. Write for free sample, addressing Dodd's Drugless Box 977, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Skin in Winter.

The condition of the skin during the cold weather has an important bearing on the general health. The skin is more than a mere covering for the body. By means of tiny pores it helps to purify the system, and unless cared for, the damp, raw days of winter will impair its functions, cause cracking and chaps, and sow the first seeds of skin disease.

THE WEST POINT CHAIN.

It Was Nearly a Mile In Length and Weighed Almost 200 Tons.

From an ironmaker's point of view the greatest achievement during the Revolutionary period was the making of the great West Point chain. This massive chain, which has probably never had an equal since the first hammer struck upon the first anvil, was stretched across the Hudson river at West Point to prevent the British fleet from making a second attack upon Kingston and Albany. It was nearly a mile in length and weighed almost 200 tons, many single links being as heavy as an ordinary sized man. To complete it in six weeks sixty men hammered day and night at seventeen forges, and the cost of it was placed at $400,000. "The great chain is bound up," writes Dr. Tucker, "by very large logs, pointed at the ends to lessen their opposition to the force of the current. The logs are placed at short distances from each other, the chain carried over them and made fast to each by staples. There are also a number of anchors dropped at proper distances, with cables made fast to the chain, to give it greater stability." No British ship passed this iron barrier. With the old West Point became the strongest military post in America—so strong that treachery was tried where force of arms had failed. When Benedict Arnold was plotting the surrender of West Point he wrote Andre and said, "I have ordered that a link be removed from the great chain and taken to the smith for repair." The chain, however, remained in place till the end of the war, and links of it are still to be seen in the museums of Albany, West Point, Newburg and New York.—Exchange.

SPORTING NOTES.

The fastest mile by a trotter in California this season was made by Fresno Girl, 2:30¼.

Charley Murphy has again failed in his attempt to secure the reinstatement of Outfielder Sebring.

At the University of California the rule preventing freshmen from playing on the varsity football team has been abolished.

Arthur Caville, the Australian swimmer, was successful recently in swimming across Golden Gate, San Francisco, and beat the record of his brother, Sydney, making the distance in 1 hour 18 minutes.

Since 1897, when Harvard and Yale came together after their break, Yale has won eight games, scoring ninety-one points. Harvard has won two games, scoring thirty-nine points, and there have been two 0 to 0 games.

Fielder Jones says: "No conditions could be framed which would induce me to play ball another year. I am through forever. I have been in the game a long while and have come to the point where I must quit and work for myself."

The Prince of Wales, who witnessed the tennis doubles match for the Davis cup on July 22 last, has presented the All English Lawn Tennis club with a silver cup to be held for a year by the winner of the all comers singles in the contests for the championship of the world, as provided for under the rules governing the Davis cup competitions.

The Onion Knife.

After using a knife to pare onions drop it in cold water and leave until the dishes are washed, then wash with hot soapsuds, and no odor will be noticed. This rule holds good for utensils in which fish have been cooked. Scouring soaps will not remove disagreeable odors from knives and dishes, but this simple method never fails.

Some Remarks on Things in General

By "THE STROLLER."

A great deal of nonsense is used, especially by opposition papers, as to the way constituencies are "corralled" by the Government of the day on expenditures of public moneys in their midst, especially for public buildings, rents of post offices, custom houses and drill sheds. All will no doubt admit that all these are very necessary buildings to have especially in the larger centres, but, there appears to be a class of people who seem to think that these are the only Ambery and graft. It would appear to us very necessary for everyone, irrespective of party, to take to heart the motto of the uncle under of the Garter—"evil be to him that evil thinks." It is only natural that every member should strive to have as good facilities in his constituency as he can get. That is what most of the members imagine they are sent there for, and we dare them politely to do so. Do they risk, now that phase of political life, and become able to see across the narrow confines of their county into the larger areas of the Province and Dominion, then they become statesmen. There are many people who would run every department of government on a cheeseparing principle, and would become a second Anna Jew shop, forgetting that it has a dignity and a position to maintain before the people that costs money. For instance, we very often see fault found with the government (no particular side need be mentioned) for building a $10,000 or $15,000 building for a post office, when a place could be rented for $200 a year, in which the work could be done equally as well. Granted, but is it satisfactorily for the people to have a building of their own in which they can all take pride, irrespective of party, and feel that their business is housed in a building worthy of the name?

It may, of course, be just possible that a constituency supporting the Government may get quicker attention than one of equal importance that does not, but that is only natural, and cannot be altered in any way that we can see. We doubt, however, if there are many towns in Canada, whether their institutions be Grit or Tory, that do not get justice done to them in the shape of buildings, if the want is really there. The people in that every constituency has so many wants, and they are so persistently dinned into the ears of the Ministers that if they were all attended to we would need an income ten times the size of our own to meet them. There is no place in Canada that seems to be so dead set in its Torjism as Toronto, and yet it gets more governmental pap than any place we know of. It is generally there that any new experiment is made first, and if they, too, are the first to get the benefit of them. There is this feature about the opposition government to be noticed. If the government don't give enough in the eyes of the Toronto newspapers (and they never do) they are accused of favoring the city unfairly through spite, whilst the outside oppositionists claim they are favored. Now, we think the city 2.0 reader can take his choice of the arguments.

There is one feature about this whole business of public buildings that we think would bear thinking, and that is that each county and school boar its own share of the expense. For instance, at present the salaries are paid by the Crown for the Public Works Department, whilst the Postoffice and Custom House employ a number of people, show a surplus, getting their cost and keep free. Would it not seem reasonable for these "using" departments, if they might be so called, to pay a fair cost for their use, or at least pay all expenses in connection with their maintenance, such as heat, light, etc? It would make quite a hole in the respective surpluses, but the work would be satisfactorily what each department was doing.

There is quite a little discussion going on in the church papers regarding the advisability of the ministers and the question is often asked, where do they come in in the general prosperity of the country? The answer might truly be given that they come in with the rest of the salaried class, such as office holders, clerks, teachers, et al, between the upper and nether millstones. There is no doubt but that our country, being chiefly made up of salaried, and is fast becoming rich, but we doubt very much if the great body of people living in towns and cities are as well off to-day as they were when wages were much less. This seems very paradoxical, but when we come to examine the matter critically, especially in connection with church givings, we think anyone will become convinced that we are right in our views. It is admitted on all hands that the farmer, who, after all, are the mainstay of our country, are gradually piling up wealth, that is, those who are the land. The farmer may be no better off than he ever was. He is in the same class as the working man of the city—he may be getting better wages, but it costs him more to live. Tents ago he only existed, while to-day he has a chance to get some of the luxuries of life, but the net amount left or saved is not much if any, than it was before. The farmer is doing with less help early year, and the farms are growing larger, so that where a township contained a population of say 5000 years ago, to-day it is materially less. This means that churches that were prosperous, financially speaking, then, have hard work scraping along now, and the tendency will be still downwards. True, the farmers might give more out of their soundness, but when we see farmers who own 200 acres of uncultivated land satisfied to give a whole fifteen cents a Sunday, and then expect a sermon of soul and a hymn book thrown in, we cannot but conclude that there is something about farming that tends to warp and narrow their nature.

In towns and cities, the percentage of those who are actually saving money is, after all, very small. The wholesome and sobering truth is, true, is getting higher wages, but what can a man save off $1.50, $2.00 or even $2.50 per day? The salaried men are actually worse off than when times were poor. Their salaries are practically stationary, whilst living has advanced from twenty to twenty-five per cent. all round. It would appear as if they would be in good field in which to look for any increased church subscription for the minister's salary. We doubt very much if they are able to save any more—that is, the great majority of them. Rents, taxes, and general expenses have gone up, and whilst they may be doing a larger business, their net profits are seriously curtailed. Iron here and there, of course, goes over the hill, but after all, they are so few and far between that they are hardly noticeable. Our farmer wholesale merchants and manufacturers some next. Unless they are doing a much larger business than in days of yore they are in the same box as the ordinary retailer, and just in the same way there is one here and there who is really making and adding to his capital. There is left the capitalistic class, who have money, and who are gradually gathering in unto themselves the savings that the rest of us are earning for them. These people should count most in a church, and could, if they would, open their hearts, make the minister and every church treasurer happy by opening their pocket books, but as a rule that is the last thing they think of doing. Sometimes they send a cheque at Christmas to the minister, much as a man throws a bone to his dog. It is difficult, also, to say just where the necessary income is to come from.

Cannot Loiter in Bars.

A man who is on the Indian list was arrested recently in Toronto, and was established in a conviction (at London the other day. On Saturday a policeman noticed the Indian was "on the list" loitering around the Grand Central hotel. He asked the barkeeper if he did not know that it was against the law, and the barkeeper stated that he had warned the man to keep away several times. Finding the policeman determined, he ordered the Indian to keep away from the place. The latter was summoned, and he was fined by Magistrate Ellis. This is the first conviction registered against a man for loitering about a barroom since the law of the list. In Lindsay it would appear as if our policemen had assured themselves from any responsibility for the enforcement of the Liquor Act, with or without the permission of the police commissioners.

BACK TO MOTHER'S RECIPES.

After having tried all the well advertised patent medicines the public are turning to the old household remedies. Mothers are recommending to their sisters the kidneys, liver, bladder and urinary organs which Mother Seigel used so long ago, almost unknown to the old remedy. Mrs. Seigel goes back to popular favor is the following simple prescription: Four ounces syrup of rhubarb, one ounce compound vinegar, one ounce sweet spirits of nitre. Any druggist will fill this at a quarter cost, or you can buy the ingredients separately and mix at home. Take a dessertspoonful in a little water after meals and at bedtime. A few doses will drive out the trouble, and save you paying pain, and money.

THE ATTEMPT FAILED.

Could Not Make Windsor Sales Point for Stock.

A despatch from Windsor, Ont., says: The attempt of Canadian thoroughbred stockmen to make this city the central sales point for the class of stock to the United States market. Thursday, 28th, met with a discouraging reception. A few Canadian buyers were present, but American buyers were almost unrepresented. About fifty head were sold, but at a low price.

The Musson Boyd Company, of Toronto, Ont., promoters, blame the present financial situation, and say another experiment may be made in about a year, but for the present the plan of forming an association and asking for a government grant for the erection of buildings in Windsor has been dropped.

The Divorce Horror.

A "Stay-Married League" is being organized in the United States in order to combat the divorce evil. In St. Louis, Mo., the judges now reserve Monday for the hearing of divorce suits, and last week the line of women awaiting their turn at the justice mill extended down the ground for almost half a mile. There were 250 applicants for freedom, the list including a few men. Imagine that sort of thing repeated in every town and city in the Union, and it seems to be about time for the churches to join hands in fighting the evil if the sanctity of the home and the rights of children count for anything.

Sir Wilfrid Twits Mr. Borden on Elasticity of His Figures.

DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS

House Settles Down to Work—Premier Ridicules Opposition Leader's Attitude on Protection and Public Ownership—Mr. Hall Shows Increase of Trade Due to Policy of the Government.

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—The House settled down to work yesterday with the feeling of enjoyment that usually marks the opening of the sessions' hostilities, and almost without preliminary plunged into the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. To Mr. R. R. Hall, the popular member for Peterboro' West, fell the honor of moving the address, the effective manner in which he discharged the duty won for him the congratulations of the leaders of both parties and enhanced the reputation he had already gained as a fluent and pointed speaker. No less felicitous was Mr. Adelard Lanctot, the member for Richelieu, who seconded. The attack of the leader of the Opposition on the Government consisted largely of a repetition of the complaints he had made in his budget. One referring to the French treaty was Mr. Fielding's opening which he turned to excellent account. Seldom has the Prime Minister been heard to greater parliamentary advantage than in his reply, which roused the Liberal members to a high pitch of enthusiasm. After traversing the points raised by Mr. Borden, he proceeded with withering sarcasm to demolish the Halifax platform which he described as a masterpiece, not of lucidity, but of elasticity, a structure, not of oak, but of India rubber. He poured ridicule upon the position of the leader of the Opposition in regard to protection and public ownership, pointed out the glaring failing in arguments of one section of his followers and drawing conclusions of another, and defined the true policy in regard to railways and telegraphs and telephones, namely, private competition with effective state control. Dealing with the proposed Commerce he pointed out that whereas—in the past the conference had been without status or authority, in the future it be a conference of Government with Government on equal footing. With regard to the Japanese immigration question, he stated that the understanding with Japan to restrict immigration had been made by ministers other than the Government of that nation, and that the object of Hon. Mr. Lemieux's mission was to assure that that understanding would be respected. The Premier followed Sir Wilfrid, and the debate, which is expected to last several days, will be resumed to-day by Mr. Fielding.

An Honor Appreciated.

Mr. Hall expressed his appreciation of the honor done to his constituency through his being chosen to move the address—a constituency of whose commercial and agricultural importance he intended to boast. He also referred to the wisdom of the Conservatives in constructing the C. P. R. and to the increase of trade under policy of the Government, which he contrasted with it the much greater increase under the Liberal administration which succeeded to power in 1896.

The great increase in trade, Mr. Hall observed, was largely the outcome of the Government policy, for instance of this being the good results of the bounties from the establishment of direct steamship communication between Canada and Mexico.

Next to Japan, Canada, he said, showed the greatest increase of trade last year, the ratio being 170 per cent., while the United States showed a total of an increase of only 100 per cent. Mr. Hall's maiden speech was warmly received by the House, and in the Premier's opinion, seconded the address.

R. L. Borden's Reply.

Sir L. Borden was warmly cheered by his followers as he arose to continue the debate. He criticised the speech from the throne, pointed out its inadequacy, and then proceeded to deal with the Halifax platform.

"Were these men," he asked, "in the old or 1230 seats on the Government side worthy, that Sir Wilfrid had to go outside to find a Minister of Railways and a Minister of Public Works? Some explanation was due, not to the Opposition, but to Government supporters themselves.

Senatorial Appointments.

Mr. Borden dealt next with the Senatorial appointments, asking whether their resignations from the Commons had not been made for the purpose of their appointment to the Upper House.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that he was not aware that any of them had resigned.

On Quebec Bridge Disaster.

Dealing with the Quebec bridge disaster, Mr. Borden remarked that it had always seemed a marvel that the Government of Canada, in an undertaking of such magnitude, should have committed it to a company which, up to 1903, had only put $50,000 of its own money into the work. He wanted to know if the Government had lived up to its responsibility, in accepting the bridge plans by order-in-council. He was stated that the Phoenix Bridge Co. had been hampered for funds. Therefore, although an enquiry was now proceeding, he would ask upon whose shoulders the responsibility for this disaster lies.

Mr. Borden criticized the indefiniteness of the promise regarding Government control of telegraph and telephones, and the lack of progress in construction of the Transcontinental Railway. He joined heartily in the proposal to purify elections and place them on the high standard of the British system. In this the Opposition would co-operate with the Government in no partisan spirit. Conservatives observed.

Mr. Fielding moved the adjournment of the debate and the House rose at 10 o'clock.

MINERS STILL ENTOMBED.

Thirteen Bodies Recovered — Feared That All Have Succumbed.

Pittsburg, Dec. 3.—Up to midnight thirteen bodies had been recovered from the Naomi mine of the United Coal Co. near Fayette City. Several of these had been killed by poisonous gas fumes, and it is generally feared that the remaining thirty-six miners have succumbed to the deadly afterdamp.

Since shortly after 8 o'clock Sunday night, when the first rescuers have labored constantly in an effort to reach the imprisoned men, relief work has been necessarily slow on account of the wreckage and debris. Notwithstanding the fact that the rescue party have worked in fifteen-minute relays, a score of more of their members have been compelled to stop for better breathing, owing to the poisonous gas. Two of the rescuers are in a critical condition.

All day long a crowd of 2,000 persons have stood about the mouth of the Naomi mine, anxiously awaiting news from the entombed men. Hundreds of these persons are relatives or friends of the unfortunate miners, and their grief is pitiful.

LANCASTER WARNS SENATE.

Must Pass Speed Regulation Bill, or Be Wiped Out.

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—E. A. Lancaster, M. P. for Lincoln, has declared war upon the Senate. The House of Commons has passed a bill to amend the Railway Act to provide that "no train shall operate on any highway crossing at rail level in any thickly-populated place, town, city, town or village at a greater speed than ten miles an hour, unless such speed is properly protected." Last session the Senate railway committee killed the bill after it had gone through the Commons. Now Mr. Lancaster is going to reintroduce the bill and gives fair warning to the Senate that it is "again thwarts the will of the people" an agitation will arise in this country which will end in "a manifest petition for the Imperial Parliament to wipe the Senate out of existence."

Mr. Lancaster will reintroduce his bill to provide that no person shall obtain a certificate as a master or mate of a ship registered in Canada unless he has been resident of Canada for at least three years.

BORDEN GETS APOLOGY.

British Editor Sorry That Scandalous Story Was Printed.

London, Dec. 3.—(C. A. P.)—The October issue of The Nineteenth Century quoted an article re Sir Wilfrid Laurier from the Calgary Eye-Opener. In the December number the editor of the Eye-Opener withdraws the same, and apologizes sincerely to Sir Frederick for any injury that possibly may have accrued to him from such a scandalous story.

The British Columbia people are not quite satisfied that Hon. Clifford Sifton is sufficiently of their clock and city during a recent visit, and are now inviting him to pay another visit before returning to Canada.

PUBLIC OWN COAL MINE.

Saskatchewan Has Acquired Large Area in Eagle Lake District.

Regina, Dec. 3.—It is announced here that the Saskatchewan Government has acquired from the Federal Government a coal area in the Eagle Lake district, and that operations will be pushed so that the coal may be secured under Government ownership and operation as early as possible in the coming spring.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will traverse the district, so coal can then be readily hauled to settlers. The railway traverses a district where there is little or no timber stand.

Mount Temple Wrecked.

Halifax, Dec. 3.—The steamer Mount Temple, Antwerp for St. John, with 600 passengers, was wrecked on Iron Bound, at the mouth of Labiaw River, near Bridgewater, N. S.

All passengers were landed safely, but it is feared the steamer will be a total wreck.

The steamer showed signals of distress early yesterday morning and tugs were sent out to her assistance from Bridgewater.

The Mount Temple carried a crew of 150 men and was one of the fleet in the immigration service.

The fire tug Cuyler, commanded by Capt. Mosier, and the Northern Navigation Co.'s steamer Majestic, responded to the alarm and did splendid work all night, with the town engine, arresting the flames, and saving the western part of the business portion of the town at Turpen's and Kingsboro's stores. Kingsboro's is almost a total loss, but Turpen's was saved with a slight loss by moving the stock.

Houston, Texas, Dec. 3.—Fire on Sunday night destroyed business property in the heart of Houston to the amount of $750,000. Breaking out in the rear of the Frank Dunn jewelry store and News shop, the flames spread in all directions through the block, and it was not until 6 o'clock that they were under control. The buildings destroyed included the Houston Theatre, in which were located the Federal Court offices, and all records and fixtures were a total loss.

SAYS THIS IS BEST

A leading health journal in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood?" prints in a recent issue the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce; Compound Salatone, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, four ounces.

Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after every meal and at bedtime.

A well-known physician states that these are harmless vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.

The mixture will clear the blood of all impurities. In just a few days the effects begin to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Salatone and Extract Dandelion, works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid, and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

Toronto Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 1.—(Special)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 30, were 4,408 cattle, 1,782 sheep and lambs, 3092 hogs and 366 calves, while the offerings for the week preceding this morning were 1800 cattle, 1056 sheep and lambs, 2500 hogs and 300 calves, owing to the miserable weather and the somewhat scarcity of good to choice heavy, the undertone for market for the grades was firmer and the impression is that a shade or the glut of poor stock which has been coming forward now for several weeks is over, prices for the better grades will advance, but there was little or no change in prices for the great part of the day trade, rather easier, but later buyers came forward more freely, and the opposition to operate and the demand for both and outside account became stronger towards the close, the whole active trade was done and a good clearance was made in spite of the large offerings of rough and inferior stock. Cable cattle were firmer on Saturday reported trade fair in Canadian cattle, but no change in prices, the demand for Canadian cattle was good, and a good deal of business was done, at 10½c per lb. for choice, 10c to 10½c for good, 9½c to 9¾c for fair, and 9c to 9½c for common, and 8½c to 9c for inferior, at 10½c to 9c per lb.

Sheep to the extreme liberal supply of lambs coming forward, a weaker feeling was developed for the market and prices for good choice stock have declined, but for the inferior stock the demand was good this morning and an active trade resulted, with sales of choice ewes at 3½c; good, at 3½c to 3¾c and common at 3½c to 3c per lb. There was no further change to the condition of the market for sheep, prices having ruled weaker than quoted a week ago. The demand is fairly good and sales of good to choice lambs at 4½c to 4¾c per lb., and inferior at 3½c, and calves at 4c per lb. The trade in calves was fairly active, but somewhat easier, commencing to decrease and prices are firm. Choice veals sold at $11 to $12; good, at $8 to $10; fair at $5 to $7, and common, at $3 to $4 each.

Hogs, with the continued weak advices and downward tendency of prices in the United States markets, and the heavy run thereon, a weak tone has been developed in the local hog situation and prices of this stock have declined from 6c to 7½c per cwt., making a net reduction of 11.20 to 12.25 since the last week of October, while, according to our own private cables, Canadian bacon in Liverpool during the month of November declined 12s per cwt., from 57s 6c, to 45s and by Bristol 8s. The market here for hogs ruled very weak, and prices for good fine and prime corn fed hogs, $5.10 to $5.25, and $5.50 per cwt. for selected lots of choice, fed and watered, delivered at weekly prices, while sales to-day were made at $5.00 per cwt. weighed off cars.

Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 2.—Upset in the boiling waters of one of the rapids of the Upper Fraser River, dashed over the falls against the knife-like edges of protruding rocks until his mangled carcass was sifted through almost made him resign himself to death, clinging all the while to a fellow-woodsman, whose arms were locked about him in life's last clasp, were a few of the experiences of Mr. McLaughlin, a timber cruiser, just returned after a sojourn in the wilds of interior British Columbia.

The story, as told by the story, he considers a miracle, certainly he he unfolds his tale in accent of like fame novel wonders as to be almost unbelievable. As it was six men were drowned.

McLaughlin and his partner, John Evans, were the only survivors out of a party of seven white men and one Indian. The names of all those lost are not known to Mr. McLaughlin. They were all employed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. in survey work, and were on their way west at the time of the catastrophe.

Throughout the greater part of the day Attorneys Powers and Lowry with evidence in the episodes that led to the tragedy, and pleading insanity of the defendant at the time she shot Brown in a hotel here on Dec. 8 last, sought to build a fence, and when the court convened after recess District Attorney Baker, attempting the theory of insanity and arraigning the defendant in scathing language, made the closing plea.

Judge Stafford occupied 22 minutes in charging the jury.

At 10 o'clock last night the word came from the jury-room that their ranks were prepared for rendering a verdict. Accordingly, Judge Stafford ordered the jury be locked up until court meets this morning.

The nets had been taken in the capture of herring by Americans from Iroquois. The officers got the nets, and left two officers, in Simon Johnston of that place, in charge of them at Gros Cap from the west, and before reaching the place noticed a puzzling business making off after frantic efforts to raise the nets.

The poachers partly succeeded in their object, but, before getting clear, had it necessary to cut the lines and escape as best they could, crossing the American line. The poachers secured continued a large number of herring.

"Well, that's only three times."

"Only three! How you talk! One would think you had never been schooled in mathematics. Why, three is a magic figure. You can do plenty of amazing things with it. Don't you know that three is a numeral of love?"

"I thought two was the number," chimed Dorothy, with heartless mirth.

"Three," said Katherine taking one last look at the empty horizon, then seating herself in front of her friend—"three is a recurring decimal. It goes on and on and on forever, and if you write it for a thousand years you are still as far from the end as when you began. It will carry you round the world and back again and never diminish. It is the mathematical emblem of the nature of true love."

"Is it so serious as all that, Kate, or are you just fooling again?" asked Dorothy, more soberly than heretofore. "Has he spoken to you?"

"Spoken? He has done nothing but speak, and I have listened—oh, so intently and with such deep understanding. He has never before met such a woman as I and has frankly told me so."

"I am very glad he appreciates you, dear."

"Yes, you see, Dorothy, I am really much deeper than the ordinary woman. Who, for instance, could find such a beautiful thought as from a book of arithmetic costing 25 cents as I have unearthed from decimal fractions? With that example in mind, how can you doubt that other volumes of college learning contain the finest inner meaning? John presented to me as he said goodby a beautifully bound copy of that celebrated book, 'Saunders' Analytical Chemistry,' with particular tender passages marked in pencil by his own dear hand."

Rather bewildered, for Kate's expression was one of pathos unrelieved by any gleam of humor, Dorothy nevertheless laughed, although the laugh had an echo from Kate's bosom.

"And did you give him a volume of Browning in return?"

"No, I didn't. How can you be so unsympathetic? Is it impossible for you to comprehend the unseen link that binds John and me? I rummaged the book store until I found a charming little edition of Marshall's Geologist's Pocket Companion' covered with beautiful brown Russia leather—I thought the Russia binding was so inspirational—with a sweet little clasp that keeps it closed—typical of our hands at parting. On the flyleaf I wrote, 'To J. L., in remembrance of many interesting conversations with his friend, K. K.' It only needed another K to be emblematic and political, a reminiscence of the olden times, when you people of the south, Dorothy, were making it hot for us deserving folks in the north. I hadn't time to go through the book very thoroughly, but I found many references to limestone, which I marked, and one particularly pretty bit of English writing to the dissolution and reconsolidation of various minerals I drew a pencil-program around in red ink. A friend of mine in a motor launch was good enough to take the little parcel direct to the Oneiantaman, and I have no doubt that at this moment Jack is perusing it and perhaps thinking of the giver. I hope it's up to date and that he had not previously bought a copy."

"You don't mean to say, Kate, that your conversation was entirely about geology?"

"Certainly not. How could you have become infatuated with an idea so absurd? We had many delightful dalliances down the romantic groves of chemistry, heart to heart talks on metallurgy, and once—ah, shall I ever forget it?—while the dark gently frolicking sea and I greeted him those bright, speaking, intelligent eyes of his as he bent nearer and nearer, while his low, sonorous voice in well chosen words pictured to me the promise which fortified cement holds out to the world—that is, ignorant person, portland cement strengthened by the ties of steel—and I at listening breathless as his glowing phrases prophesied the future of this combination."

Katherine closed her eyes, rocked gently back and forth and crooned, almost audibly:

"When you gang awa, Jimmie,
Your across the sea, laddie,
When ye gang to Russian lands,
What will ye do to me, laddie?

I know what I shall get. It will probably be a nearly discovered recipe for the compounding of cement which will do away with the necessity of steel strengthening."

"Kate, dear, you are overdoing it. It is quite right that woman should be a mystery to man, but she should not aspire to become a mystery to her sister woman. Are you just making fun or is there something in all this more serious than your words imply?"

"Like the steel strengthening in the cement, it may be there, but you can't see it, and you can't touch it, but it makes—oh, such a difference to the stability of the edifice. Dorothy, let us forsake these hard beaded goddesses and turn to something human! What have your lawyers been bothering you about? No trouble over the money, is there?"

Dorothy shook her head.

"No. Of course there are various matters they have to consult me about and get my consent to this project or the other."

"Read the letter. Perhaps my matrimonial mind can be of assistance to you."

Dorothy had concealed the letter and did not even produce it.

"It is with reference to your assistance, and your continued assistance, that I wish to speak to you. Let us follow the example of the cement and the steel and form a compact. In one respect I am going to imitate the Consternation. I leave Bar Harbor next week."

Katherine sat up in her chair, and her eyes opened wide.

"What's the matter with Bar Harbor?" she asked.

"You can answer that question better than I, Kate. The Kempt family are not visitors. Yet live there all the year round. What do you think is the matter with Bar Harbor?"

"Of course, it's a little dull in the winter time, and in all seasons it is situated a considerable distance from New York. Where do you intend to go, Dorothy?"

"That will depend largely on where my friend Kate advises me to go, because I shall take her with me if she will come."

"Companion, lady's maid, parlor maid, maid of all work, cook, governess, typewriter—which have I to be? Shall I get one afternoon a week off, and may my young man come and see me, if I promise to secure one, and, extremely important, what are the wages?"

"You shall fix your own salary, Kate, and my lawyer men will arrange that the obscure sum is settled upon you so that if we fall out we can quarrel on equal terms."

"Oh, I see, it's an adopted daughter I am to be, then."

"An adopted sister rather."

"Do you think I am going to take advantage of my friendship with an heiress and so penalize myself?"

"It is I who am taking the advantage," said Dorothy, "and I hey you to take compassion rather than advantage upon a lone creature who has no kith or kin in the world."

"Do you really mean it, Dot?"

"Of course I do. Should I propose it if I didn't?"

"Well, this is the first proposal I've ever had, and I believe it is customary to say on those occasions that it is so sudden or so unexpected, and—time is allowed for consideration."

"How soon can you make up your mind, Kate?"

"Oh, my mind's already made up. I'm going to jump at your offer, but I think it is customary for a maiden to pretend a mild reluctance. What are you going to do, Dorothy?"

"I don't know. I've settled on only one thing—I intend to build a little stone and tile church, very quaint and old fashioned, if I get the right kind of architect to draw a plan for it, and this church is to be dedicated to Haverstock."

"Where's Haverstock?"

"It is a village near the Hudson river, on the plain that stretches toward the Catskills."

"It was there you lived with your father, was it not?"

"Yes, and my church is to be called the Dr. Amherst Memorial church."

"And do you propose to live at Haverstock?"

"I was thinking of that."

"Haverstock is a big, but a little dull?"

"Yes, I suppose it would, but it seems to me a suitable place where two young women may meditate on what they are going to do with their lives."

"Yes, that's an important question for the two. I say, Dorothy, let's take the other side of the river and enter Vassar college. Then we should at least have some fun, and there would be some recently well educated people to speak to."

"Oh, you wish to use your lately acquired scientific knowledge in order to pass the examinations. But, you see, I have had no time to devote to the mysteries of lime burning and the mixing of cement. Now, you have secured my half of the river, and I have objected to your side of the river. That is the best beginning which, let us hope, makes the good ending. Who is to arbitrate in our dispute?"

"Why, we'll split the difference, of course."

"How can we do that? Live in a houseboat on the river like Frank Stockton's 'Rudder Grange?'"

"No, settle in the city of New York, which is practically an island in the Hudson."

"Would you like to live in New York?"

"Wouldn't I! Imagine any one having the chance living anywhere else!"

"In a hotel, I suppose—the Halldorf for choice."

"Yes; we could live in a hotel until we found the ideal flat, high up in a nice apartment house, with a view like that from the top of Mount Washington or from the top of the Washington monument."

"But you forget I made one proviso in the beginning, and that is that I am going to build a church, and the church is to be situated not in the city of New York, but in the village of Haverstock."

"New York is just the place from which to construct such an edifice. Haverstock will be somewhere near the West Shore railway. Very well. We can take a trip up there once a week or oftener, if you like, and see how the work is progressing. Then the people of Haverstock will respect us. As we drive from the station they'll say:

"There's the two young ladies from New York who are building the church.'

"But if we settle down among them they'll think we're only ordinary villagers instead of the distinguished personages we are. Or, while our flat is being made ready we could live at one of the big hotels in the Catskills and come down as often as we like on the inclined railway. Indeed, until the weather gets colder the Catskills is the place.

And, in the Catskills print the distant sky,
And over their airy tops the faint clouds fly,
So softly blending that the cheated eye
Knows not where heaven is earth or where it begins to be heaven."

"We ought to carry the day for the Catskills, Kate. What sort of habitation shall we choose, a big hotel or a select private boarding house?"

"Oh, a big hotel, of course—the biggest there is, whichever its name may be—one of those whose rates are so high that the proprietor doesn't advertise them, but says in his announcement, 'For terms apply to the manager.' It must have ample grounds, support an excellent band and advertise a renowned cuisine. Your room at least should have a private balcony, on which you can place a telescope and watch the building of your church down below. I, being a humble person in a subordinate position, should have a balcony also to make up for those deficiencies."

"Very well, Kate; that's settled. But, sufficiently for us, we may set up housekeeping in a New York flat, they cannot very well go alone to a fashionable hotel."

"Oh, yes, we can. Best of references given and required."

"I was going to suggest," pursued Dorothy, not noticing the interruption, "that we invite your father and mother to accompany us. They might enjoy a change from sea air to mountain air."

Katherine frowned a little and demurred:

"Are you going to be fearfully conventional, Dorothy?"

"We must pay some attention to the conventions, don't you think?"

"I had hoped not. I yearn to be a bachelor girl and live in a bachelor's flat."

"We shall each possess a latchkey when we settle down in New York. Our flat will be our castle, and, although our latchkey will let us in, our lock will keep other people out. A noted summer resort calls for different treatment, because there we are a semipublic life. Besides, I am selfish enough to wish my coming out to be shared by scores of so well known a man as Captain Kempt."

"All right; I'll see what they say about it. You don't mind, Dorothy, I take it."

"Yes, if she will consent to come."

"I doubt if she will, but I'll see. Besides, now that I come to think about it, it's only fair I should allow my doting parents to know that I am about to desert them."

With that Katherine quitted the room and went down the stairs hippety-hop. Dorothy placed the letter from its place of concealment and read it for the third time, although one not interested might have turned it to a most commonplace document. It began, "Dear Miss Amherst," and ended, "Yours most sincerely, Alan Drummond." It gave some account of his doings since he last wrote to her. A sailor, he informed her, needs little time for packing his belongings, and on the occasion in question the prince had been of great assistance. They set out together for the nearest railway train and said "au revoir" at the station. Drummond had intended to sail from New York, but a friendly person whom he met on the train informed him that the Liverpool liner Enthusiasta set out from Boston next day, so he had abandoned the New York idea and had taken passage on the liner named, on whose note paper he wrote the letter, which epistle was once more concealed as Dorothy heard Katherine's light step on the stair.

"Thy impulsive young woman burst into the sacred room."

Hard to Shave.

The hardest beards, or faces, to shave are those of the stonecutters. The fine particles of granite or marble become fagrained into the skin, and "once ever" such a face means half an hour on the hone for the best razor. Coal bearers come next, but coal dust is not so deadly to an edge as granite powder.

LINDSAY, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3

SIR WILFRE · LAURIER.

Every Canadian, with an interest in the welfare of Canada, and the credit of her statesmanship, will share the wish that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be spared many years, to continue the great work he has done, not only in a national regard, but in uniting the diverse elements of our citizenship, to make Canada more worthy of her foremost place in the Empire, and even to make the Empire worthy of Canada. The invitations are that Sir Wilfrid, who celebrated his 66th birthday last week, possesses years of usefulness before him, for, as distinguished statesmen go he is comparatively a young man. The 84, John, N. B., Sun, has an interesting reference. It speaks out that no lands a place, in so long a span of Canadian history. Sir David Laurier has filled that the reminder his birthday brings of his comparative youthfulness, comes as an annual surprise. Today this man, whom his political opponents are telling the people is old, and must soon relinquish his invincible leadership of the federal party, is only 66. But, long ago the former professor, Sir John Macdonald, had not yet reached the height of his political strength. After he was 66, Sir John held the Premiership of Canada for ten years, and had his party successfully through three elections. He was still premier, when he died, full of honor, at the age of 76. The great premier of Great Britain is 72 years old. Lord Salisbury held office till he was 72. Gladstone was premier at 85, Disraeli at 76. Sir Wilfrid is in better health than any of these, and vigorous as any. He is on keen and vigorous as at any time in the 30 years of public service, during which his patriotism, and statesmanship, and personal integrity, have raised him step by step in the esteem and affection of the people of the unchallenged position of Canada's greatest son.

DRIVER OF TOWN TEAM USES LOOSE REIN

Method Criticized at Last Night's Meeting of the Council—Date of Nomination Meeting is December 30th Various Matters Dealt With—Ald. Weldon Does a Little Fishing on His Own Account.

Our town fathers met in regular monthly session last evening. Mayor Vroomin presiding and all the members present with the exception of Deputy-reeve Jordan.

The minutes of last regular and special meetings were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS

From National Sanitarium Association, respecting a grant to Muskoka Free Hospital.—Finance Committee.

From F. Knowlson, Town Clerk, respecting complaint as to overcharge in connection with Glenelg st. sewer. The amount wrongfully collected, $13.45, should be refunded.—Finance Committee.

From H. Sewry & Co., Barrie, relative to the purchase of improved snow-plows.—Town Property committee.

From City Clerk of London, asking Council's co-operation in securing an amendment to the Municipal Act giving Councils the power to pass by-laws to prevent the sale on markets of products that are short in weight or measure.—Referred to Town Property committee.

From J. McGlynn, applying for charity.—Referred to dispensary.

From H. J. Lytle, manager of Bank of Montreal, notifying Council that owing to the financial stringency the rate of discount on town accounts has been increased from 5 to 5 1-2 per cent.—Finance committee.

From James Low, manager Victoria Loan & Savings Co., relative to sinking fund debenture for $6,000 drawing 4 1-2 per cent. interest.—Referred to Mayor and Treasurer.

A number of accounts were read and referred to the proper committee.

A COUPLE OF REPORTS

Market Clerk Callaghan reported the collection of $605.55 in weighing fees and tolls during November.—Filed.

Clerk Knowlson read the annual report of Dr. McAlpine, Medical Health Officer, which is published elsewhere. In connection with the reference therein to the failure of physicians to report all the cases of fever, Mayor Vroomen said the presumption might be an error, because many of the 40 odd cases treated at the Hood Hospital came from country points.

Ald McLean asked if the M. H. O. had suggested his duty when he permitted an unvaccinated person to nurse a person ill with the disease? It seemed to him (McLean) like putting a premium on the spread of the disease.

Mayor Vroomen—Well, there were special circumstances connected with the case.

Ald McLean—Well, the fact referred to should have some bearing on the settlement of the claim made by the parties for remuneration.

The report of the secretary of the Fire Brigade was referred to the Town Property committee.

Report of Chief Constable Vincent called attention to several infractions of the fire by-law, the parties in fault being the Dominion Wheel Co. and Mr. Adam Morris.

Ald McDougall was heard with refference to Morris' case, and convinced the members that it did not constitute a breach of the by-law.

A petition from a number of east ward citizens asking that an arc light be placed at the corner of St. Patrick and Kent streets. The matter was referred to the Police and Lighting committee. Mayor Vroomen remarked that while the position of lights might be changed, it would be a serious thing to add a few one. There were lights now in use that illuminated only vacant spaces.

Alex Wilson—You attempt to move one of them and you'll see the mighty bob up.

Mayor Vroomen—Anyway, we don't spend much light now, we have the snow.

Messrs. W. B. Fee, Wm. Tetro, Mrs. Fee, and others, were present during the closing of a drain from Opera township leading across their properties. Mr. Fee was heard in connection therewith, after which the matter was referred to the Board of Works.

STANDING COMMITTEES

The reports of the several standing committees were next introduced and read as follows:

Police and Lighting — Chairman McDougall.

Board of Works — Chairman Bogg.

Town Property—Chairman Bogg.

Finance—Chairman Eyres.

Messrs. McGuire and Devitt were heard at some length respecting a drain from Crandelstat, emptying into Fox's Creek. Mr. Wm. Fox was not being injured in any way by the aforesaid drain, for which the tile had been supplied by Council, according to Chairman Bogg, during the Sam ministration.

Wilson's administration as Street commissioner.

THE ELECTION BY-LAW

On motion Council went into committee of the whole on the second reading of a by-law to fix the time for the holding of the nomination meeting and the municipal elections. Reeve Bogg occupied the chair.

The meeting for the nomination of mayor, reeve, deputy-reeve, aldermen and one water commissioner, will be held on Monday, the 30th day of December, in the Council chamber, from 7.30 till 8.30 p. m. If more than the required number are nominated polls will be opened on Monday, January 6th, as follows:

East Ward

Div. No. 1—Polling place, Crozier's shoeshop. A. D. Matson, deputy returning officer; Sam McGill, poll clerk.

Div. No. 2—Polling place, Mrs. Crandell's office. J. E. O'Neill, deputy returning officer; Milton Fee, poll clerk.

South Ward

Div. No. 1—Polling place, Martin's laundry. W. J. Stewart, deputy returning officer; P. Kenny, poll clerk.

Div. No. 2—Polling place, Lindsay Bros' livery. Deputy returning officer, Wm. Bruce; poll clerk, D. C. Tree.

Div. No. 3—Polling place, W. A. Jewett's livery. Deputy returning officer, A. J. Somers; poll clerk, Jos. Flurey.

Div. No. 4—Polling place, M. E. Turgeon's apartment house, Lindsay st. Deputy returning officer, James Buck; poll clerk, P. McClory.

North Ward

Div. No. 1—Polling place, Council chamber. Deputy returning officer, John Kelley; poll clerk, W. A. Silverwood.

Div. No. 2—Polling place, Shiith's carriage shop. Deputy returning officer G. S. Patrick; poll clerk, W. P. Terkins.

Div. No. 3—Polling place, Horn Bros' office. Deputy returning officer, John Smith; poll clerk, Orvin McKibbin.

The by-law was read a second time without amendment.

A WATCHFUL SERVANT

Ald. Eyres called attention to the planting of telephone poles on Adelaide st. in such a way that a number of shade trees seemed to be threatened with destruction. He was assured by Reeve Bogg that no work was possible or contemplated as the wires would be carried in a cable.

Ald. Eyres—"In that case I'm satisfied."

THE DRIVER CRITICIZED

Reve Bogg referred to the "spirit" of the fire wagon last winter and said Mr. Sinclair has offered to replace the present hub runners with steel ones at low cost to Council. The hub runners were too high and straight—they actually carried in a little, instead of outward.

Ald McLean—"If the driver don't change his style he'll break his neck and the town's liable."

Mayor Vroomen—"I see no necessity for this racing out of the fire horses on the Kent street in the way they do."

Assistant Driver Fisher—"The present straight runners; they won't keep on the road."

Ald McLean—"The runners are exactly the same as those used on the wagons in Toronto and elsewhere. The great trouble is that our driver uses a heavier and more powerful team to wabble about the roadways. Everywhere else the horses are held up."

The Town Property committee will have the wagon placed on the low runners if deemed desirable.

Ald. Weldon next referred to the encouragement of tourists, etc., a synopsis of his remarks being given elsewhere. Ald. Devitt will assist Ald. Weldon to frame a report in connection with the matter. Council then adjourned.

Why is the Ocean Salt?

The Creator made the ocean salt to save the land from putrefaction. The winds blow everything offensive and pestilential (as far as we allow them to do the work of agents of health) out to sea, where all humors are absorbed by the hungry waters. Salt is a purifying agent. The ocean is a great manufacturer. It converts everything foul into health making humors and hands it back to us with out charge. No government hand is necessary. Stand on the prow of a ship for three hours in a day, deep breathing like an athlete, and your lungs will be cleaned of everything poisonous. Your blood will leap through veins and arteries. Your heart will be enlarged to thump with ocean's rhythm. The tide is the ocean's tongue. It comes in twice a day to lick up the foul things of the earth, and convey them to the ocean's stomach, where they are digested, melted down, mixed and rendered pure.

ROLLER HOCKEY

The first game of Roller Hockey ever played in Lindsay will be played at the Roller Rink on Wednesday night of this week between the fast Roller Hockey Team from Peterboro, and Lindsay's fast team. This should prove to be a very fast and exciting game. The team that will play against Peterboro on Wednesday night will be the same boys that have entered into the intermediate class on ice for the coming season, and we expect them to give a good account of themselves before the season closes.

Every person should turn out on Wednesday night to see this game and to help the boys along. As this is a benefit for the Hockey Team, they should get a good start off for the season.

We expect the Mayor and Town Council to be present, and the Mayor will place the ball for the first Roller Hockey ever seen in Lindsay.

The doors will open at 7.15, skating until 8.30, then the Hockey for 40 minutes each way, and there will be skating until 10.30 with Band in attendance.

As the Peterboro rink is closed now we will have all our skates here for that night. Every person who comes to see the Hockey game Wednesday night will get skates free.

East evening's presentation of "The Poor Mr. Rich" at the Academy of Music was far inferior to anything that has appeared here so far this season. There were funny parts in it, but the play as a whole was poor and deserved the poor house it got. Manager Boenigk was evidently "stung."

THE PENGUIN.

Comically Serious in Mating—Its Wicked Flippers.

It is probable that penguins pair for life, although nothing definite is known on the subject. When mates are chosen the process is as interesting as it is striking. As is the case with so many creatures, the males fight with each other for the females, might being right in the penguin code. The birds have regular fighting places, and one such battleground was found under an overhanging ledge. The results of innumerable encounters were present in the shape of great quantities of loose feathers surrounding the little fighting ring, which itself was clear of all debris. Although the beak of a penguin is so formidable a weapon when used on thin skinned enemies, yet their own skin and blubber are so resistant that they can inflict no injury by this means. The customary mode of fighting is really a kind of boxing, or "flipping," it might be called. The two combatants proceed to the fighting place and then wait cautiously about each other, jockeying for an opening and ready to take instant advantage of a false step or move on the part of the opponent. All, however, is solemn and decorous, consistent with the rest of the life of these strange little beings.

When at last each secures a good grip on the neck or body of the opponent the real fighting begins. At intervals of the life of penguins is spent on the open sea, where they pursue and capture fish, swimming with great swiftness by strokes of the flipperlike wings, it can well be imagined that the strength of their wings is very great, and when the two fighters begin to belabor each other with rapidly vibrating flipper strokes each resounding whack must make a considerable impression even on the protecting coat of blubber fat. No one has ever recorded the death of such an encounter, but it is not probable that they result fatally. The weaker of the two must soon succumb under such severe punishment and yield the field and the fair penguin mate to his stronger rival. The strength of the wing strokes can be tested by allowing a penguin to take hold of one's coat sleeve or, better, the back of the hand. The third or fourth stroke will fire the blood, and one is soon fully satisfied as to the penguin's ability in this respect. The tough skin and the loose, flapping blubber beneath, besides breaking a fall and protecting the bird from the icy waters in which it lives, sometimes subserve another most important purpose.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy, however, may be made at any agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eight (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eight (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

A SMILE AND A HELPING HAND.

(Exchange.)

'Tis the honest grip
Of comradeship
Makes a fellow take heart again;
It's the word of cheer,
From a friend sincere,
Makes him feel life's not in vain.
When the way is dark
And the faithless bark
Is drifting from safety's strand,
Why, God bless the man,
And the woman who than
Holds to us a helping hand.

When you're out of luck
Am you're out of pluck,
And the fight doesn't seem worth while,
What will give you heart,
To do your part?
Why, a hand-clasp and a smile.
So when all is black
And we have lost the track
In a world we can't understand,
Then God bless the friend
Who is there to lend
A sympathetic and a helpful hand!

Say, Loosen Up.

It's a shame she has to do it just to get what is her due!
Loosen up and make her happy, make her Christmas dreams come true.

CHURCH IS ABLE TO BANISH BAR

Only a Matter of Courage, Says Hon. Oliver Stewart of Chicago.

Toronto News: "In the effort for good sobriety," said Hon. Oliver Stewart, of Chicago, at Massey Hall Sunday afternoon, "we have two things to do. One is to keep the man away from the drink, that is temperance. The other is to keep the drink away from the man, that is prohibition. It would be better if the man had to be strong enough to keep away from the drink, but you and I must never forget that many men are struggling with inherited appetites or circumstances, or environment, and find it impossible to go away from it. We must step into the ring and forced the drink coming to him and give him a chance to get on his feet and win his fight.

"Did it ever occur to you that there has never once a moment or one jot gone by God's people have put all their power into one slow argument the bar. But there has not been an hour, seriously, on the best effort years, that the liquor traffic has put all its power into the fight. We have not struck a blow yet, even approximation of the power we possess. Some day the traffic will be struck down and the minister will have to come in and hold an inquest."

Owl Had Mink in Its Talons.

Port Rowan Times, Saturday: Mr. Thomas Treanoun was in the city yesterday, and was telling his friends about a remarkable extraordinary shooting affair of recent happening and with which he was connected. A few days ago while hunting in the vicinity of Pigeon Lake Narrows he saw a large grey owl flying a short distance away from him. He fired at the bird and it dropped to earth, and on going to pick up his prize Mr. Treanoun was surprised to find that the bird had in its talons a large mink. The pelt of the animal was worth a considerable money, and the owl is also highly prized by Mr. Treanoun.

Let Us Take Time.

Let us take time for the good-bye kiss. We shall go to the day's work with a wonderful spirit for it.

Let us take more time to speak sweet, "foolish" words to those we love. By and by, when they can no longer hear us, our "foolishness" will seem more wise than our best wisdom.

Let us take time to be pleasant. The small courtesies, which we often omit because they are small, will mean day took larger to us than the wealth which we covet or the fame for which we struggled.

Let us take time to get acquainted with our families. The wealth you are accumulating, burdened father, busy mother, can never make a home for the daughter whom you have no time to entertain.

Let us take time to get acquainted with Christ. The hour is coming swiftly for us all when one touch of His hand in the darkness will mean more than all that is written in the day book and ledger, or in the records of our little social world.

Since we must all live a little time, why should we not take time to live it? Life is the large source of a life long labor for eternity!—Pittsburg Advocate.

HEART METER A NEW INVENTION

Person Can See His Internal Organs at Work—Named the Orthodiagraph.

The human heart is fast losing its mystery. You can actually see it nowadays—or rather, you can observe its movements in a shadow picture by means of the Rontgen rays. The fact is not new, but the benefits for applying the idea to medical science have developed wonderfully, and the authorities of one of the great English hospitals are proud of the latest addition to their electrical department, which will be opened probably in the near future, it is called an "orthodiagraph," because it gives a tracing of the object described in exact relative dimensions.

The apparatus has four arms, one of which holds a small circular greenish-yellow screen, one a wire black ring, one a wooden case, and the other a little rod, that acts as a pencil for the tracing. Against a tall canvas screen in the dark stands the person who wants his internal organs to be seen at work. The arms of the machine are lowered until the greenish-yellow screen appears in front. There is heard the faint crackle of electricity, a circle of light appears, and the motion of the heart, reflected on the screen, may be followed. Attached to the front of the machine is a bulb. This is in association with the "pencil" behind, and as it is pressed a drawing of the heart is traced in little blue lines upon another white screen at the back.

The novelty of this machine is the perfection to which it has been brought. It may be worked by a funnel.

Great value is attached to the use of the orthodiagraph, which will enable accurate and reliable records of the state of patients' hearts, to be obtained. At present, however, only very outlines could be obtained and be observed. It is not possible as yet to see the structure of the heart. The orthodiagraph was made at Nauheim, Germany.

CATARRH A CERM DISEASE.

The Wonderful Success of the Hyomei Treatment.

Catarrh is an insidious germ of most destructive tendency. Its approaches are stealthy and its victims are well on the road to a chronic stage or to dread consumption before they realize their danger. It is not a blood disease, but is caused by germs that lodge and grow in the air passages, causing irritation with poisonous and offensive mucous discharges. To cure this condition, stomach dosing is ineffective and the healing agent is Hyomei, which goes directly to every nook and corner of the air passages, disinfecting, healing and curing.

You cannot afford to trifle with catarrhal troubles, for if neglected they grow worse and the annoyance and danger rapidly increases. It is best to get Hyomei at the first symptom of catarrh, such as sneezing of the nose, offensive breath, raising of mucous droppings in the throat, bronchial coughing. The sooner you use Hyomei, the sooner you will be freed from all these troubles.

We positively guarantee Hyomei, for should you buy a complete outfit, price $1, and be dissatisfied with results your money will be refunded. Hyomei is sold by druggists everywhere. Write for literature. Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Some Remarks on Things in General

By "THE STROLLER."

An astonishing piece of news was rolled over the country the other day, when it was stated to that all references to Christ in the hymns and texts of the school books of New York, had been eliminated by order of the superintendent of Music, who, judging from his name, is a Jew. A few years, further, that the matter had come before the board, the chairman of which is apparently another Jew, and judging from the order, the Jews apparently are in the majority, so to a well known fact, that there are more Jews in New York City than in any other city of the world and they are by no means the riff-raff of the population. They count amongst their numbers, men like Jacob Schiff, head of the great banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Mr. Mayer, of President Roosevelt's cabinet, and hundreds of others equally influential all the way down to the latest emigrant fleeing from the prosecution meted out to them in Russia. There is one thing very popular about the Jews of to-day, in that, whereas they were originally a peculiarly exclusive people, they cannot pay them to live outside the cities. It is said, on good city, in which a Jew cannot be found is Aberdeen, Scotland. Seven of have tried to make a living there, but have always had to leave poorer in pocket, than we were when we started, than when entering it. The Jews are very clannish, and although they will abuse each other to pieces jovially as they would a Christian, they will always console against the Christian when necessary, even if they do quarrel over the spoil afterwards. We think they are making a great mistake, now, that they have the power, to try any such game as this of seeking to remove the name of Christ from the hymns that have been sung from time immemorial. They evidently have not learned by experience.

We, who are Christians, know that in a pre-eminent sense the Jews are still God's chosen people. We can read the promises any day where Israel is still scatter them over the earth, and yet hold He is withdrawn, yet God will bless those who bless them as soon as the Jews come to their senses and accept Christ as their Saviour, that the millennium will be very close. In the meantime, where ever they go, whether to Russia, Germany, Austria, France or Britain, they remain distinctly separate and become a power in the land through their accumulation of wealth, which seems to flow more freely into their coffers than it does into any of the others. Where they have acted wisely, they have proved good citizens, and have been allowed to do as their neighbors, but where they have acted secretly in the inherent nature of their nature, which is to demand their pound of flesh, and some times more, they have brought down on them the wrath of the surrounding people, and no doubt the innocent have suffered with the guilty, proportionately greater proportion. The Christian people will stand pretty near anything short their pencil aristocracy, of whom a goodly number are Jews, but we misjudge them grossly if they will stand for any interference from their name from Christ, or anybody else. The Jews and no doubt the free-thinkers and nothinkers will stand a good deal, but we feel that it is merely eliminating religious expressions that they don't like, will, while they are willing to leave out all religious teaching, we imagine this further step will not appeal to them in the same way.

We think ourselves it is going too far. The United States, like ourselves, profess to be a Christian country, and although they invite everybody to their shores, we think anyone who comes amongst them is expected to conform, to the ways of the country. It is simply impossible to banish God and Christ from everything. We think it is better who says that there is none other name given under heaven whereby man can be saved than the name of Christ." It would seem therefore, rather late in the day, and the 1-8. of all countries the last in the world, in which to seek to punish that name from everywhere, especially the name that cluster sing around this happy Christmas time.

As a result of reports submitted to the government by J. J. Davies on the Eagle Lake district coal field, the Provincial Government of Saskatchewan has decided to operate a coal mine for the benefit of settlers in the district.

FISH HATCHERY FOR LINDSAY

Proposition Calculated to Attract Tourists to Kawartha lakes.

At last night's meeting of Council Ald. Weldon referred as follows to a matter in which The Post has taken considerable interest in a quiet way, having written to various parties in connection therewith. We think the question is of sufficient importance to have occupied its attention of our Board of Trade and Ald. Weldon should have at an earlier stage, but it is not yet too late for these bodies to initiate action looking to the accomplishment. Any thinking person is bound to admit that if in his opinion the people of Lindsay are making a serious mistake in not making some effort to prevent the town's varied advantages before the tourist ships, and if Mr. Weldon's efforts result in action being taken he will have performed a valuable service to the town and district. He is and kind regards.

Lately I have taken up the matter of the development of a fish hatchery, to be established place in the Kawartha Lakes district. It is a well known fact that many of our lakes in Canada are becoming exceedingly proverbial in attracting with their summer tourists' traffic. I might refer more particularly to the Muskoka district, into which some hundred of thousands of travelers pour annually. Estimating very lowest to expend a minimum of ten dollars, we will easily see how much that district benefits from this influx of summer visitors. Another town to which I might make reference, is the town of Cobourg. It is exact not far from the great influx of American visitors which annually visit Cobourg every year. Cobourg would be very poor indeed, as it is, the hundred thousands of dollars spent annually in Cobourg by the summer visitors makes the town one of the best, for the money, in Canada. Rents generally, of all the town in Canada. And house rent is abnormally high. Only last summer one house was rented for paid $1,000 for the lease of a house for the summer—a house for which eighteen dollars a month would be considered very high rent. Under these circumstances it has struck me very forcibly for some time past, that something should be done so that our town might receive some of the benefits which ordinarily follow tourists' traffic and a visitation of summer visitors.

My experience has always shown me that the Lindsay first people at Kawartha visitors is the fish to be had in such particular place. There is no reason why Lindsay can not do the same in this district should get have the best fishing grounds, for certain kinds of fish, of any place in Ontario. Providence designed these waters for the home of muskonunge and bass, and that we are not more favorably blessed with these fish, so that our summer traffic, at that time, was very large indeed, and is at the present time, although in other sections of the country the increase in the tourist trade has increased every many times that which it was formerly. I think, therefore, that some steps should be taken to have the government display one of our lakes a perpetual preserve for the propagation of fish, muskonunge and bass. Regulations, especially the strictures should be made to the government to have them establish a fish hatchery on the preserved waters. What I would suggest is that Sturgeon Lake, in its entirety, and Sturgeon River from the dam at Lindsay up, be preserved or set aside as a fish reserve for the propagation and breeding of fish, and that a fish hatchery be established at Port Perry or some other point on these waters by the Government for the breeding of muskonunge and bass. If any objection is made to the plan of using Lake Sturgeon, we can undoubtedly secure some other waters, to which to establish a preserve and hatchery.

Another thing we should bring to the attention of the Government is the very inadequate protection that the fish in these waters receive, during closed season. We should have an Chief Inspector who would make it his business, solely and altogether, to look after the fish in this jurisdiction. Mr. Archie Bradshaw, the local inspector, is a very competent person, but he does not receive anything like the remuneration he should receive in order to entitle him to spend all his time at this work. I understand he receives a salary of about seventy-five dollars a year, he should receive at least five hundred dollars a year. Then he should have a number of local assistants, who, of course, could be paid a very much smaller salary. I think some representations should be made to the Government with respect to this matter also. I might say that I have taken the matter up with the others who are principally interested with excursion boats, that is, with the railroad companies. The Grand Trunk does not look upon the proposition favorably, for the reason that they are devoting all their energies to the development of their Muskoka business. On the other hand, I was fortunate in my communications with the Canadian Pacific Railroad to have my letters fall into the hands of Mr. Will Hobson, an old Lindsay boy, now at the head of an important department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who has taken a lively interest in the matter, and he assures me that the Canadian Pacific Railway will be willing to join with us in making suitable representation to the Government, and to give assurance to Lindsay that the matter will be seriously brought to the attention of the Government. The town of Lindsay is not the only place interested. Coboconk, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, and in fact every point on the Kawartha Lakes, will largely benefit by any movement that has for its object the betterment of the fish supply.

IN THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring Among Local and District Clubs and Sporting Circles Generally.

THE WILY RED MAN. L—

The Carlisle Indians have more trick plays than any other team in the country. Their latest trick, which has baffled their opponents, is one against which a rule will have to be passed. Every man on the team has half a football sewed on his breast. By folding their arms the players display the ball, and it is difficult to determine which man really has possession of the ball. Another one of their schemes is to have one of the players ask to have a signal repeated, which immediately gets for a series of roasts from all the other players on the team, who turn around and fling sarcasm at their teammate. Then at an unexpected moment the ball is passed and the opposing team is caught unawares. No other team resorts to these plays, but the Indians are always springing new ones.

WALKING

A WALKING FEAT.

On Saturday last Miss Thompson, of the Public school staff, and Miss Cora Emmerson, of William-st. north, walked out to Oakwood in two hours and fifteen minutes. After lunching with friends in the village, and refusing an offer to be driven home, they made the return journey in a little less than two hours. So delighted were they with their feat, that they have persuaded a number of ladies to accompany them on a tramp to Omemee and return next Saturday. Why can't we have a ladies' walking race in Lindsay?

HOCKEY

TO-MORROW NIGHT'S GAME.

The line-up for to-morrow night's rather hockey match will be as follows:

Goal—Warner.
Point—Boyd.
Cover-Point—Seymour.
Centre—Denison.
Rover—Cotton.
Left Wing—Elliott.

It is to be a benefit game, the receipts of which go towards putting the winter's intermission on a firm financial footing. Roller hockey, although very exciting and fast, takes a different kind of skill than hockey on ice, so that a man might be a crack ice hockeyist and still be no use on rollers. One must have perfect control over his skates to play roller hockey. The players in to-morrow night's game have been selected for their agility on rollers. From the practices seen, they will give a most exciting game. Although Peterboro has been forgot at roller, Lindsayites look for their favorites to win.

The rink will open at 7.15 and skating will take place till the match begins. At intervals during the game the public will be allowed on the floor, and again from the close of the game till 10.30.

There will be plenty of skates, as all the Peterborough ones have now been brought to Lindsay.

Bruce Stewart, the star Ottawa hockey player, turned up his nose at an offer of $65 a week from Winnipeg Maple Leafs. Well, maybe he owns a mine at Cobalt.

Fred Lake, of last year's Houghton team wants $1800 from Ottawa for his services this season. Well get it, too—the flicker of somebody's office than his purse.

Art Ross, the well-known Brandon player, is on his way east, and there will be lively bidding between the Wanderers, of Ottawa, and the Montreal teams, for his services.

Millbrook Hockey Club, not having an endless rink like most of the lucky ones, has decided to maintain an open-air one of large size. Their enterprise is worthy of commendation. There's one thing certain—boys who practise in the open air for a time will get themselves into condition rapidly.

RUNNING.

THINKS OF MOTHER.

Thomas Longboat's letter to Treasurer Coady would indicate that the Indian quite properly refused the city's offer for an education. Instead, as he is now in the business, the great runner wants the council to build a house for his mother on the Onondaga reserve. To quote from Mr. Longboat's letter:

"The money could be spent in the Province my mother, as have the houses for life, and after her death it to go to me. That kind legislation will have to be obtain I to section 11."

CURLING.

QUEEN CITY LEADS OFF.

Thanks to board floors in their ranks, the Toronto curlers are allwaz first in putting ice, but they, the country clubs cry up by making ice till a later date in the spring. Last season Lindsay rinks were merrily at work two weeks after the Toronto men had reluctantly stowed away stones and brooms to await the opening of another season.

Last night Queen City curlers had good ice, and ten rinks were out, the games being witnessed by a large crowd of spectators. The Victoria men also enjoyed a couple of games, the Granite curlers hope to make a beginning tonight.

ODDS AND ENDS OF SPORT.

THE CANADIAN WON

A good many persons who are prejudiced against pugilistic ring exhibitions owing to the tricksy and fake business connected therewith, will nevertheless feel a bit of pride in the announcement that Tommy Burns, a Canadian, captured the championship of the world last night in London, Eng., by defeating "Iron-nut" Moir, the English champion, ten rounds being sufficient.

Manager Gallagher, of the Irish Canadian Athletic Club, is building up that organization in great shape. He has just secured another good man in Bobby Kerr, a Hamilton sprinter of high repute.

LOST HIS VALUED STEED.

Faithful Beast Died in Harness—Misfortune Befalls a Carter.

One of our local parcel delivery men had the misfortune to lose his horse last night. He delivers parcels to and from the trains, and last evening as he was coming down town from the 8 o'clock train, his faithful steed swayed and fell in the harness. All that was possible was done to save its life, as its owner valued it highly, but his efforts were vain and it passed to rest shortly afterward. Its familiar brown hide and prominent bones will be missed on our streets in future. As we mentioned before, the animal was of great value, having cost him the last time, we hear, for a price close to $5. No doubt the owner will in time recover from the shock and heavy financial loss. C—

MR. FIELDING SCORES

Makes Scathing Attack on Opposition in the House.

TURNED TABLES ON BORDEN

Deals With His Attempt to Stir Up Trouble Between Premier Ross and Cockshutt ni Pessimistic Mood —Sees Nothing But Blue Ruin —Mr. Miller Strikes a Much More Cheerful Mood.

Ottawa, Dec. 4—The outstanding features of yesterday's contributions to the debate on the address were the rating confounded on the Opposition, delivered by Hon. W. S. Fielding, and the somewhat unusual course adopted on behalf of the Opposition by Mr. Cockshutt, who, after a distinctly pessimistic speech, moved an amendment to the address. The speech of the Finance Minister, which occupied an hour and three-quarters, was uninteresting throughout, was happily phrased and was illuminated by flashes of genuine humor and telling repartee. Its effectiveness was indicated by the fact that Mr. Borden was on his feet at least a score of times protesting and explaining, but every time he rose he simply afforded Mr. Fielding another opportunity for a thrust. The Minister of Finance covered a wide field, his remarks were well connected and always to the point, and his handling of the financial situation was marked, as is usual with him, by lucidity and force. The manner in which he turned the table on Messrs. Borden and Foster in dealing with their criticism of retrog Cabinet appointments was keenly relished by the Liberal members, and kept them constantly laughing and cheering. He severely railed the leader of the Opposition for his attempt to make capital out of the supposed reduction in the French treaty duty on champagne and alcoholic liquors, pointing out that the reduction mentioned in the treaty were those of the old treaty, and were in no sense granted, because Hon. Mr. Foster was a prohibitionist. This led him to a sally which convulsed the House when he remarked that he might use the old phrase that fools rushed in where angels feared to tread. Truth, however, would not permit him to do so. Borden a fool, nor would it allow him to describe Mr. Foster as an angel. Mr. Miller of Guelph, who is one of the most shrewd debaters in Parliament, followed Mr. Cockshutt.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, replying to Mr. Foster, said a member of the Civil Service Commission had assured him the commission expected to have its report ready before the Christmas vacation.

The Finance Minister turned his attention to Mr. Foster, declaring that his attack on the Government was not sound and fury, violent and compposed of old arguments had been made and refuted in the country time after time.

Figures That Sound Familiar.

Mr. Fielding claimed that in the last year and a half of Conservative rule there had been a net yearly deficit of $248,000, and that this had been added to the public debt, while in the years ended June 30 last there had been $127,000,000 of surpluses and only $9,000,000 added to the public debt. The critics claim the taxation had been increased, Mr. Fielding answered, but the revenues were in a better position to buy goods than in Tory days.

Mr. Fielding defended the tariff, and said the Liberal Party had never contended the country suffered for lack of sufficient postal facilities or that it was being provincially ruined by the arrangement which Mr. Borden tried to defeat when it was arrived at by the provincial conference held in Ottawa in 1907. Mr. McBride could at the convention determined that he would accept nothing in the shape of a subsidy he wanted an arbitration, which could not be granted, and the interests of British Columbia were not complaining—they were not complaining at the new arrangement between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and British Columbia, for Sir Wilfrid had nothing to do with rejecting the demand of British Columbia which was rejected by the unanimous by the convention in which Premier Whitney of Ontario and Premier Robin of Manitoba concurred.

Result in Colchester.

Mr. Fielding did not think the result in Colchester was remarkable, as the county had generally gone Conservative anyway. But as for the byelections in general, the Liberals had been held since the last general election, 29 had been carried by Liberals and only six or seven by the Conservatives. He concluded by proposing that the people would weary of the Halifax platform into the record of the Tory party, and contrasting it with the results of Liberal rule, would continue in office the party under which, since 1896 the country had enjoyed the blessings of peace and prosperity. (Government cheers.)

Mr. Cockshutt's Reply.

Mr. Cockshutt in his reply replied. He went on to say that by its policy of retrogression and reaction the Government was courting disaster. While the Government was exulting in a large influx of immigrants hundreds of willing hands were idle in the cities for want of employment. He predicted a return to "soup kitchens" and that before long the people would have to help the Government out of the Government helping the banks.

Soup Kitchen Prophecies.

Mr. Miller (South Grey) followed. He contended that for eleven years the policy of expending public money in the public interest has been followed by the Liberal Government and referred to the good work done by the public works, which he hoped the British flag on the far north islands.

Mr. Miller criticized at some length Mr. Cockshutt's pessimistic views of the financial situation, hinting that his fondness for "soup kitchen" prophecies was due to the Tories having been so many years in the soup themselves. There might be several hundred recent arrivals in Toronto without work who would have to be provided for, but it was because they were of a class entitled to go on the land, a class of immigrants not encouraged by the Government. It was the Canadian Manufacturers' Association that encouraged the coming to Canada of artisans and laborers.

Mr. Clement of Kent moved the adjournment of the debate.

Would Bar Cigarettes.

Ottawa, Dec. 4—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. R. W. Scott and Hon. George P. Graham received a large deputation of ladies from the Railway Committee room of the House of Commons yesterday, who asked for the prohibition of the manufacture, sale and importation of cigarettes.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier would not commit himself to favoring the abolition of tobacco for one minute, as to extending the power of the provinces to pass a law, the same as was done with the Scott Act in regard to counties, that was a new proposition which would be looked into.

QUEBEC BRIDGE COLLAPSE.

Commissioner Says Report Will Clear by Fix Responsibility.

Ottawa, Dec. 4—The report of the commission appointed to inquire into the collapse of the Quebec bridge will be ready for the consideration of it, and upon whose shoulders it rests, Henry Holgate, C.E., the engineer who is in the city makes this statement.

"Our report," he said, "will be ready before the end of the month. I can't say due to the report being complete in all phases, but in connection with the enquiry at Quebecville, some new points arose, and upon this aspect of the case my wish to further examine Mr. Cooper was suggested, the commission will again go to New York."

"Does the evidence make it clear where the blame rests?" was asked.

"I think I can safely say that in the report it will be revealed who plus the responsibility definitely."

SASKATCHEWAN 'PHONES.

Government Thoroughly In Earnest in Public Ownership Policy.

Regina, Sask., Dec. 4—The creating of the department of telephones as a section of the department presided over by the commissioner of railways for Saskatchewan is a practical step towards the institution of the public ownership of the telephone system.

It is expected that the actual connection work will commence in the spring, should the Legislature approve of the Government's policy. The Government's intention is to build a system of trunk lines through all the more settled portions of the province.

R. P. Porter, recently chief bookkeeper of the Canadian Pacific, has been appointed deputy commissioner of railways. It is stated that in addition to telephone, the Government will inaugurate an aggressive transportation campaign.

FRAUDULENT WEIGHT.

Five Pounds Tacked Onto Bales Sent to English Spinners.

Manchester, Eng., Dec. 4—At the annual meeting of the Manchester Cotton Association held here yesterday, Thomas Coates, chairman of the buying company, caused a sensation. Mr. Coates was one of the delegates to the recent cotton congress at Atlanta, Ga.

He said that he had been impressed particularly in the United States by the fraudulent practices in manner in which sawn Government cotton weighing in American bales actually got on five pounds per bale to every bale shipped. This, however, Mr. Coates continued, "was not done in the case of cotton supplied to American spinners."

The Health of the Universe.

Mexico City, Dec. 4—Twelve American countries were represented when the third International Sanitary Congress opened its session here.

Dr. Walter Wyman said in the preparing an opportunity was afforded the countries of the western hemisphere to take such advantage ground in sanitary measures as to teach the nations nations and thus benefit the health of the world.

Killed by Poison.

Salem, Ore., Dec. 4—The bodies of Mrs. Cantrel, her daughter, aged 24, her son, aged 15, and a man named Montgomery, aged 50, foreman of the ranch, were found in the burned ruins of a farm house, near McLoughlin, yesterday. They probably had been killed by robbers.

STEAMER GONE DOWN

Defender Sinks With Fifteen Passengers and Her Crew.

HEARD WHISTLES FOR HELP

Vessel Supposed to Have Struck on a Reef During Dense Fog—These on Board Mostly Lumberjacks—Three Men Drowned by Capsizing of Boat While Fishing—Steamer on Rocks In N. S.

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 4—A despatch from Coeur d'Alene City, Idaho, says that the steamer Defender is thought to have gone down in Lake Coeur d'Alene, with 15 passengers and the crew. The lake is covered with a thick fog, and boats will not venture out. It is thought that the passengers were mostly lumberjacks on their return from the camps. The Defender's whistle was heard blowing a distress signal, and a steamer lying in Mines Bay answered the call, but got no reciprocal. Navigators believe that the Defender struck a dangerous reef near Mica Bay and sank after striking furiously for aid.

Steamer Goban on the Rocks.

North Sydney, N. S., Dec. 4—During the height of Monday night's dense fog, and in a thick snow squall, which prevailed about seven o'clock, the Dominion Coal Co.'s steamer Goban ran hard on the rocks at Black Point and it is feared she will be a total loss. She is worth $35,000.

Four Railroad Men Drowned.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 4—A telephone message from Mount Pleasant, Ga., says that George Mooney, A. J. Elliott of Atlanta, and John Horne, and W. E. Blunt of Savannah, all railroad men, were drowned yesterday by the capsizing of their boat while on a fishing trip.

Drowns In Well.

Shelburne, Dec. 4—Mrs. J. Ferguson, a prominent farmer, living about two miles from here, was accidentally drowned yesterday morning in a well.

ACCUSED OF MURDER.

Women Swear That Salisbury Man Choked Wife to Death.

Salisbury, N. B., Dec. 4—Monday Mrs. Charlotte Horseman was drowned in a well near the house under suspicious circumstances. The husband discovered her in five feet of water, but contends he was unable to pull her out without assistance which arrived in a short time, but not before the woman was past recovery.

At the coroner's inquest two female witnesses swore Horseman choked his wife to death after she was carried into the home. She was able to speak, and the husband after telling her she had probably ruined him more in the future laid a quilt on her head and putting his hand to her throat, as the case he dress, worked his fingers until the woman turned black and fell. The verdict was death by drowning, but sensational developments will follow.

Ontario Subsidy Arrives.

Toronto, Dec. 4—The annual half-year Dominion subsidy has been received by Hon. A. J. Matheson, provincial treasurer, to the amount of $27,472.44. The amount received is disbursed in settlement of railway construction work and other purposes.

Under the new act the increase is made up of $80,000 extra fixed allowance and the balance per ratio of population of the last census, including 2,182,944. The previous census gave a population of 1,290,000. The total payment annually is now $2,128,—000 instead of Ontario was $1,900,000, 257.28. The increase is thus nearly $800,000.

Freight Shed Stealing.

Port Arthur, Ont., Dec. 4—A sensation has been caused by the arrest of Reginald Newman, formerly in the Canadian Northern Railway local shed, Charles Caroll, shipper for a Cumberland street produce dealer, and William Williamson, a teamster, in connection with the alleged conspiracy by which it would appear the Canadian Northern Railway has for some time been systematically robbed through abstraction of goods from the local sheds.

A further result of the investigation pursued was the arrest of William Swinton of the local C. P. R. freight shed.

MANAGER ARRESTED

Well-Known Ottawa Man Faces Serious Accusation.

THE CHARGE IS BLACKMAIL

John R. Labatt Alleged to Have Demanded Money With Menaces—Wrote Letters to Hon. H. R. Emmerson and Others—Threatened Exposure If Demands Were Not Met With Cash.

Ottawa, Dec. 4—John R. Labatt, Ottawa, manager of the Labatt Brewing Co. of London, Ont., appeared in the Police Court yesterday to answer a charge of attempting to levy blackmail.

From what can be learned a number of prominent Ottawa men have for several months past been receiving letters demanding money upon pain of exposure of certain private or personal affairs. The writer of the letters hinted at information in his possession and intended that cash alone would prevent exposure.

On July 18, 1907, Hon. H. R. Emmerson received a letter demanding the sum of $1,500 upon pain of exposure of certain alleged acts. The matter was put into the hands of detectives, and for months the work has been quietly prosecuted. Just what additional charges, if any, will be preferred against the prisoner, is unknown.

It is stated that Labatt had written quite a few letters of the nature described, and that in some cases he had succeeded in obtaining the money demanded.

MANY BODIES FOUND.

Victims of Mine Disaster Charred and Burned Beyond Recognition.

Pittsburg, Dec. 4—The bodies of 37 of the miners caught by an explosion of fire damp Sunday night in the Jacobs Creek Mine of the United Coal Co. located near Fayette City, 35 miles south of this city, had been reached by rescuers yesterday. The bodies were burned and charred almost beyond recognition. The rescuers are now nearing the end of the workings, they have found no signs of life anywhere. In the opinion of the owners of the mine, few, if any, more victims will be found. Among miners and others in the village there is a firm belief that the total number of victims is between 40 and 50.

Because of the accumulation of gas the work of rescue in the remote sections of the mine is greatly impeded. A second explosion is a constant menace, and every precaution is being taken to avert such a calastrophe.

Scores of frantic women continually surround the pit mouth, and the special detail of officers has much trouble in preventing them from interfering with the work of the rescuers.

TO BOOM BLACK SOD ROUTE.

Irish Deputation Will Ask Prime Minister For Subsidy.

Montreal, Dec. 4—Hon. Dr. Clancy Bishop of Elphin, Sligo, Ireland, R. W. Ambrose, M. P. for West Mayo, and Rev. N. Armstrong, M. P., arrived here yesterday from New York on the way to Ottawa where they will lay before Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his Government the advantages and claims of the Black Sod Bay route.

The Bishop of Elphin declares that the thorough success of the scheme would be assured by a subsidy of a maximum of a half dollars a year by British and Canadian Governments and that the service proposed would bring the journey to New Zealand from London 10 days, to Sydney, Australia, 24 days. At present the voyage to New Zealand occupies from 40 to 45 days, says his lordship, is one which both the Canadian and British Governments are bound to take up if they consider it impartially.

Quebec, Dec. 4.—A general alarm yesterday brought the fire brigade to a fire which had broken out in the three-storey brick building in St. Valier street, occupied as a tannery and leather store by Messrs. Clement and Marchand.

For a brief period it looked as if the blaze might develop into a disaster. Firemen worked hard and succeeded in confining it to the building, which was completely gutted.

The losses are heavy, but covered by insurance.

AMBASSADOR TO EXPLAIN.

Jap Government Seeks Light on the Immigration Problem.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Ambassador Aoki has been summoned to Japan by his Government to explain personally and in detail the precise situation in this country in regard to the Japanese immigrant problem.

The ambassador has been making every effort to keep his own account, and through the various Japanese consular officers, the attitude of the repatriated race feeling existing in some sections of the United States towards Japanese immigrants. Already Baron Ishii, one of the secretaries of the Japanese Interior Department, has made an investigation of conditions among the coolies in California, Oregon and Washington, but also in British Columbia on the north, upon which he has based a special report to his Government. But it is believed that the purpose of the Japanese Government in summoning Ambassador Aoki to Tokio is to secure from him information which Baron Ishii could not possibly have acquired during his short stay in Canada and which would aid the Administration here, with particular reference to the measures which have recently been adopted by the Japanese Government to restrict the departure from Japan for America of the coolie element. Also the Japanese Government desires a personal forecast of the likelihood of Congressional action in the direction of legislation providing for the exclusion of Japanese immigration.

The Japanese Embassy it is stated that the ambassador will probably leave Washington for San Francisco or Victoria in about a fortnight, for a conference yesterday notified President Roosevelt and Secretary Root. There is no definite date yet as to his return to Washington. During his absence Mr. Miyatovich, secretary of the Embassy, will be in charge.

JUDGE CENSURES SOLICITOR.

Suggests Charge of Perjury Be Laid Against Toronto Lawyer.

Toronto, Dec. 4—Magistrates and the Law Society are recommended by Justice Riddell to investigate the part played by Alfred Ernest Hetherington of Hailebury, in a legal difficulty in which Perry of the same town, Hall, it seems, undertook to buy from Perry a house and furniture for $2,250. He paid $375 on account, and alleges that certain repairs were to be done. The plaintiff claim he spent $750 on these improvements. An action followed, and Hetherington appeared, and the defendant counterclaimed for $1,375, of which he claimed due.

"In this appeal," says Justice Riddell, "counsel for both parties state that either plaintiff or defendant was guilty of the grossest perjury, of willful and corrupt perjury, and I fear that the statement that Hall be prosecuted will be founded. Upon the reference which I think should be made to North Bay, the plaintiff, a solicitor of the court, produced a document which he claim was signed by the defendant in his presence. This the defendant denied. The effect of the master's finding is admitted to be that in his opinion the defendant's account is a correct one."

MRS. BRADLEY ACQUITTED.

Jury Find Her Not Guilty of Killing ex-Senator Brown.

Washington, Dec. 4—The jury in the case of Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, charged with the murder of former United States Senator Arthur Brown of Utah, at a local hotel on Dec. 8 last, yesterday brought in a verdict of not guilty.

A demonstration of applause followed the announcement of the verdict.

Mrs. Bradley left the court house in an automobile following an ovation. The defendant fainted when the outcome of the trial, which she had confidently anticipated and declared she had no fear of, was known.

Situation In Portugal.

Lisbon, Dec. 4—Bernardino Machado, who is regarded as the inevitable successor of Premier Lapa in the event of a change of regime in Portugal, declared yesterday that the tranquility of the country was superficial, and that, instead of being indifferent to the political struggle now in progress, the masses are moved by what is expected.

"The establishment of a dictatorship," he said, "has created the deepest resentment amongst the people, who are accustomed to a liberal monarchy, and are indignant with what they consider the restoration of absolutism. As King Charles openly supports Premier Franco, the royal prerogative has suffered correspondingly. The present strain cannot long be maintained, any violent incident, with its necessary repression, might precipitate the gravest crest."

"We're all going," she cried—"father, mother and Satan. It seems father has had an excellent offer to let the house furnished till the end of September, and he says that he is sick of his life he will put in the time on the top of the Catskills. He abandons me and says that if he can borrow a dollar he is going to cut me off with it in his will. He regards the departure of the British fleet, because he thinks he might have been able to raise a real English sulking board. Dad only insists on one condition—namely, that he is to pay for himself, mother and Satan, as he does not want a room with a balcony. I said that in spite of his disinterference I'd help the family out of my salary, and so he is going to reconsider the changing of his will."

"We will settle the conditions when we reach the Catskills," said Dorothy, smiling.

CHAPTER VII.

CAPTAIN and Mrs. Sempt, with Sabina, had resided a week in the Matterhorn hotel before the two girls arrived there. They had gone direct to New York, and it required the seven days to find a flat that suited them, of which they were to take possession on the 1st of October. Then there were the lawyers to see, a great many business details to settle and an architect to consult. After reaching New York the girls spent a day at Haverstock, where Dorothy Ambrose bought a piece of land as shrewdly as if she had been in the real estate business all her life. After this transaction the girls drove to the station on the line connecting with the inland railway and so, as Katherine remarked, were "wafted to the skies on flowery beds of ease," which she explained to her admiring companion was all right because it was a quotation from a hymn. When at last they reached their hotel, Katherine was in ecstasies.

"Isn't this heavenly?" she cried. "And, indeed, it ought to be, for I understand we are 3,000 feet higher than we were in New York, and even the skyscrapers can't compete with such an altitude."

The broad valley of the Hudson lay spread beneath them, stretching as far as the eye could see, shimmering in the thin, bluish veil of a summer evening, and miles away the river itself could be traced like a silver ribbon.

The gallant captain, who had been energetically browbeaten by his younger daughter and threatened with divers pains and penalties should he fail to pay attention and take heed to instructions, had acquitted himself with eclat in the selection of rooms for Dorothy and his daughter. The suit was situated in one corner of the huge caravansary, a large parlor occupying the angle, with windows on one side looking into the forest and on the other giving an extended view across the valley. The front room adjoining the parlor was to be Dorothy's very own, and the end room belonged to Katherine, he said, as long as she behaved herself. If Dorothy ever wished to evict her strenuous neighbor, all she had to do was to call upon the captain, and he would lend him aid, at which proffer of assistance Katherine tossed her head and said she would try the room for a week and if she didn't like it out Dorothy would have to go.

There followed days and nights of revelry—hops, concerts, entertainments of all sorts, with a more pretentious ball on Saturday night, when the week-tired man from New York arrived in the afternoon to find temperature 20 degrees lower and the altitude very much higher than was the case in his busy office in the city. Katherine reveled in this round of excitement, and, indeed, in a milder way, did Dorothy. After the functions were over the girls enjoyed a comforting chat with one another in their dressing room, all windows open and the moon a-shining down over the luminous valley, which it seemed to fill with mystery and peace.

Young J. K. Henderson of New York, having danced repeatedly with Katherine on Saturday night, unexpectedly turned up for the hop on the following Wednesday, when he again danced repeatedly with the same joyous girl. It being somewhat unusual for a teen business man to take a four hours' journey during an afternoon in the middle of the week and as a consequence arrive late at his office next morning, Dorothy began to wonder if a serious formality, associated with the name of Prince Ivan Leonoff of Russia, was strong enough to stand an energetic assault of this nature, supposing it were to be constantly repeated. It was after midnight on Wednesday when the two reached the corner parlor. Dorothy sat in a cane armchair, while Katherine threw herself into a rocking chair, laced her finger behind her head and gazed through the open window at the misty infinity beyond.

"Well," sighed Katherine, "this has been the most enjoyable evening I ever spent."

"Are you quite sure?" inquired her friend.

"Certainly. Shouldn't I know?"

"He dances well, then?"

"Exquisitely."

"Better than Jack Lamont?"

"Well, now you mention him, I must confess Jack danced very creditably."

"I didn't know but you might have forgotten the prince."

"No, I haven't exactly forgotten him, but—I do think he might have written to me."

"Oh, that's it, is it? Did he ask your permission to write?"

"Good heavens, no! We never talked of writing. Old red sandstone, rather, was our topic of conversation. Still he might have acknowledged receipt of the books."

"But the book was given to him in return for the one he presented to you."

"Yes, I suppose it was. I hadn't thought of that."

"Then again, Kate, Russian notions regarding writing to young ladies may differ from ours, or he may have fallen overboard or mislaid his address."

"Yes, there are many possibilities," murmured Katherine dreamily.

"It seems most strange that Mr. Henderson should have time to come across in the middle of the week."

"Why is it strange?" asked Katherine. "Mr. Henderson is not a clerk bound down to office hours. He's an official high up in one of the big insurance companies and gets a simply tremendous salary."

"Really? Does he talk as well as Jack Lamont do?"

"He talks less like the Troy Technical Institute and more like the Home Journal than poor Jack did, and, then, he has a much greater sense of humor. When I told him that the oath of an insurance man should be 'bet your life!' he laughed. Now, Jack would never have seen the point of that. Anyhow, the hour is too late and I am too sleepy to worry about young men's jokes either. Good night!"

Next morning's mail brought Dorothy a bulky letter decorated with English stamps. She locked the door, tore open the envelope and found many sheets of thin paper bearing the heading of the Bluwater club, Fall Mall.

"I am rebuked by your letter," she read, "to the effect that one should not cross a bridge before one comes at it. Since I bade goodby to you up to this very evening I have been plodding over a bridge which didn't cost me much to my own discomfort. You were with me when I crossed the mountage ordering me home to England, and I don't know whether or not I succeeded in suppressing the groans of my own perturbation, but we have in the navy now a man who does not hesitate to overcome a bridge which I have feared a reopening of the Rock in the Baltic question, which might have meant the wrecking of my career. I had quite made up my mind, if the worse came to the worst, I'd go out west and become a cowboy, but a passenger with whom I became acquainted on the Enthusiasm informed me, to my regret, that the cowboy is largely a being of the past, to be met with only in the writings of Stewart Edward White, Owen Wister and several other Eastern men whom he named. So you see I went across the ocean tolerably depressed, finding my promised occupation threatened and my future uncertain.

"When I arrived in London, I took a room at this club, of which I have been a member for some years, and reported immediately at the admiralty. But there, in spite of all diligence on my part, I was quite unable to learn what was wanted of me. Of course I could have gone to my uncle, who is in the government, and perhaps he might have enlightened me, although he has nothing to do with the navy, but I rather like to avoid Uncle Metgurne. He brought me up since I was a small boy and seems unnecessarily ashamed of the result. It is his son who is the attache in St. Petersburg that I spoke to you about."

Dorothy ceased reading for a moment.

"Metgurne, Metgurne," she said to herself. "Surely I know that name."

She laid down the letter, pressed the electric button and unlocked the door. When the servant came, she said:

"Will you ask at the office if they have any biographical book of reference relating to Great Britain and, if so, please bring it to me?"

The servant appeared shortly after with a red book which proved to be an English "Who's Who" dated two years back. Turning the pages, she came to Metgurne.

"Metgurne, twelfth Duke of, created 1621, Herbert George Alan." Here followed a number of other titles, the information that the son and heir was Marquis of Thaxted and belonged to the diplomatic service; that Lord Metgurne was H. M. secretary of state for royal dependencies; finally a list of residences and clubs. She put down the book and resumed the letter.

"I think I ought to have told you that when I reach St. Petersburg I shall be as anxious to avoid my cousin Thaxted as I am to steer clear of his father in London. So I sat in my club and read the papers. Dear me, this is evidently going to be a very long letter. I hope you won't mind, but I think perhaps you may be interested in learning how they do things over here.

"After two or three days of anxious waiting there came a confidential communication from the admiralty which confirmed my worst fears and set me at crossing the bridge again. I was ordered to report next morning at 11 at committee room 5 in the admiralty and wrong with me full instructions pertaining to the fixing of gun number so-and-so of the battleship Thunderer on such a date. I wonder since that I did not take to drink. We have every facility for that sort of thing in this club.

"However, at 11 next day I presented myself at the committee room and found in session the grandest looking five men I have ever yet been called upon to face. Considering they were about ten times worse in appearance than the quartermaster I had previously encountered, I felt quite at home. I not know, but the fifth I recognized at once, having often seen his portrait. He is Admiral Sir John Pendergest, popularly known in the service as 'Old Growler,' a bluff sailor who knows absolutely nothing of mercy. The lads in the service say he looks so disagreeable because he is sorry he was not born a hanging judge. Picture a face as cleanly cut as that of some severe old Roman senator, a face as hard as marble, quite as cold and nearly as white, rescued from the appearance of a death mask by a pair of piercing eyes that glitter like steel. When looking at him it is quite impossible to believe that such a personage has ever been a boy who played pranks on his masters. Indeed, Admiral Sir John Pendergest seems to have sprung, fully uniformed and forbidding, from the earth, like those soldiers of mythology. I was so taken aback at confronting such a man that I never noticed my old friend, Billy Richardson, seated at the table as one of the minor officials of the committee. Billy tells me I looked rather white about the lips when I realized what was ahead of me, and I dare say he was right. My consolation is that I didn't get red, as is my disconcerting habit. I was accommodated with a chair, and then a merely faced little man began asking me questions, consulting every now and then a foolscap sheet of paper which was before him. Others were ready to note down the answers.

"When did you fire the new gun from the Consternation in the Baltic?"

"Dear Miss Ambrose, I have confessed to you that I am not truthful, and, indeed, such confession was quite unnecessary, for you must speedily have recognized the fact, but here is one boast for a line or two of my one accomplishment, which is mathematical accuracy. When I make experiments I don't note the result with my left thumb. My answer to the fifth of the faced man was prompt and complete.

"At twenty-three minutes, seven-teen seconds past 10 a. m., on May the 30 of this year, was my reply.

"The five high officials remained perfectly impassive, but the two sheepy subalterns seemed somewhat taken by surprise, and one of them whispered, 'Did you say fifteen seconds, sir?'

"He said seventeen," replied Sir John Pendergest in a voice that seemed to come out of a sepulcher.

"Who slighted the gun?"

"I did, sir."

"Why did not the regular gunner do that?"

"He did, sir, but I also took observations and raised the range by 400 yards of an inch."

"Was your gunner inaccurate, then, to that extent?"

STOUT WOMAN'S FAVORITE
D&A FORM-TRAINING CORSET

It is used successfully in all the "D & A FORM TRAINING" MODEL, the heretofore irreconcilable quartette:

STYLE, REST, ELEGANCE, HYGIENE.

A distinctive feature of this corset is the horizontal section in the lower part, which women of all ages, especially those of a strong tendency toward abdominal prominence, have come to recognize as the only safe and reliable way of training their forms into lines of symmetry and fashionableness.

It is this section which not only serves to conceal the actual weight of the wearer, but successfully persuades the flesh to the hips, and reduces the abdomen very effectually.

No dead woman has ever yet reduced her abdomen with comfort and safety by the aid of any other form of corset.

"D & A" MODELS in every good store where corsets are sold, ranging in prices from $5.00 to $1.00.

ODD FELLOWS' "AT HOME"

Members of Lindsay Lodge No. 400 Entertained Last Night.

An entertainment and supper given by the members of Lindsay Lodge No. 400, I.O.O.F., to their friends and Odd Fellows' last night, proved a gratifying success. The handsome rooms were filled by a happy company, composed of the wives and sweethearts of the members.

The chair was taken by Mr. H. Mondelon who on behalf of the lodge, gave a hearty welcome to the visitors and went so far as to grant the fraternity of the premises—of course the lodge's, not the wives of the members. The chairman's humorous speech had the effect of making every person feel quite at home, the result being that all seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves. The programme had not a dull number in it. The talent was altogether amateur, and each other part of the production of all. The following ladies and gentlemen took part: Miss Della Matthie, instrumental selection; Percy Mulhern song, Mrs. Edwards, reading; Mr. H. Simmons, comic Miss Hewson, duet; Miss Sarah Conway, song; Master Newton, violin solo; Mr. Hyam, song, Mrs. (Dr.) Irwin, reading; Mr. John Gray, song; Mr. Ryan and Sarsfieldd, duet; Miss Forsyth, song; several accompaniments, and Prof. Hoggins's orchestra contributed his share to the enjoyment of the evening.

After the programme a very daintily spread was served, with the assistance of the ladies, and a very pleasant hour was passed in visiting and chatting before breaking up for the evening. Lindsay Lodge, No. 400, I.O.O.F., have many friends, and evidently know how to entertain them.

Experts estimated that the price of all the diamonds in the world exceeds $510,000,000, and that more than one-third of the value is owned in the United States.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Regular Session Last Evening—The Business Transacted.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was held last night at 8 o'clock, in the Council chamber. There were present: Chairman Stewart, Messrs W. McWatters, D. R. Anderson, J. D. Flavelle, Alex. Jackson, J. G. Edwards, Jos. Staples, John Carew, J. W. Anderson, Robt. Sproat and Drs. Blanshard, Whitehead and Walters.

The minutes of the last regular meeting, and of a special meeting held Tuesday, Nov. 30th, were read and approved.

The special meeting was for the consideration of applications for the position about to be vacated by Mr. McDonald of the Collegiate staff. The application of Mr. A. W. Dunfey, of Orangeville, was accepted, his fee to commence January, 1898, at a salary of $1200 a year.

Mr. Blanshard's report of the attendance at the Collegiate during November was read—total on roll 225, average attendance 194. The Public Schools, with 820 on the roll, showed an average of 762, or 93 per cent for November. The month's report was very satisfactory, each school and teachers were well up in their work.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication from Miss I. Richardson, of the Francis st. school, tendering her resignation at the end of this term, was read.

Moved by Dr. White, seconded by W. McWatters, that the resignation be accepted.—Carried.

A communication was read from A. W. Beall, thanking the Board, the principal and the teachers for their donations and permission to address the scholars in November.

Mr. R. H. Walks was then heard on behalf of the pupils for permission to build a skating rink on the west lawn of the Collegiate grounds. It would be an open air rink, maintained entirely by the scholars, who would be allowed on it only from four to six and Saturday afternoons. It would counteract a much worse fog out at night, from which the school is just now suffering, and would be healthier than an indoor rink. The staff and Mr. Walsh, the caretaker, would have control of it, and it would be for the use of girls only. Mr. McDonald, Classical Master, also spoke in favor of it.

The scheme was approved by the Board and permission granted.

PAYMENT.

The report of the Finance committee was read and passed as follows:

Jim Thorburn	$ 28.00

Mr. Carew then thought of an second given him by Mr. Chalmers, and requested it be read to the Board.

It was moved by Mr. Flavelle, seconded by Mr. Carew, that the work done and supplied by Messrs. Carew and Anderson, and if satisfactory they, should order it paid.

OTHER BUSINESS

Moved by Dr. White, seconded by Jas. Staples, that Miss Wallace be tendered the position vacated by Mr. McDonald, and in the event of her refusal, Miss Norma Toughiam be engaged temporarily till mid-summer at the usual salary.—Carried.

Chairman Stewart then mentioned the agreement left before him in Sept. under consideration between the teachers and the board. He said that the teachers requested to have to agree to sign for a full year, which after the full board had discussed, drawn up the agreement for.

Mr. Carew—"If they enter for a year they should sign it and their reason for it was a business proposition."

Mr. Jackson—"Teachers should not be allowed to leave at Easter only one way."

Mr. Broderick on being called upon, said that the teachers' meeting was over, but if the board wished it, they would meet with them anytime to come to an agreement.

The Board then adjourned.

THE POST CORRESPONDENTS' LETTERS

OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The sleighing is giving our boys a lively appearance once more. Hay, straw and wood are coming in nicely.

Many drove to Lindsay markets on Saturday and consider everything as good as on markets in larger towns.

The funeral of Hugh Latchford's also took place this week.

Mrs. Wm. Latchford received news this week, her mother, Mrs. T. Hawing died very suddenly at Millbrook.

Mrs. Thos. Stephenson and Dr. Cotnwall's conditions are unchanged. Both are confined to their rooms.

Our merchants have an excellent display of Christmas goods at night prices.

Rev. Father McGuire pays our village weekly visits to get the warm southern air. To become a great commercial centre, the old Tiger says Omemee must move back north more and unite with Downeyville.

DUNSFORD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A very pleasant evening was spent by about seventy Dunsford citizens in the Orange hall last Wednesday, Nov 27th. The purpose of the gathering was to tender to Mr. and Mrs. James Kimble and family a silent token of the regard in which they were held by the people of Dunsford during their nine or ten years' sojourn among them. Early in the evening Mr. Wm. Thurston read a very fitting address, and Messrs. W. Thurston and N. Thurston presented Mr. and Mrs. Kimble a beautiful chair and hall rack. Mr. and Mrs. Kimble responded to the address, and a few other pleasant words were called upon for a few words. The remainder of the evening was spent in card playing and dancing.

On Monday evening the Methodist choir and a few others drove to Mr. W. Lewis' in a sleigh, and as the night was a bright one and the sleighing good everyone enjoyed themselves.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson preached the first sermon of a series of sermons on baptism, last Sunday evening, to a very large congregation.

RE DRIVER OF ROSE WAGGON.

(To the Editor of The Post.

Mr. Editor—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to compliment Aid. McLean on the stand he took re driving horses.

Now, Mr. Editor, as we all know that Mr. McLean is an expert horseman, and knows how a horse should be driven to a fire, I am willing to put his winter's runners, on the wagon and let Aid. McLean drive the rig around a few blocks, just to convince him of its tendency to upset. I think it is his duty to come out and give me a few pointers, as I know he is capable of doing; I will assist him all I can, but I don't think that my assistance would be required, as he knows all the fine points already.

As for driving with a loose rein that is one thing that I deny, and I think of Aid. McLean is the man. I think he is up to him to upholding. As for fast driving, I think it is my duty to get to a fire as fast as the horses can take me.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain—Yours, etc.

ROLLER HOCKEY

The first game of Roller Hockey ever played in Lindsay will be played at the Roller Rink on Wednesday night of this week between the fast Roller Hockey Team from Peterboro, and Lindsay's fast team. This should prove to be a very fast and exciting game. The team that will play against Peterboro on Wednesday night will be the same boys that have entered into the intermediate class on ice for the coming season, and we expect them to give a good account of themselves before the season closes.

Every person should turn out on Wednesday night to see this game and to help the boys along. As this is a benefit for the Hockey Team, they should get a good start off for the season.

We expect the Mayor and Town Council to be present, and the Mayor will place the ball for the first Roller Hockey ever seen in Lindsay.

The doors will open at 7.15, skating until 8.30, then the Hockey for 30 minutes each way, and there will be skating until 10.30 with Band in attendance.

As the Peterboro rink is closed now we will have all our skates here for that night. Every person who comes to see the Hockey game Wednesday night will get skates free.

Handy With His Shooi ng Iron

Mr. J. H. Hall Monday vs. Robert Agnew, for assault, was heard yesterday and to-day by Magistrate Moore. Both are farmers of Ops township. It seems that McGinnis and Agnew traded horses a while ago, and a little later Agnew found he had gotten the worst of the bargain. He went to McGinnis and tried to take the horse out of the harness worse it was working. McGinnis refused to prevent him getting back the animal, and of course a fight ensued. While there Mr. McGinnis had words about six mollies, and hired by Agnew, drew a revolver and pointed it at McGinnis. Magistrate Moore assessed Agnew $15 and costs for assault, and Haworth was the loser of $10 and costs for his little revolver feat.

A Successful Sale.

The sale and afternoon tea held by the ladies of St. Andrew's church Saturday in the Lambs school room proved a great success. Large numbers of people attended and all had a most enjoyable time. The proceeds of the entertainment amounted to over $75 in all, each department doing its share to reach this good total. The house production department, as it was called, netted over $11, the paper stall $7, and the candy sales reached a total of $15. Each department had nothing but the very best goods, and the whole was prettily decorated. Some pretty effects were obtained in the paper stall, and so for the candy, it was pronounced delicious by all who tasted. The ladies are to be congratulated on the great success of their enterprise.

LADIES COURT OF FORESTERS

Successful Concert Last Evening —An Interesting Program.

Mrs. Wm. Morrison, Chief Ranger, Mrs. V. Brooks, financial Secretary, and other officers and members of Companion Court I.O.F., have financial and other reasons for feeling thoroughly pleased with the social some of last night's concert under their auspices. The lodge room over Shannon's was crowded to the doors by a little after 8 o'clock, yet many later arrivals, as it confident of the good time coming, joined the crush and cheerfully put up with inconveniences.

Many members of Court Lindsay, No 181, I.O.F., were present to swell the members of the sister lodge, who also enjoyed the pleasure of having as their chairman for the evening Bro. George A. Mitchell, D.H.S.C.R., of Toronto, who, on a neat compliment to the Court, brought with him Miss Nellie Aston, one of the city's leading church soloists, who was heard to great advantage in several numbers during the evening. The somewhat lengthy program was as follows:

Song, Mr. Jack Gray; song, Mr E. C. Ryan; instrumental, (piano), Misses Workman; song, Misses Annie and Dorothe Kinnear; violin solo, Miss Agnes Preston; song, Miss Leary; instrumental, (piano), Misses Metzler and Pratt; song, Miss Aston, whistling solo, Miss Mabel White; recitation, (flute and piano), Mr. and Mrs. Morrison; reading, Miss Trawmley; recitation, xylophone, Mr. Morrison; song, Mr Peter Wilson; jewel dance, Misses Bessie Bonsfa; solo, Miss Aston; song, Miss Peter Perrin; illustrated song, Miss Roberts; recitation, Mr. Lake; song, Miss Alma Perrin; song, Mr. Bell; instrumental, (piano), Miss Pratt; duet; song, Miss Aston; serpentine dance, Miss Foley.

SPECIAL FEATURES

Not the least interesting item on the program was a five minute address by Dr. J. A. White on the kind of a wife young men would like to marry, in the course of which the speaker conveyed some excellent advice and in particular condemned street walking.

Bro. Mitchell devoted a few minutes to an exposition of some of the many good points of Forestry, and then, after congratulating the ladies of Companion Court on the success of their entertainment, called upon two prominent members of Court No 181—Bro. W. S. Chard, D. S. Co., and Bro. W. McCarty, Financial Secretary—to join him on the platform. After commending in high terms the splendid work for the good of the order at large, and the upbuilding of Lindsay Court in particular, Bro. Mitchell had been commissioned by the Executive in Toronto to present to them as a token of a work prepared on the lines received head of the order, Dr. Oronhyatekha, and only to be awarded for services such as they had performed Bro. Mitchell pinned the gifts on the breasts of each, while the crowd cheered and applauded.

The recipients gratefully acknowledged the honor done them. Refreshments were then served by the ladies and a staff of deft assistants, and it is the unanimous opinion of all participators that the brothers who had had the good fortune to wed the makers of the good things so generously provided, had already solved the problem propounded by Dr. Weiss, the evening was spent in a close about 12 o'clock with the national anthem.

Epworth League Convention

There will be a grand rally of Epworth Leagues at Hancastown tomorrow, when delegates from all parts of the district will assemble in the Methodist church. The Lindsay district embraces all the circuits between Janetville and Gamebo and Haliburton. Sessions will be held in the morning and afternoon, when addresses will be given by Rev. L. R. Bishop of Port Hope, Rev. R. J. McCulloch, of Omemee, Rev. H. Embury, missionary from Japan, and others. At the evening session the speakers will be Rev. H. Bishop, of Port Hope, Rev. E. Embury, and others.

THE POST CORRESPONDENTS' LETTERS

GLENARM.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

What a change in the past week! Winter fairly threw his cold, white mantle on the ground. We now bear the jingle of the bells.

Miss Cecie Spears has returned from Toronto and taken up residence in our midst.

Mrs. A. McKay and baby boy are visiting for parents at Islay.

Mrs. Hamilton, of New Zealand, is the guest of her son Guy.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wood, Miss Brown and Miss Christian attended the tea at Cannington, and report a good time.

Some are busy discussing and planning for the anniversary tea.

The Sawyill team are arranging for an At concert about Christmas time and will utilize the best talent in our community.

The annual meeting of Palestine cheese factory was held Monday. Owing to the scarcity of milk last season the factory closed the end of August. As the books are audited at the end of each month, the directors closed, rather than allow a deficit to accumulate. The season of 1906 promises to be the best in the factory's record, and farmers will find it to their profit to stand by it and patronize it.

BOBCAYGEON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The church of Christ's church here opened their new Parish Hall on last Tuesday evening, the 26th ult. Rev. Canon Davis, of Toronto, conducted the dedicatory services, which were inspiring and solemn. After the dedication the bishop gave a short address, in which he praised the ladies of the church guild for their excellent work in erecting such a fine parish hall. Then a literary program, consisting of music, songs and short addresses was given in a most efficient manner, after which refreshments were served. A very pleasant evening was spent.

There is good sleighing here and the jingle of the bells livens up the town after the monotonous patter of the rain.

County Magistrate Moore held court in the town hall here on Monday last, 26th ult., to hear the cases against Sam McCallum and Sam. Stinson, both of South Verulam, for destroying Mr. W. H. Thurston's gate the night of October 31st last. The evidence was clear that they destroyed the gate, so a fine of $1.00 and costs was imposed on each, with cost of gate added, so that they had to pay $18.25 for their pranks.

Quite a large amount of grain and stock is still being shipped from the station here. Before the railway was built, many people said that in than per month would take all the produce from Cayzoon, but they were not well informed, as has upon amplified since during the past three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cain were in town visiting friends last week.

Miss Christmas trees and the Coast are standing topics in our town at present. We cannot tell what the outcome will be, whether it will be "watered" stock or "watered" sea. Nuously known.

Mr. W. Armour and Mr. Harry Armour, officers of Huronic, arrived here Saturday and left on Monday morning to visit their uncle John at Haliburton.

UPLIFT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Since last writing we have had a full of the beautiful, and the whole are laid up for the present, there being fine sleighing.

For some reason unexplained the Chemical Co. of Longford has broken up their camp on the Hodge property in Dalby, east of this place, and also in the township of Longford. The man have all been paid off. There has been a large amount of money paid out in the sawlog camps north of here, particularly on the Nichols & Dymond camps on Oakley, and the Shepard Lumber Co. camps in Longford.

Mr. Chas. Peel, cattle buyer of Victoria Road, is still doing business at the old stand. He has handled a very large number of cattle, sheep and hogs this summer and fall, and the end is not yet. Charley is a very fair man to deal with. The cattle around here are pretty well picked up.

The Council of the municipality of Laxton, Digby and Longford met on the last meeting of the year on Monday, Dec. 10th, at the township hall, Dove Lake, and the clerk was ordered to square up the business of 1907 all parties having any business of any kind with the Corporation should attend that meeting.

Mr. S. Stewart of this place shipped a carload of sheep to the Toronto market last week.

D. A. McCrea, of this place, was in the city last week selecting goods for the A. McCrea Dry Goods store, of this place, for the holiday season.

There has been no service in the Presbyterian church here lately. The reason is that the people wanted a change of minister. The late minister has been removed, and so far no other has been called to take his place. This field covers Sebright, Dartmouth and Uphill.

I also inform you, Ladies, that Xmas is soon at hand, and if you want a good Coat, of the very latest style you can come and select it in my store at a very reasonable price. We also have a nice selection of furs. If you come to see them it will interest you very much to see the prices.

THE EVENING POST.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, but in that case he must reside in a tent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or in a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) If the term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

MODERN SURGERY.

Some of the Marvelous Feats It Has Accomplished.

By a marvelous piece of surgery Miss Dot Stephens of London music hall fame will be able to appear on the stage again in spite of the fact that in October last she had both her feet cut off through falling out of a train. At a cost of $1,000 she has been fitted with a pair of artificial feet which are not only so wonderfully made as to entirely escape detection, but which enable Miss Stephens to walk a couple of miles without fatigue and without the aid of a stick.

A remarkable surgical feat recalls the frequent remark, "Everything is possible in surgery nowadays."

A prisoner had cut his throat with a razor. Thanks, however, to a remarkable piece of surgery on the part of two doctors, the wound was stitched up and the man's life saved.

Even this astounding feat, however, has been surpassed. Two years ago a sailor was stabbed through the heart while quarreling over a game of cards. He arrived at the hospital in a state of eclipse, and the doctors decided that the only chance of saving his life was to stitch up the wound in the heart. The chest had to be opened, three ribs cut and part of the breastbone removed before the vital organ could be reached, after which three stitches were put in the heart. Artificial respiration was then resorted to, and two months later the tailor was discharged from the hospital as cured, although he was obliged to wear a shield of black leather and aluminium over his chest to prevent any injury to the wound.

Apart, however, from the fact of stitching up wounded hearts, it will probably astonish many people to learn that it is by no means a rare occurrence for surgeons to make hearts beat again after they have apparently stopped. An operation for cancer was being performed, and under the influence of the anaesthetic the patient's heart suddenly ceased to beat. In an instant the surgeon's hand was thrust inside the body, and he commenced pinching the heart, which began to beat again, thus saving the patient's life.

Quite recently at a meeting held at Baltimore a surgeon explained how he grafted a girl's little finger on her face where her nose should have been and then amputated it. The patient is now a very presentable looking child.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Striking Disappearances.

Some people scoff at the notion that other folks actually disappear. They read newspaper stories to that effect as a study in fiction. But there are serious facts that prove these disappearances to occur. Here is the advertisement of the Manhattan company, a well known bank of New York city. This advertisement, published under requirement of the law, shows that one woman, residence unknown, has owned one share of the company's stock since 1825 and that 142 dividends are due to her. Another woman has owned two shares since 1826 and has eighty-two dividends due her. One man has held two shares since 1833 and another has been shares since 1833. This last has over $2,400 due him. The bank cannot find any of these people, whose claims run from $300 to $3,000. That indicates a genuine disappearance.—Hartford Courant.

A Skowhegan Nature Fake.

Here is a nature story from Skowhegan which will bear investigation: "Mrs. Henry Harris broke a common hen's egg in a bowl the other morning. In so doing she found another little egg in the bowl with a shell on it, which proved to be a sparrow's egg. Mrs. Harris called Mr. Harris to explain what this strange discovery meant. Mr. Harris took the sparrow's egg and broke it. Inside the shell he found a little sparrow alive. Mr. Harris solved the problem. The hen had swallowed the sparrow's egg whole, and in doing so had let the shell her own egg the little egg had got within and the warmth of the hen had been required all to hatch the little sparrow. The sparrow, though not grown enough to hatch, is alive."—Kennebec Journal.

Can You Figure It Out?

Here is a new problem for the high brows, but perhaps even you, with a little study, can solve it:

7	8	9
10	11	12

Fifteen girl members of a walking club start to walk for seven days. The rule of the club is that they shall walk three abreast each day, and on no two days shall any three of them walk together in the same row. The problem is to show how they were arranged each day of the seven and how they arranged on the seventh day.—New York World.

The Crossbow.

The pope in 1186 prohibited the crossbow as barbarous and threatened crossbowmen with excommunication.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

In Canada 1,200 miles of railroads have been constructed in twelve months, and 2,000 more are under way.

A railroad will soon be completed which will extend from Puerto Barrion, on the Atlantic coast, to the city of Guatemala, putting the capital of the Central American republic within five days' steam communication of New Orleans.

The report of the Interstate commerce commission for the year ending June 30, 1906, shows a total single track mileage in the United States of 234,363.17, an increase of 6,262.13 miles during the year. The total number of railway employees was 1,521,255.

There is now in use on the Union Pacific railway a motor wood burner which, with its crew of three men, does the work of 800. The machine is propelled usually at the rate of three miles an hour, and it destroys from twenty to twenty-five miles of weeds a day.

GLEANINGS.

Nearly half the meat eaten in Berlin is beef; pork comes next, then mutton, while veal is fourth.

A Lawrence county (Mo.) man who is building an addition to his house is making the shingles by hand out of oak.

London is to have a dress exhibition next February, at which dresses, furs and laces to the value of at least $500,000 will be displayed.

The goats which produce the milk for the famous Roquefort cheese hardly ever drink water, obtaining the moisture they require from the herbage.

The Greenport (N. Y.) Watchman says that in its eighty-two years of unbroken publication it has had but three editors, two in one family. In December the present editor will have completed forty-nine years in that position.

RANDOM DEFINITIONS.

Egotist—A personified, perpetual, monotonous, perpendicular pronoun.

Public opinion—The moving fingers of the writers and artists of the daily press.

Business—Something in which friendship and love have no part. Don't be deceived.

Patience—The guiding line of advancement that leads one to his desired goal.

Duty—A cold, loveless fact of the reason, a perfunctory performance without soul or sentiment.

Adversity—The paradoxical polish that adds luster to pure gold, but corrodes all inferior metals.—Helen Vail Wallace in New York World.

MONEY MATTERS.

French mints coined $884,000 of Swiss coins last year.

The Italian government has decided on an issue of ten and five lire notes for a sum of $20,000,000.

At present all Canadian coins are minted in London, but after this month they will be turned out at the Ottawa mint. The profit which is now nearly half a million dollars, will accrue to the Dominion government.

If all the money in the world was equally divided among all the people in the world each person would have just $7.50 at the time of division. This would not be enough to pay off the public debts of the principal customers.

Woman's Realm.

Of the nineteen women members of the parliament of Finland all but one are total abstainers.

Miss Jennie Kendall, one of New Hampshire's two women deputy sheriffs, has just joined a woman suffrage club in her home town. The women deputies are doing splendid work.

The ranks of the woman suffragists have been recruited during the year by 12,000 working women, banded together in various cities in "political equality leagues of self supporting women."

Quinsy Sore Throat.

The following is stated to generally quickly bring relief in case of a quinsy sore throat: Thirty grains of chloride of potash, three ounces of tincture chloride of iron, four drums of glycerine and one drachm distilled water to make four ounces. The dose for an adult is one teaspoonful every hour until relieved. To avoid the constipating effect of the iron a good dose of some saline laxative should be taken.

Method.

"He occasionally says things that are wonderfully apropos," said one statesman.

"Yes," answered the other; "he's like our parrot at home. It doesn't know much, but what it does know it keeps repeating until some circumstance arises that makes the remark seem marvelously apt."

Classical Music.

"What is your idea of classical music?"

"Well," answered Mr. Cumrox, "as I understand it a classical piece is something that very hard to play perform by somebody whose name is very hard to pronounce."

"A Dutchman's Honeymoon."

Thus fine attraction is rightfully classed among the really brilliant successes in the field of farce comedy. No production, in its class, has attained such instantaneous popularity, or won so great a measure of critical approbation as has been accorded this delightfully clever mixture of mirth and melody. "A Dutchman's Honeymoon" will be seen at the Academy of Music Friday evening, Dec. 6th—41.

AN ADVT. IN THIS PAPER PAYS.

OUTCRY IS HOLLOW

Mr. Fisher's Effective Reply to Criticism of Meat Inspection.

HAD ONLY ONE COMPLAINT

Mr. Clements Descends to Personalities and is Rebuked by Speaker—Question of Ross Rifles Come Up—Progress In G. T. P. Construction—Mr. Graham Will Bring the Railways to Time.

Ottawa, Dec. 5.—The tone of the debate on the address was perceptibly lowered yesterday afternoon by Mr. Clements of West Kent, who embroidered a lengthy criticism of the meat-packing regulations with an unkind gloss in personalities that twice brought him under the displeasure of the Speaker. He was followed by Hon. Sydney Fisher, who exposed the hollowness of the outcry against the meat inspection regulations, dealt with the question of rural mail delivery, and riddled the well-worn balance of trade theory. Armed with luminous figures, he staggered the House with the enormous exports of the United States on rural mail delivery, an expenditure estimated at thirty-five million dollars for next year, and expressed the belief that the demands of the rural population of Canada for better postal facilities could adequately be met without changing into a system like that in vogue across the line.

Replying to a question by Mr. Foster, the Minister of Railways said that between Winnipeg and Edmonton 800 miles of the Grand Trunk Pacific are under construction; west of Edmonton, none; east of Winnipeg, 460 miles. The estimated cost of grading, track-laying and ballasting, including rolling stock and rails on, the portions under contract between Winnipeg and Edmonton is $18,400,000; between Edmonton and the coast, $50,700,000; between Winnipeg and Moncton, $41,946,258. These amounts including the cost of engineering and contingencies. The estimated mileages from Moncton to Winnipeg, Winnipeg to Edmonton, and Edmonton to the coast were, respectively, 1,897, 800 and 940 miles.

Mr. Foster asked the Minister Mr. Hyman's resignation and salary as Minister of Public Works.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that Mr. Hyman left another portfolio of the Public Works Department on Dec. 4, 1906, the date of his first resignation being Nov. 19, 1906. He had declined to accept Mr. Hyman's resignation, bringing him to consult in office.

On returning to Ottawa about July 25, Sir Wilfrid found that His Excellency the Governor-General was in the Maritime Provinces. As soon as possible, however, the matter was laid before him, and on Aug. 29, 1907, Mr. Hyman's resignation as Minister of the Public Works ceased, his successor being sworn in on that day. Mr. Hyman's salary was paid up to the last-mentioned date.

Hon. Mr. Fielding and the Banks.

Replying to a question by Mr. Foster, the Minister of Finance said that his negotiations with the banks as to arrangements to provide funds for the removal of the wheat from the west were not completed, and it would not be well to make them public at the present time. Later on he hoped to be able to make a statement on the matter.

Replying to Mr Borden, the Finance Minister said that the increase in subsidies to the provinces was the exception of that to Alberta, had been paid. There was a question as to the proper interpretation of the act in the case of Alberta, which, if it had not been settled in the last few hours would be settled very shortly.

Sir Sydney Fisher informed the Hon. Col. Worthington that there were no negotiations between the Government and the Vickers-Maxim Co., or any other company looking to the transfer or other disposition of the Ross Rifle Co's contract with the Government. The Vickers-Maxim Co. or any other firm.

Mr. Macdonald (Toronto) read a telegram from Mayor Coatsworth, saying that 400 Bulgarian immigrants were stranded in the city, the municipal authorities were caring for them and urging that the matter be brought to the attention of Minister of Interior. Mr. Oliver promised to make enquiries.

Connections of Ottawa Line.

George Taylor drew the attention of the Minister of Railways to the inconvenience caused to the travelling public by the fact that Grand Trunk and C. P. R. trains to make connections at Brockville for passengers for Ottawa. Mr. Graham of Renfrew made a similar complaint as regards connections at Renfrew. Messrs. Henderson and Bennett also pointed out inconveniences of a like character in other parts of Ontario, and Mr. Morin made complaint of the failure of the Intercolonial to afford connection in Quebec with the Quebec Central Railway.

Mr. Graham, Minister of Railways, promised to see that the Brockville case was brought before the Board of Railway Commissioners.

A question by Mr. Foster elicited the information that the Department of Militia has ordered to date 32,000 Ross rifles, of which 32,000 have been delivered. The sum of $1,173,054 has been paid to the company and $972,520 is still due for 400 sub-targets. The Department has paid $112,540.

Mr. Fisher informed Mr. Clements that during the year Meats and Canned Goods Act there are employed 51 veterinary and 22 lay inspectors.

Mr. Fisher was informed that during the past two years 564 immigrants were refused admittance to Canada and 528 were deported. Between Jan. 1, 1906, and Oct. 1 of this year, 1,676 children under 12 years of age were admitted to Canada as immigrants.

The Budget Debate.

Mr. Clements of Kent, resuming the debate on the address, raised a laugh by remarking upon the bulk of Archie Campbell, who instead of being taken into the Cabinet was sent over among the grey-haired old fellows in the Senate. In this connection Mr. Clements expressed the opinion that an elective Senate would be more popular in the country than the institution as at present constituted. After referring with regret to the evidences of decreased prosperity, Mr. Clements dealt with the Minister of Agriculture and his hostile reception by the farmers of Chatham, because of the unpopularity of the meat inspection regulations which he criticized at length and described as ridiculous, unnecessary, and unjust. He had a strong plea for encouragement of the tobacco growing industry, also for an efficient cold storage service and rural postal delivery.

Mr. Fisher, in reply, admitted that in Chatham he encountered a bitter feeling against the meat inspection regulations, which, however, he defended as both necessary and advantageous.

Mr. Fisher disapproved of the rural free delivery scheme, to the evident dissatisfaction of the Minister of Militia, McIntyre of South Perth.

E. Nyman of Lewis moved the adjournment of the debate.

LEMIEUX BANQUETTED.

Receives Assurances That Japs Emigration Will Be Controlled.

Tokio, Dec. 5.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Canadian Minister of Labor, was tendered a banquet Tuesday night by the Japanese Club. Among those present were: Sir Claude M. Macdonald, the British Ambassador; Viscount Hayashi, the Japanese Foreign Minister; Baron Shinda and Messrs. Verret and Preston.

Mr. Shibusawa presided and toasted Mr. Lemieux, the latter responding the firm belief that all difficulties would be adjusted amicably.

In an interview Viscount Hayashi stated that the Government was anxious to avoid any sacrifice of Japanese treaty rights with Canada or the United States, and that it would and would control emigration to both countries.

A DETROIT TRAGEDY.

Mrs. Griffith Shoots Dr. Attridge and Then Herself.

Windsor, Dec. 5.—The adjustment of the J. A. Attridge, the subsequent suicide of the woman who shot him, Mrs. James B. Griffith, in the latter's Windsor apartments in Detroit Tuesday night, possesses a peculiar interest for Windsor people, for the reason that Dr. Attridge was himself a Canadian, coming from Dundas, near Ridgetown, where he was born.

Dr. Attridge is 35 years old, and graduated from the Detroit College of Medicine in 1897. He married, as Mrs. Griffith's physician, but her lawyer, as well, and for this cause Griffith left his wife some months ago. The estrangement began when Mrs. Griffith and his wife, when Dr. Attridge prescribed a course of travel for the latter, in an effort to save her, after her himself, Griffith footing the bills.

DEAKIN SEES WARNING.

Franco-Canadian Treaty Significant to British Preferential.

Melbourne, Dec. 5—(C. A. P.)—Premier Deakin said the actual existence of the Franco-Canadian treaty constitutes a striking significant warning to Great Britain who has refused to oppose a reciprocal preference.

Premier Deakin was asked yesterday whether the financial situation in Canada was a financial disadvantage to Great Britain believe. It says that complaints of Yankee methods are heard from Canada, and Canadian manufacturers should restrain Canadian buyers who are overstepping boundaries.

Big Algoma Deputation.

Ottawa, Dec. 5.—This morning a big deputation will arrive in Ottawa from the District of Algoma, to interview the Government regarding the needs of the district.

The delegates will all belong to the Advisory Union of Algoma Municipalities, an organization formed about a year ago to supply the need felt for a body which could speak for the whole district, a territory 200 miles long by 200 long.

In Algoma there is no body corresponding to the county councils of older Ontario, and the struggling municipalities had hitherto each to plead for own cause, while the unorganized territory had no show at all.

Strike Settled at St. John.

St. John, N. B., Dec. 4.—The longshoremen's strike was settled last night. An arrangement was made between the men and the steamship companies whereby an advanced rate of 32½ cents an hour will be paid.

WAR AGAINST ZULUS

Natal's Troops Begin March Against Dinizulu.

CHIEF LIKELY TO RESIST

Natives Gathered About Royal Kraal—Are Well Armed With Rifles—Ten Thousand Spearmen Ready to Take the Field — Expedition May Have a Difficult Task Ahead — Cetewayo's Son.

London, Dec. 5.—The march of Natal's troops into Zululand began yesterday. The avowed object of the expedition is the capture of Dinizulu. There is general apprehension that Cetewayo's son, who has already had the experience of being a British prisoner at St. Helena and doubtless dislikes it, will resist, and as the Zulus gathered about the royal kraal are said to be well armed with rifles, while 10,000 spearmen are ready to take the field, the expedition is believed to have a difficult task ahead.

MRS. GOULD TO DIE.

Condemned to Death For Murder at Monte Carlo.

Monte Carlo, Dec. 5.—After a speedy trial before the Superior Court of Monaco, Vere St. Leger Gould and his wife Marie, were convicted yesterday of the murder of Emma Levin there last summer. The court found that Mrs. Gould was the chief instigator of the crime and condemned her to death by the guillotine, and that Gould was less responsible by reason of his being under the influence of liquor at the time the murder was committed, and sentenced him to imprisonment for life.

The trial of Mr. Gould consumed less than three days. Little attention from all over the world became of the enormity of the crime, the manner in which the murder was committed and the dramatic nature of the rest of the principals, who were taken by the police while seeking to escape with a trunk containing portions of the body in their possession.

Gould and his wife left Monte Carlo early last August, going to Marseilles. A hotel porter in that city noticed blood oozing from a trunk which they had brought with them, and when they drove off with the trunk the porter notified the police and the arrest followed.

Statements made as to the facts in the case were at great variance; Gould himself confessing that he had committed the murder and that his wife had nothing to do with it. The police did not put much faith in his story, and as the case was presented to the court, his wife was shown to be the real instigator.

The evidence went to show that Emma Levin, who was possessed of considerable jewelry and some money, had been attracted to visit the Goulds, who were in needy circumstances. There she was killed and later a quantity of her jewelry was found in the possession of Gould and his wife. Her body was dismembered and packed away in a trunk and valise which the murderers were trying to dispose of when the crime was discovered.

The Goulds at one time were residents of Montreal.

New Naval Base.

Glasgow, Dec. 5.—The plans for the new naval base at Rosyth, Scotland, have been completed and the work will commence early in 1908.

The basin will cover an area of 56 acres, with a depth of 36 feet at all seasons. Ships will be obtained through a lock 800 feet long.

The basin is to be practically square, with quay accommodation for 12 warships, although this may be doubled.

The plans provide for the construction of a graving dock to accommodate the largest of this amount of ships.

Immigration Merger.

Tokio, Dec. 5.—At a convention of the immigration companies held yesterday it was resolved to consolidate into one large company. Minister Hayashi told the convention that steps must be taken fully to regulate emigration.

It was also resolved to enlarge the bureau of emigration.

Trolley Upset; Five May Die.

Dayton, O., Dec. 4.—More than a score of persons, mostly women from Xenia, were injured, five probably fatally, yesterday, when a traction car, beyond control of the motorman on a steep hill and overturned at a curve.

WOMAN THREW BOMB

Governor of Moscow Had Narrow Escape From Death.

HORSES BLOWN TO PIECES

Coachman Seriously Wounded—Bomb Thrown at Carriage While General Was Driving—Assassin Badly Mutilated—Terrorists Plan Wholesale Destruction—Kill Czar, and Blow Up the Douma.

Moscow, Dec. 5.—An unsuccessful attempt was made in this city yesterday upon the life of Lieut.-Gen. Gurechkinsky, Governor-General of Moscow. He escaped death only by a narrow margin. A woman hurled a bomb at the general's carriage while he was driving yesterday morning in the Lefort quarter of the city. The horses were blown to pieces and the coachman was seriously wounded. The Governor-General, however, came out of the explosion unscathed. The woman was so severely mutilated by her own bomb that she had to be removed to a hospital. She is in a dying condition.

Terrorists Make Plans.

Paris, Dec. 5.—A Geneva despatch received here states that the police have discovered a Russian Terrorist plot to assassinate the Emperor, blow up the Imperial Palace and the Douma, and pillage the Imperial Bank of Russia. One arrest has been made in connection with the alleged plot.

ARREST GLACE BAY MAYOR.

Was to Have Been Guest at Banquet When Police Came.

Glace Bay, N. S., Dec. 5.—Last night Mayor Burchell was arrested at the instance of the Dominion Coal Co. The mayor was on the way home from the street on his way to the Clan Macdonald banquet, at which he was the guest of honor. He was charged with having fraud at the sum of $10,000.

Burchell is now out on bail, preliminary to a hearing Tuesday next. Several years ago, when the Dominion Coal Co. took charge of the Cape Breton mines, Mr. Burchell was appointed superintendent of stores and held this position 15 years, at the end of which time the company dispensed with his services.

At that time there was talk concerning an alleged heavy shortage in his department. Talk on the matter died away, but was occasionally revived. Rumors have of late been rife once more in connection with the case, but the denouement came with startling suddenness. As the amount of the shortage alleged against Mr. Burchell there is a wide difference, the sum is variously stated from about $10,000 upwards to $150,000.

THREE MEN BURNED.

Sewer Gas Explodes Causing Flame Which Burns Them.

Galt, Dec. 5.—There was an explosion yesterday afternoon in the cellar of the Galt Malleable Iron Works, caused by sewer gas, when two foreign workmen went into the cellar and lit a match. There was a terrible blaze and iron cookers in the floor left high. Both men were burned. Thomas Stoddard, aged 30, was caught by the flame and also severely scorched.

Robert Veitch, while walking along a pit at the lime kiln, fell a distance of 30 feet. He lit on the side and escaped with injuries to the head and three ribs broken.

Her Age Was 115.

Stratford, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Mary Fleetherstone died last night in Adelaide Township, 10 miles north of here, at the age of 115 years, 110 to 120 years. She was a native of Ireland. Mrs. Fleetherstone, who was buried on Saturday, aged 97, stated shortly before her death that Mrs. Fleetherstone was as old as her own mother. The estimate of her great age is therefore fairly well established.

King Oscar III.

Stockholm, Dec. 5.—The health of King Oscar again is unsatisfactory and on the advice of physicians His Majesty has handed over the reins of government to Crown Prince Gustave, who was formally appointed regent yesterday.

A bulletin issued says that the King is suffering from catarrh of the bladder and prostrated uremia. His heart and kidneys are seriously affected.

A HEALTHY OLD AGE

OFTEN THE BEST PART OF LIFE

Help for Women Passing Through Change of Life.

Providence has allotted to each at least twenty years in which to fulfill our mission in life, and it is generally our own fault if we do not permanently

Mrs M. A. Dabbrugge

Nervous exhaustion invites disease. This statement is the positive truth.

When everything becomes a burden and you cannot walk a few blocks without excessive fatigue, and you break out into perspiration easily, and your face flushes, and you grow excited and shaky at the least provocation and you cannot clear to be crossed in anything, you are in danger; your nerves have given out; you need building up at once! To build up women's nervous system and clear the period of change of life we know of no better medicine than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here is an illustration. Mrs. Mary J. Dabbrugge, of 150 Main Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba, writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a blessing to me through that delicate period known as the change of life. For six years it disturbed my entire system. I had hot flushes, was extremely nervous, became pale and debilitated, very irregular in the monthly flow, and the blood all seemed to be in my head. I had frequent palpitation and throbbing of the heart; in fact, my whole system seemed to be in disorder.

"My husband got relief from his suffering long enough to this period until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I date my relief from the time I took the first bottle. It gradually improved, regular and better course painlessly, and in due time I was a well woman."

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick and ailing women to write her for advice. Her great experience is at their service, free of cost.

Wolves Are Numerous.

Fort Alexander, Man., Dec. 5.—Wolves are very numerous here, and a great nuisance this winter. The following is their bill-of-fare since Oct. 1: Six sheep, fifteen spring lambs, 25 young chickens, twenty turkeys, six geese, two pigs and one calf. Six wolves were shot by local sportsmen.

Young Thomas Dupont had a thrilling experience with a big wolf. He has a small 22 calibre rifle, and, in company with his dog, came unexpectedly upon a huge wolf at close range. He poured four bullets into the brute, which, frenzied with pain, made a rush on Thomas, with mouth wide open. The plucky lad stood his ground, and, thrusting the barrel in the beast's mouth, pulled the trigger and killed the wolf.

President May Send Troops.

Washington, Dec. 5.—President Roosevelt issued orders yesterday to have Federal troops held in readiness to aid in restoring order at Goldfields, Nevada. This action was taken upon representations from Governor Sparks of that state, that the miners at Goldfield are in revolt and riot. Nevada is the one state in the Union which has no state militia. Governor Sparks does not deem the situation such as to justify immediate Federal interference.

Arrested For Murder.

Salisbury, N. B., Dec. 5.—Christopher A. Horseman, husband of the woman who lost her life in the well back of her home three days ago, was arrested last night on a charge of murdering her. Must Go to the Courts.

Count Wilhelm Von Hohenau, who, together with Major Count Johannes Lynar, was compromised by the testimony given in the Harden-Von Moltke libel suit.

The opinion exists that Count Von Hohenau must take his chances in an ordinary court of justice.

CUTE SWINDLER TRACED.

Lillian Hamilton Arrested In Buffalo For Robbing Banker.

St. Catharines, Dec. 5.—After building the authorities for three weeks, Lillian Hamilton, who so easily induced Leonard H. Collard, private banker, to part with $200 upon a note, to which the name of B. C. Fairfield had been forged, is now in the custody of the police, which has been fired for Monday next.

It seems the woman attempted to work some similar swindle upon the bank at Bridgeburg, but the scheme was detected and she was traced to Buffalo, where her arrest was made yesterday morning by Chief Mains of the provincial police force. The name at once aroused the crime and returned with Chief Mains to St. Catharines, where all extraditable proceedings.

Chief Parnell brought the woman from the Falls, and at 4 o'clock she was taken before Police Magistrate Comfort and elected to be tried by him. She explained that her name was formerly Warner, but that she had been brought up by the late James McKelvey of this city, and had been known as Ida McKelvey. She claims to have been married, but has been named Hamilton, and says she is 17 years old, and resides in Buffalo when arrested. The woman asked for a few days' remand to enable her to consult with her mother, Chief Parnell, as she told the magistrate she thought had notified her of her arrest. He refused to grant the request accordingly. She claims to be about 17 years of age, and since telling who she is, has been recognized by the officials.

WRECKED MEN RETURN.

Crew of Lumber Schooner Reach Vancouver After Many Trials.

Vancouver, Dec. 5.—Three lumber-crusiers, whose schooner was wrecked on Calvert Island, on July 3, and who were unable for fifty-eight days to get from the island to Port Simpson, reached Vancouver yesterday on the steamer Venture.

The men, W. Wylder, S. Burdette and W. Campbell, all of Vancouver, were sailing round the island schooner on a timber cruising expedition, were wrecked and had to land on a lonely island, the boat's steering gear was carried away, and the schooner was wrecked. Island, where an anchor was let go but was not held.

The schooner was driven ashore in a heavy surf, and wrecked on Oct. 3. Fortunately it was in sheltered beach, and most of the provisions, guns and ammunition were saved by the Dunsmuir crew, and there they plentiful, the sea-provender, fish, crabs, etc., prevented of starvation. Finally, as no help came, a punt was made out of lumber purposed from the wrecked boat, and the seams of the craft were caulked with cotton wool and oakum, the schooner. In this roughly made craft they put out and sailed northward for American steamer Alaskan, which took them on board and carried the party down to a point near Alert Bay, where there punt was launched and they came into port here.

The strangely made craft in which they sailed is being kept as a curiosity at Alert Bay.

Gave Mate Their Skin.

Ottawa, Dec. 5.—A remarkable operation was successfully undertaken by Dr. Kidd, Eugene Herbert Reynolds, who was operated upon for injuries sustained in a fall from a ladder on Sept. 11, has lain in the hospital since, and it has been doubt that one of the legs, from which most of the flesh and skin had been torn off, could be saved. However, it was stated by Dr. Kidd that if the skin of a healthy man could be procured and grafted upon the wounded leg, there was a fighting chance. Hearing of this, 19 railway men at once volunteered to have the skin taken from the arms of top of them little pieces of skin were removed and transferred to the sodded limb. The operation was most successful.

SAVED FROM HERSELF.

Masson, Que.—Just two years ago the residents of this pretty village viewed, with alarm, the change that crept over Florence, the daughter of Mr. Jamieson. From a bright, carefree child, she emerged into young womanhood, worn and wasted. It became a "nine-days wonder." There was no radical trouble and yet her health perceptibly failed. Finally physicians were consulted. They prescribed—failed to do any good—and were discharged. All at once, Florence began to improve. Her eyes brightened, the color returned, and today, there is not a brighter, happier, healthier girl in Canada.

"I was a martyr to constipation," writes Miss Jamieson. "I had every symptom of kidney irritation and had been told by physicians that my kidneys were affected. I consulted a number of physicians and took various remedies, but received very little benefit. Then I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' After I had taken half a box, the constipation was relieved—headaches ceased—pain in the back was better—and I could sleep."

"Fruit-a-tives" always cure kidney trouble, because they cure the cause. They stimulate the liver and kidneys to increased action. Get a box—take them properly—and cure yourself to stay cured. Made of fruit juices and tonics. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At druggists or sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

A Rock in the Baltic

By ROBERT BARR,

Author of "The Triumphs of Eugene Valmont," "Tekla," "In the Midst of Alarms," "Speculations of John Steele," "The Victors," Etc.

"No, sir, but I had weighed the ammunition and found it short by two ounces and thirty-seven grains."

"I made full allowance with all the questions and answers. I merely give those as samples. These questions are about the recoil, the action of the gun, the state of rust, that and the other after firing, and lastly I was able to answer to a dot every query put to me. At the finish one of the judges asked me to give in my own words my opinion of the gun. Admiral Sir John glared at him as he put this question, for of course to any expert the answers I had furnished, all being correct, gave an accurate verdict on the gun, assuming my statements to have been correct, which I maintained they were. However, as Sir John made no verbal comment I offered my opinion as terse by as I could.

"Thank you, Lieutenant Drummond, rumbled Sir John in his deep voice, as if he were pronouncing sentence, and, my testimony completed, the committee rose.

"I was out in the street before Billy Richardson overtook me, and then he called himself to my attention by a resounding slap on the shoulder.

"'Alas my boy,' he cried, 'you have done yourself proud. Your fortune's made.'

"'As how?' I asked, shaking him by the hand.

"'Why, we've been for weeks holding an inquiry on this blessed gun, and the question is whether or not a lot more of them are to be made. You know what an opinionated beast Old Grouch is. Well, my boy, you have confounded the opinion of the gun in every detail. He is such a brow beating, truculent brute that the rest of the committee would rather like to go against him if they dared, but you have got a spike in their wheel. Why, Sir John never said "thank you" to a human being since he was born until twenty-seven minutes and fifteen seconds after 11 this morning, as you would put it, and at the time of writing this letter this surmise of Billy's appears to be justified, for the tape in the club just now announced that the committee has unanimously decided in favor of the gun, and adds that this is regarded as a triumph for the chairman, Admiral Sir John Pendergrass, with various letters after his name.

"Dear Miss Amburst, this letter, as I feared, has turned out tolerably long, and, like our first conversation, it is all about myself. But then, you see, you are the only one on the other side of the water to whom I have confided my selfish worries, and I believe you to be so kind hearted that I am sure you will not censure me for this once exceeding the limits of friendly correspondence. Having been deeply depressed during all the previous long days, the sudden reaction urges me to go out into Pall Mall, fling my cap in the air and whoop, which action is quite evidently a remnant of my former cowboy aspirations. Truth to tell, the Hessian business seems already forgotten except by my stout old captain on the Commerce or my uncle. The strenuous Sir John has had me baled across the ocean merely to get testimony, lasting about thirty five minutes, when, with a little patience, he might have waited till the Cosmetarian herself arrived or she have cabled for us to try the gun at Bar Harbor. I suppose, however, that after my unfortunate contretemps with Russia our government was afraid I'd ship a corpse off the United States and that they'd have to pay for it. So perhaps, after all, it was greater economy to bring me across on the liner Bothnia.

"By the way, I learned yesterday that the Cosmetarian has been ordered home, and so I expect to see Jack Lamont before many days are past. The ship will be paid off at Portsmouth, and then I suppose he and I will have our freedom for six months. I am rather looking forward to Jack's cooking, for some weird but tasteful Russian dishes when we reach his blackamoth's shop in St. Petersburg. If I get on in Russia, as I hope and expect, I shall spend the rest of my leave over in the States. I am very little indeed of that great country and am extremely anxious to see more. When one is on board ship one can only take very short excursions ashore. I should like to visit Niagara. It seems ridiculous that one should have been all along the American coast from Canada to New York and never have got far enough inland to view the great falls.

"Russia is rather dilatory in her methods, but I surely should know within two or three weeks whether I am going to succeed or not. If not, then there is no use in waiting there. I shall try to persuade the prince to accompany me to America. During the weeks I am waiting in St. Petersburg I shall continually bring upon him the utter futility of a life which has not investigated the great electrical power plant at Niagara Falls. And then he is interested in the educational system of the United States. With we were going to the station early that morning I told him that the United States educational system must be the most wonderful in the world, because he (meaning the prince) and Miss Katherine Kempt, knew more about electricity, metallurgy, natural philosophy and a great number of other things he is interested in than all the ladies he has met in Europe put together. He thinks that's the right sort of education for girls, and all this rather astounded me, because, although my friend was most charming, she said nothing during our very short acquaintance with her to lead me to suspect that she had received a scientific training.

"Dear Miss Amburst, I am looking every day for a letter from you, but none has yet received the Bothnia in mirality, who when they get one will forward it to whatever part of the world I happen to be in."

CHAPTER VIII.

A SUMMER hotel that boasts a thousand acres of forest, more or less, which serve as the poses of a back yard, affords its guests, even if all its multitude of rooms are occupied, at least one spot for each visitor to regard as his or her favorite nook. So large an extent of woodland successfully defies landscape gardening. It insists on being left alone, and its very immensity raises a financial barrier against trimmy kept gravel walks. There were plenty of landscape garden walks in the immediate vicinity of the hotel, but some of them ambitiously penetrated into the woods, relapsing from the civilization of beaten gravel into a primitive blocked trail, which, however, always led to some celebrated bit of picturesqueness—a waterfall, or a point non commanding fine views, or the fancied resemblance of a human face carved by nature from the cliff, or a viewpoint jutting out over the deep chasm of the valley, which usually supported a rustic summer house or pavilion where unknown names were carved on the woodwork—the last report of the unidentified had to achieve immortality by means of a jackknife. Dorothy discovered a little Eden of her own, to which no discernible convert way led, for it was not conspicuous enough to obtain mention in the little gratis guide which the hotel furnished, a pamphlet on coated paper filled with half tone engravings and half extravagant eulogies of what it proclaimed to be, an earthly paradise, with the rates by the day or week given on the cover page to show on what terms this paradise might be enjoyed.

Dorothy's bower was green and cool and crystal, the ruggedness of the rocks softened by the wash of ages. A very limpid spring, high up and out of sight among the leaves, went in waters tinkling down the face of the cliff, ever filling a crystal clear basket at the foot, which was hewn out of the Velvety and beautiful as was the moss surrounding this pool it was nevertheless too deep to allow about thirty cubic feet of a human being unless that person, he might have waited till the rheumatic inconveniences which followed Rip Van Winkle's long sleep in those very regions, so Dorothy had carried with her from the hotel a feather duster, spider's web hammock, which she deftly slung between two saplings, their light suppleness giving an almost perfect illusion of a fairy net spread in a fairy glen, and here the young woman swayed luxuriously in the waking delights of an indolence still too new to have become commonplace or wearisome.

She always expected to read a great deal in the hammock, but often the book slipped unnoticed to the moss and she lay looking upward at the little patch of blue sky visible through the checkering mass of green leaves. One afternoon, deserted by the latest piece of fashionable literature, packed in plain figures on the paper cover that protected the cloth binding one dollar and a half, but sold at the department store for $1.08, Dorothy lay half hypnotized by the twinkling of the green leaves above her, when she heard a sweet voice singing a rollicking song of the civil war and so knew that Katherine was thus heralding her approach.

"When Johnny comes marching home again,
Hurrah! Hurrah!
We'll give him a hearty welcome then,
Hurrah! Hurrah!
The men will cheer, the boys will shout,
The drums they will all turn out,
And we'll dance all day
When Johnny comes marching home."

Dorothy went still further back into the history of her country and gave a faint imitation of an Indian war whoop to let the oncomer know she was welcome, and Katherine Kempt burst impetuously through the dense undergrowth.

"So here you are, Miss Laziness," she cried.

"Here I am, Miss Energy, or shall I call you Miss-applied Energy? Katherine, you have walked so fast that you are quite red in the face."

"It isn't exertion; it's vexation, Dorothy. I've had a perfectly terrible time. It is the anxiety regarding the proper discipline of parents that is spoiling the nervous system of my American children. Train them up in the way they should go, and when they are old they do depart from it. There is nothing more awful than to own parents who think they possess a sense of humor. Thank goodness, mother has come!"

"Then it is your father who has been misbehaving?"

"Of course it is. He treats the most important problem of a woman's life as if it were the latest thing in Life."

Dorothy sat up in the hammock.

"The most important problem? That seems a protound. Goodness gracious, Kate, is that insurance man back here again?"

"What insurance man?"

"Oh, heartless and heartbreaking Katherine, is there another? Sit here in the hammock beside me, and tell me all about it."

"No, thank you," refused Katherine. "I weigh more than you, and I cannot risk my neck through the collapse of that bit of gossamer. I must take care of myself for his sake."

"Then it is the life insurance man whose interests you are consulting? Have you taken out a policy with him?"

"Dear me, you are nearly as bad as father, but not quite so funny. You are referring to Mr. Henderson, I presume. A most delightful companion for a dance, but, my dear Dorothy, life is not all glided out to the measures of a Strauss waltz."

"True. Quite indisputable, Kate, and those sentiments do you credit. Who is the man?"

"The human soul," continued Katherine seriously, "aspires to higher things than the society columns of the New York Sunday papers and the frivolous chatter of an overheated ballroom."

"Again you score, Kate, and are rising higher and higher in my estimation. I see it all now. Those solemn utterances of yours point directly toward Hugh Miller's 'Old Red Sandstone' and weird stories of yore, and now I remember your singing 'When Johnny Comes Marching Home.' I therefore take it that Jack Lamont has arrived."

"So here you are, Miss Laziness," she cried.

"He has not."

"Then he has written to you?"

"He has not."

"Oh, well, I give it up. Tell me the tragedy in your own way."

Katherine Kempt seated herself, her hands from behind her and offered to her friend a sheet of paper she had been holding. Dorothy saw blazoned on the top of it a coat-of-arms and underneath it written in words of the most formal nature was the information that Prince Ivan Lermontoff presents his warmest regards to Captain Kempt, U. S. N., retired, and begged permission to pay his addresses to the captain's daughter Katherine. Dorothy looked up from the document, and her friend said calmly:

"You see, they need another Katherine in Russia."

"I hope she won't be like a former one, if all I've read of her is true. This letter was sent to your father, then?"

"It was, and he seems to regard it as a huge joke. Said he was going to cable Lamont, and as the Commerce nation has sailed away he would try to pick her up by wireless telegraphy and secure the young man's services. Suggests that I shall have a lot of new photographs taken, so that he can hand them out to the reporters when they call for particulars. Says in his mind's eye he says, a huge black lettered heading in the evening papers, 'A Russian Prince Captures One of Our Fairest Daughters,' and then mischievously hinted that perhaps, after all, it was better not to use my photos, as he might not bear out the 'fair daughter' fiction of the heading."

"Yes, Kate, I can see that such treatment of a vital subject must have been very provoking."

A WORD OF WARNING.

The Hamilton Times seriously warns the municipalities against the conduction of large debts on account of public works and improvements, on the ground and reason that the money market does not favor the issue of debentures at an advantage.

Our contemporary notes that Russia is said to have been offered nearly 90 for its securities while it has works in hands which will cost half a million dollars. Mexico, that remarks, is trying to mortgage its waterworks and gas systems in order to raise $200,000, and at 7 per cent. Brandon is offered 84 for $100,000 of its 4 1-2 per cent. bonds. Times could go further and say that the bonds of municipalities must be sold to yield 5 1-4 or 5 per cent in order to secure buyers.

"Within recent years," says our contemporary, "the Ontario municipalities have borrowed about $12,000,000 the proceeds of which have gone on all sorts of schemes to put burdens on the taxpayers being advocated." Sometimes a call to secure the funds for the public service, but when that time comes, embarrassment may be anticipated, and it does not redound to credit of the town or city. Thus municipalities in to avoid the issue of debentures when the market is depressed.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The editor of the Nineteenth Century Magazine has tendered a humane apology to Sir Fred Hodgkin for the libelous story it published about him. But his suit for damages will still go on. Some of our Tory contemporaries may now hasten to apologize.

DOINGS AT FENELON FALLS

Citizens Enjoying Various Meetings and Social Gatherings.

The newly organized Literary Society of St James' church held their first meeting at the residence of Mrs. Johnston on Monday evening Nov. 25th. The officers of the society are as follows: President, Rev. W. E. A. French; vice-pres., Mrs. W. A. Bishop; 2nd vice-pres., Mr. E. G. Hand; secretary, Miss Nix; treasurer, Miss Pearl Austin. The membership is steadily increasing, and the Society bids fair to become a popular adv. cultivate institution. After business was disposed of, a program was rendered, which consisted of songs by Misses M. Austin, readings by Miss Alice Hand and Mr. Wiggins all of which were much appreciated. After refreshments were served a pleasant time was spent in conversation and games, etc. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Austin for her hospitality. The next closed meeting of the Society is to be held at the residence of Mrs. W. A. Bishop on Monday evening Dec. 16th, when all who are desirous of joining the Society, of whatever denomination, will be made welcome.

The members and adherents of St. Andrew's church met on Wednesday evening, Nov. 28th, in the basement of the church, in response to an invitation tendered by the Mr. F. M. S. The meeting was of a social nature, the occasion of a reception tendered to Mrs. Lord. It was also the annual thank-offering of the society. A missionary programme was rendered, in which a number of members, including the choir, took part. After refreshments were served the remainder of the evening was spent in pleasant social interchange.

The Harmony Club entertained their friends at an assembly in Dickson's hall on the evening of Friday, Nov. 29th. This was the second affair of the kind given by this Club, and proved to be fully as enjoyable as the first, given about two weeks ago.

The Scotch evening given under the auspices of the Literary Society of St James church, on Monday evening, Dec. 2nd, was a pronounced success. It was held at the residence of Mr. Geo McGee on Father's hill. The programme rendered was, it is needless to say, mainly Scotch, and all taking part therein acquitted themselves very creditably. Most of those taking part were the guests, but, while the others were a very fair imitation. The programme consisted of vocal solos, and a duett, violin solo, also several readings and recitations, which were much enjoyed by those present. After the close of the program, the large number present joined heartily in singing "Auld Lang Syne." The refreshments were of a nature to correspond with the decorations, which consisted of Scotch flags and artistical drapery. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. McGee by the Society for their kindness and hospitality.

Mrs. Maw, of Haliburton, spent from Friday to Monday with her friend, Mrs. J. L. Arnold.

Mr. Geo Elliot came home about two weeks ago from Collins' Inlet.

Messrs. Geo. and Hal Calder are home from Gravenhurst.

Mr. Jas. Welsh has left town to reside in Bethany, where he intends to start in business.

NEW DUNKIRK PAUSES.

Wayward Benefit Caused Some Excitement and a Runaway

A late morning wedding at Oshawa, Mr. Arthur Cunningham, son of Mr. Jas. Cunningham, of South Ops, was the cause of quite a rush from Newcastle shop to the market scales to be weighed, one of the cattle dealers frightened at a noisy object on the street and bolted over the bank of the castle rock. It began half suspended by the neck, which the horse became unmanageable and rushed at full speed up Kent-st.

Family, when opposite Adams' drug store, spent from the top of the hill—and throw the two animals on the ground, one alighting in such a way that it broke its horn off short at its head. The driver leaped clear of the wreckage and escaped unharmed. The horse ran on with its sulky to the sidewalk in front of the Alvion hotel, where the sleighs struck the wall and the horses parted. They were stopped a short distance away before they did themselves injury.

Y. M. C. A. "GYM" BANQUET

LADIES AUXILIARY HAD MANY PLEASED GUESTS NIGHT.

Mr. C. H. Ashley, Physical Director West End Y.M.C.A., Principal Speaker.

The first annual gymnasium men's banquet of the Young Men's Christian Association was held last night in the "Gym, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The repast was spread by the Shredded Wheat Company, and the shining faces of all present testified to the enjoyableness of the physical feast.

Miss Mallie contributed in no small measure towards the enjoyment by all, she rendering several selections on the piano.

Mr. McWatters, the President of the Association, occupied the chair, and after a short opening address called on Mr. Carlisle, chairman of the Reception committee. Mr. Carlisle spoke in the highest terms of the work of the Ladies' Auxiliary for the young men and in conclusion called for a token of appreciation. Enthusiastic applause was the reply.

Mr. John Hewitt, of the Shredded Wheat Co., then spoke to the young men, particularly emphasizing the importance of proper diet as a means of health.

Mayor Vroman was the next speaker, and he gave good food for thought to men seeking health, happiness or success. He emphasized two things Mr. Hewitt has said in reference to the importance of diet. He appealed to the young men, as citizens of Canada, to listen to the appeal of work "No happiness or success could be achieved without work. Young men, do not be afraid of working a half-hour extra, do not drop the hammer as the sound of the whistle. Learn to love work."

Dr. Pogue, as chairman of the Physical Work Committee, gave a brief resume of work now being carried on, and made an appeal for loyalty to the institution. An athletic field was mentioned as a possible acquisition to the physical work.

"Remember, young man, that the eyes of the community and the business men are on your conduct outside, as well as during business hours." Mr. F. C. Taylor spoke with the foregoing thought as the keynote of his address.

THE MAN FROM TORONTO

Mr. C. H. Ashley, the man in the athletic limelight, was the speaker of the evening. Mr. Ashley is physical director of the West End Young Men's Christian Association at Toronto. He has to be heard to be appreciated. Frequent applause interrupted his speech, and his sallies of wit provoked many convulsions of laughter among his hearers. Mr. Ashley touched on the fact that no merely athletic organization had lived for a length of time, beside the Young Men's Christian Association. He stated the remarkable fact that the members of the West End Young Men's Christian Association, which was every athletic team competition in Toronto, had not lost a single game. He ascribed their continued success to this, and the fact that every member of the organization was loyal to the principles of the institution to which they belong. Mr. Ashley pointed out some instances in the local work along athletic as well as spiritual, mental, and social lines. He paid high tribute to the workers in charge of the local work.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Lindsay Association certainly deserved great credit for the enterprise they have shown in assisting the work of a firm established in the affections of the young men of Lindsay.

HAVE YOU TRIED THIS?

The New Trick in Telephoning—It Works Satisfactorily.

The experiment of telephoning by placing the receiver to the ear and the mouth piece upon the table was tried this morning for perhaps the first time in Lindsay. Mr. D. C. Medlow, of Montreal, who is acting in the Simpson house, called up a friend over the local desk telephone and told him he was going to use the phone for the chest experiment. The man at the other end of the phone said he could hear quite distinctly, and carried on a short conversation in this strange manner.

The experiment has been tried briefly in a great many towns and cities and has afforded a great deal of amusement and amusement. Try it with your friends.

FIRST ROLLER HOCKEY GAME

Lindsay Team Put it all Over Peterboro Last Night.

A large crowd patronized the Roller Rink last night to enjoy a skate and to witness the first roller hockey match ever played in Lindsay. The temperature in the rink was ideal for skating, not a little cold, for standing around, and no doubt many would have enjoyed the match more if they had not been so chilled.

The game was both fast and clean, and pleased everybody immensely. Both the Peterborough and Lindsay teams showed themselves good sports, for there was no rough play. The game was fast—a good deal faster than was expected, and held the fixed attention of the spectators from start to finish. Referee Bagg fined to both for a foul—used instead of a penalty on roller hockey. The first goal was scored by Sigmour, of the Lindsay team, in five minutes; another Lindsay goal was scored by Elliott half a minute later. There were the only two goals scored in the first half, although both teams made strenuous efforts to do so. Elliott and Sigmour each got one minute penalty for body checking.

In the second half Randall scored a goal eleven minutes after the play recommenced; Keyl followed with another goal ten minutes later, and Randall scored another before the end of the game. Seymour, of town, and Staunton, of Peterboro, were the only two penalized. The score at the end of the game stood Lindsay 5, Peterboro 0.

One of the funniest incidents of the game happened when Staunton came tearing down the floor and was unable to stop out in time to avoid the goalkeeper's net. He fell and plunged his feet in this net and was secretly caught, like a spider in a web. He struggled about till the goalkeeper had to extricate him.

Timekeepers, Burke and Taylor; penalty, G. Reilly; referee, Artie Parkin.

Former Lindsay Boy in Washington—Met President.

A few weeks ago The Post referred to a trip to be taken by Mr. H. A. Dobson, a Lindsay boy, now general secretary of St. Catharines Y.M.C.A., as delegate to a convention to be held in Washington, D.C. Under date of Dec. 3rd he writes Lindsay friends as follows:

"Was at a reception in the White House and met President Roosevelt; I also attended a reception given by Archbishop Bryce, of England, and spent a day each in the Association homes at Wilkesbarre, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Norfolk, and five days in Washington—the rest of the time was spent in travelling. I covered about 2,200 miles, and don't care if I don't ever train again for a year.

"We went right around the country when I left the coal mines and now the oyster fishing grounds, at Baltimore. I have lots to tell you about when I come home again."

Then the Too Was Right.

John D. Rockefeller, jr., in one of the last addresses that he made to his Sunday school class before abandoning it, said of carelessness in business: "Too many business men are careful on one side, their own side, only. Thus a coal dealer whom I used to know shouted one afternoon to an employe who was driving out of the yard, 'Now look here, Jim! You don't can't have been weighed. It looks a little large for a ton to me.' Jim replied back, 'Pshaw, boss! Ain't a ton. It's two tons!' 'Oh, all right,' said the dealer in a mollifying tone. 'Beg your pardon. Go ahead.'"

Effect of the Law.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

Sunday observance is a good thing, but when the deputy minister of railways tells us that the Lord's Day Act means a reduction of the working capacity of the government railways by one-eighth per week, and the inspector of the railway commission reports that its enforcement means a loss of 5 per cent in the operating capacity of the Canadian Pacific, it really does seem paradoxical that we should be straining every nerve to increase our transportation facilities in one direction, we should be hampering it in another.

ABOUT LIFE ON C.P.R. LINER.

A Canadian Lady's Appreciation of a Trip on the Empress of Ireland.

Mary Markwell, the well-known correspondent of the Winnipeg Free Press, writes that pages her impression of the Atlantic trip on one of the C.P.R. Empresses. She says:

"I advise any woman contemplating a holiday trip across the ocean take up the Canadian steamship lines. It good luck I selected the Empress of Ireland, and was so charmed by the comfortiness of that palatial ship that I made the return journey on her again. Life aboard the gigantic ship, which plies between Quebec and Liverpool, every conceivable luxury was ours. Our flowers for the dining tables; menus and Bovril with service a-mend, the attentive attentions to the artistic music room or write comforts in luxurious luxurious chairs, or bridge when in company, while the promenade deck resounded with chatter and laughter. The deck chairs set tete-a-tete, with whispering sonflas in sheltered nooks, while all around surged and swept a sea expanse all shining and glittering like a jewel casket opened to our sight. The officers manning the boat, the most delightful lot on all occasions, while Captain Forster, one eye on the weather, handsome as Adonis, boasted from the seat of lofty power, while all every guests gathered about that angle board. All too serial that six days' voyage between this old world and the new! All too brief the new-made friendships on that return journey — but renewed in health and spirits, carrying souvenirs of the trip and never-to-be-forgotten memories of a vacation covering ground one had dreamed about, but never expected to see!"

Railway Managements Might Profit and Travellers Would be Grateful.

Trains were all late yesterday on account of the cold. One of this younger member of our staff suggests that the railway companies buy blankets for their iron steeds—maybe then they would be able to keep up steam. Something in the line of time might so all right. If the cold beams too intense even for this, the engineer might drop a bottle of one of the best known cold cures into the boiler, when no doubt everything would be o.k. in a few minutes.

However, if the railroads think this too much expense, if the president or general manager will drop around at the office we will have great pleasure in presenting him with a bottle we had left over from our last attack of coughing. We have had great satisfaction from this remedy and feel that it will cure the disease, although it is strong enough to rend the boiler if taken too frequently. We would suggest about a teaspoonful for the engineer and a can of the good, while for the morals on the main line a pail full would do. However, we leave it to his discretion. Drop in any day when we are not extra busy, and tell the office boy you are Mr. General Manager. We have several improvements we would like to discuss with you.

FARM WAGES REACHED LIMIT.

Machinery and Co-operation Helping to Relieve the Situation Some.

The Ontario Agricultural Department has issued the following statement on labor and wages from the farmers' standpoint:

While a considerable number of correspondents hold that there was an adequate supply of farm labor during the working season, the greater parts of the reports speak of a scarcity, more especially of men of the right quality. While some of the immigrant help are favorably referred to, more frequently there is a remarkable outspoken ness as to the unfitness of many of the Old Country men offering for Ontario farm labor. As to the rate of wages, correspondents are almost unanimous in declaring that it is not likely to go higher, as farmers cannot afford to pay more. A number of the reports suggest a fall in price of farm labor, in sympathy with the deflation now beginning to affect some of the town industries. Improved farm implements and the co-operation of neighbors are also helping to relieve the strain. Domestic servants on the farm were never more difficult to procure.

REPORT ON FARMS OF ONTARIO.

Increase of Prices Make up for Smaller Yield.

The Ontario Agricultural Department has issued the fall report. Fall wheat is a little below 1906, but up to the average. Spring wheat is an average. Barley was plump in grain, and better in strand than that of any other cereal. The out crop has increased, but the yield is 25,000,000 under that of 1906. This year's is the smallest yield since 1896, excepting that of 1901.

Little rye is now raised, but both the yield and the quality have been good. This year's crop of peas has been the best in years, with almost complete absence of the weevil. The acreage of new fall wheat will be increased in the Lake Erie and Georgian Bay counties.

The potato crop has been good. Potatoes are smaller than usual, owing to the drouth, but comparatively free from rot.

Root trees are in good condition, except where attacked by the "San Jose scale, oyster shell, and white pine caterpillar and other insects. The apple yield has been noticed by the reports, but large shipments have been made. (The size is rather small.)

Live stock will be thin for winter, owing to poor pastures, but remarkably free from disease. Horses are in good form, but are selling at reduced prices. Owing to the high cost of hay, grain, and milk feed, farmers are not fattening the usual number of cattle and hogs.

Fishing concerns caused a decrease in the milk flow, but increased prices for dairy products have balanced matters. Butter prices have been from 3 to 7 cents higher than last year. Eggs have paid the farmer better for their fowl for the fools.

Provincial Winter Fair, Guelph.

On account of the Provincial Winter Fair the Grand Trunk Railway System will issue return tickets at single first class fare from all stations in Ontario, Kingston and West, to Guelph, Ont. Good going Dec. 7th to Dec. 13th, valid for return until Monday, Dec. 16th, 1907. Full information may be obtained from any Grand Trunk Ticket Agent.

ALGONQUIN PARK DISMISSALS.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane Tells Cause Interesting Condition of Things.

The dismissal of Rangers Dr. Bell, of Ottawa, O'Connor and Colson, and Mrs. Colson, the housekeeper of the Algonquin Park staff, reveals an interesting condition of affairs. Mrs. Colson, it is alleged, has been using the rangers' headquarters as a summer hotel, and cooking the meals. Accordingly, when the rangers come down from the north to headquarters, no beds were available. Also, a ranger named Cooper, in trial Mrs. Colson (who, before the event, was Mrs. Cox), and since that time has been ranging the lonely recesses of the woods.

It is alleged in regard to Dr. Bell that he went to Algonquin Park, so it appears, for his health, and that he hasn't been able to realize that he must patrol his beat like some as any other ranger. In view of this, that he is now quite recovered, it is felt that some one should be appointed who makes fully operative the duties of the office. Hon. Mr. Cochrane, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, stated that the dismissals had nothing to do with the charges of smuggling from Algonquin Park, the allegations in regard to which were not also to be investigated.

Beef extracts contain only the flavor and stimulating elements of beef—the nutritive values are lost in the cooking. Baron Liebig, the inventor of beef extracts, admitted that. He said "It is but a condiment and stimulant, containing no matter capable of sustaining life."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person to the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required homestead duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or is on a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his entire homestead duties by living with his father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

NORLAND

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The new steel and concrete bridging and island roadway across the Gull river here, is nearly finished, and gives promise of being a substantial and modern picturesque engineering work. The rock island in the river, which is about 200 feet long and 54 feet wide, has been turned into a roadway, bordered along the eastern side with second growth pines, oaks, birch and maple and along the western side with a neatly built stone parapet. The main channel, which runs in a sharp curve round the northerly end of the island is spanned by an 80 foot steel bridge on concrete piers, which connects it with the south shore, where is a large cut, 7 feet deep and 50 feet wide through a hill conducts the road track out to the Monck road. At the southerly end of the island a 30 foot span across a side channel connects with the LaVantore, the piers of which, as well as the northerly, one bring on solid rock foundation, and on this the chief engineering difficulty presents itself in the form of a huge and beautiful oak about 100 feet in height and in line of the bridge centre. The fate of the tree is being watched with keen interest by the Norland community, who cherish recollections of happy hours spent in its cool and quiet shade, and especially those, of at its romantic destruction.—Mr. Smith O. L. S., our popular county engineer, has decided that, as for the picturesque, is rather between two fires in the matter as our friends and some members of the County Council who see more of the beautiful in a bill of potatoes than in the cosey house plant, are urging him to root it out. What the result will be is doubtful.

Miss Kate Mackintyre, of Highland Grove, is spending a few days under that pretential roof.

Miss Maggie Martin, of Moore's Falls, is visiting friends here.

Mr. Angus MacIntyre is visiting at his home on the Gull river, Dr. Dunn, MacIntyre. We learn that Angus has taken unto himself a wife, and we wish him joy and long life.

The grim angel of Death has once more visited our community, taking the time for his victim one of our oldest neighbors, in the person of Mr. Isaac Sprung. Mr. Sprung was one of the early settlers of this place. He was a member of the Methodist church for years. He leaves a wife and one daughter and a grandson to mourn his loss. Mr. Sprung was in the 75th year of his life. His remains were taken to Pine Grove cemetery for interment.

THREE RULES.

Eat well, dress well, live well. If you do not do all of these they will be sick. If your kidneys, liver stomach or bowels get out of order you have broken one of these rules. A single bottle of Dodd's Kidney Pills will put the time sweet spirits of nitre, syrup of rhubarb and compound vinous. Mix these in the following proportions; one ounce sweet spirits of nitre, four ounces syrup of rhubarb and one ounce compound vinous. Dose, a desertspoonful in a little water after meals and at bedtime. Be careful and take it easy. Observe the above rules and further attacks should not occur.

DON'T FORGET—BUY EARLY

Do Christmas Shopping Now and Help the Good Work.

A little good will before Christmas would be welcome, especially to those to whom the holiday season is a season of hard work and overtaxed nerves.

At the risk of being a little ahead of time, the press reminds the readers not to leave all their Christmas good will for their families and friends.

Already on one of the stores counters crowds of restless and impatient shoppers are searching for Christmas presents. On the other hand some scores of men and women are piling into weighing stocks of goods, patiently answering questions, restraining a natural desire to be impertinent in reply to impertinence, and silently having a very uncomfortable and nerve taxing experience.

We ask our readers to do their shopping early, to get as far as possible ahead of the rush, and try to make things a little easier for the clerks and salespeople by doing a little as they expect those who serve them to do. This is the time of the year the employees in the stores look forward to with dread.

The Christmas spirit of good will to all is too often left in cold storage till Christmas. Why not try this year to use some of it in advance—to make welcome Christmas presents of interest and good nature to the girl who tries to find exactly the shade of ribbon you want or the young man who hunts all over his shelves to find a smoking jacket for your husband?

An if you will try to do your shopping early in the day, as well as early in the season, you will save yourselves and old scores of tired overtaxed employees. A little charity, patience and thoughtfulness will go further toward brightening this Christmas than all the wreaths of holly you can weave.

Again we urge, shop early—early in the month and early in the day.

CATARRH A CERM DISEASE.

The Wonderful Success of the Hyomei Treatment.

Catarrh is an insidious germ of most destructive tendency. Its approaches are unalarming and its victims are well on the road to a chronic stage or to dread consumption before they realize their danger.

It is not a blood disease, but is caused by germs that lodge and grow in the air passages, causing irritation with poisonous and offensive mucous discharges. To cure this condition, stomach dosing is ineffective and the only healing agent is Hyomei. It goes direct to every nook and cranny of the air passages, disinfecting, healing and curing.

You cannot afford to trifle with catarrhal troubles, for if neglected they grow worse and the annoyance and danger rapidly increases. It is best to get Hyomei at the first symptom of catarrh, such as stopping of the nose, dropping in the throat, sneezing, coughing. The sooner you use Hyomei, the sooner you will be freed from all these troubles.

We positively guarantee Hyomei, for sound and healthy relief, satisfaction, price $1, and be dissatisfied with results your money will be refunded. Hyomei is sold by druggists everywhere. Write for literature. Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Worse Yet.

"Sir!" cried the crooked grocer, indignantly, "do you accuse me of guilty knowledge of putting chicory into my coffee?"

"Not at all," replied the customer coolly, "I simply wanted to be congenial. I'm sure you merely put some coffee into the chicory."

A Change is Needed.

(Toronto Star.)

Ontario sales of milk be seen, has pooling on the first Monday in January, which for many reasons is more advantageous than any other time would be the second Monday in December, a date which has often been mooted and which, it would be very generally acceptable.

To Protect the Buyer.

The Growers' Section of the Ontario Marketing Association of Ontario, have sent out printed cards to growers and other dealers containing the following, relating to selling high grade potatoes. Some persons are selling potatoes in bags weighing only 75 or 80 lbs. instead of 90 lbs. as in the Province regulating the same, are and see that you get 90 lbs. in each and every bag. This is based for the protection of the public in the interests of honest trade." The Association will support a measure which will be introduced in the legislature to make 90 lbs. the fixed weight for a bag of potatoes.

What is Occurring Among Local and District Clubs and Sporting Circles Generally.

WALKING

WESTON'S MOTTOES:

All walkers will be interested in the following gratuitous advice, furnished by Edward Payson Weston, the famous walker:

Feet is no good.

Don't chew tobacco.

Never chew tobacco.

Leave drink alone until you are 18.

The people who lead riotous lives are the first to shake hands with the undertaker.

RUNNING.

COTTER WAS DISQUALIFIED.

Edwin Cotter, the Burlington runner, who was leading in the Yonkers 25-mile Marathon at 21 miles when he was disqualified, says he was given a raw deal. The only excuse the officials advanced for Cotter's disqualification was that he was being paced by a professional.

Toronto News: Fred Simpson, the Hiawatha Indian, who ran third in the Dominion Marathon road race, run from Hiawatha to Peterboro one day last week to see a man on business. Then he ran home. The total distance is 28 miles. He said the roads were too bad for his horse.

HOCKEY.

STRICTLY OUT OF IT.

Star: For the first time in years the well known blue and white of Peterboro will not be seen in the O. H. A. this winter, and the famous old hockey place of hockey players will have to be content with a city league and memories of ancient battles in the days when the Armstrongs, Eddie Howell, Whitcroft and other famous war horses were in the limelight.

ODDS AND ENDS OF SPORT.

BIG PURSE REQUIRED.

About $20,000 will be required for the maintenance of the Canadian athletes to be sent to London next spring to represent the Dominion in the Olympic games. The work of making the selections is not likely to be commenced for some time to come. The expenses of the American teams will likely foot up to about $50,000.

REFUSED A MILLION.

The students and trustees of Swarthmore College, Philadelphia, a Quaker institution, have set their faces against accepting a bequest of one million dollars left by Miss Anna T. Jeanes, of that city, a few weeks ago, on condition that the college give up all forms of athletics.

OLYMPIC DATES CHANGED.

The football, hockey and lacrosse contests in connection with the Olympic games in England, which were to have been held in March, have been postponed until October 18, and the field and track events, which were to have commenced in June, will not be started until July 13. This will be good news to members of the Canadian athletics, especially the runners and field men as it will give them more time to get into condition and will also give them opportunities for at least a couple of months' practice on the cinders before they embark for England.

Five prominent club men of Chicago have wagered $1,000 that they can walk from Milwaukee to Chicago, a distance of 90 miles, in sixty hours.

The Royal Swedish Yacht Club, after a short delay, has notified the officially decided to lie the matter of a challenge for the Canada Cup rest for a time. A couple of enthusiastic members who were unable to come through with the promised coin helped decide the matter.

Notice to the Public.

Having purchased the ice business heretofore carried on in Lindsay by S. Armstrong, I wish to announce to the citizens that having made arrangements to double my ice house capacity, I will be in position next season to handle my enlarged business with satisfaction to everyone favoring me with their order. JOHN DEYSOLDS—81.

Doctors Thought Baby Was Consumptive

A letter to anxious mothers is written by Mrs. E. J. Kittle, of Kirkdale, P.Q., who says: "My little 4 year old boy suffered since he was 18 months old from a bad hip. Tried many salves and had doctors attend him, but none did him any good. The doctors told me he was in bad health, and he was in consumption. I only wish now I had had more faith in Zam-Buk, for it immediately healed my boy's hip. He is now nearly 7 years old, and looks far from being consumptive. He is now a strong, healthy boy, thanks to Zam-Buk. I hope this letter will help a good many anxious mothers."

M. take heart. Don't despair because everything has failed to heal your child until you have tried Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is Nature's Healing Balm, and quickly overcomes and removes all skin diseases. It is equally good for young and old.

For all skin diseases Zam-Buk is without equal. It cures ulcers, festering sores, ringworm, cuts, scalds, chapped hands, scalds, eczema, etc., etc. All stores and druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50 cents a box, or it will be paid from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 3 boxes, $1.25.

Catholics for Office.

Toronto News: It would be a gift if we should give any support to the reactionary idea—that Catholics should not be elected to public office in Toronto. If he can seriously believe that the illiberal idea would receive any general support from the Orange lodge. The fact that such men as Mr. Foy and Mr. McBrien can be elected in strongly Liberal constituencies is a reason for satisfaction rather than for lamentation. There is no better answer to the calumnious charge that Catholics are not fitted for public office by bigotry and intolerance. Orangeism are not generally intolerant in their political relations, and have made as many sacrifices for their convictions as any other element of the population. It is true that the mass of Orangemen are identified with the Conservative party, but Liberals cannot forget that very many of the Conservative party, in accordance with their sincere convictions, supported the Opposition which was led by Blake for a generation years ago, and that a still more numerous host of Orange voters supported Liberal and Independent candidates to 1896 when the Tupper Government were defeated and the Liberal party under Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into office. The Orange Association has not changed its character and is not likely now to deviate for the interests of Clubbism in public affairs.

International Courtesy

(London Tatler.)

An exceptionally pretty girl with an English flag fluttering at her side, was standing on a chair on top, per watching the racing. On a chair behind were two Frenchmen. The lady turned round and said in French "Hope I do not obstruct your view."

"Mademoiselle," quickly replied one of the men, "I much prefer the obstruction to the view."

GOVT. HAS MAJORITY

Mr. Cockshutt's Amendment to the Address Lost by 39.

DEBATE WAS CONTINUED

Touching Reference to Death of Mr. Lovell—Cost of the Insurance Commission—Mr. Monk Curious About Loans From Banks — Export Duty on Pulpwood—Government on the Shortage of Cars.

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—A beautiful wreath on the draped desk of Mr. Lovell, member for Stanstead, was the most evidence in the chamber yesterday that had again prevailed the Liberal ranks. The tributes of the Prime Minister and leader of the Opposition to the departed member were simple but feeling, and fittingly expressed the high regard in which Mr. Lovell was held by members on both sides of the House. The unusually large attendance in the early part of the session indicated that a division was at hand, and just before the six o'clock adjournment a vote was taken on Mr. Cockshutt's amendment, which was defeated by 56 to 56. Some comment was caused by the fact that Mr. Cockshutt was not in his seat when the division was taken, but inquiry elicited the information that the member for Brant had paired with a member of the Government. After the vote the discussion on the address was resumed by Dr. Barr, who put in a plea for an export duty on pulpwood, and a few other matters.

Mr. Claude Macdonell enquired what had been done about the relief of the Bulgarians stranded in Toronto. The Minister of the Interior replied that Mr. Blake Robertson, one of the officers of his Department, had gone to Toronto the night before and had met the derelicts referred to. Lacking an interpreter, however, he had found some difficulty in communicating with the Bulgarians, but an interpreter will be sent to the scene at once.

The Finance Minister informed the House that the total cost of the insurance Commission was $88,842.

Judge McTavish of Ottawa was paid $4,600, and 1947 transportation and living expenses; Mr. Kent $4,290 and $1,087; Mr. Langmuir $4,470 and $782; Mr. Shepley $3,800 and Mr. Tilley $12,200.

Mr. Monk enquired as to the total amount of Government temporary loans of high trusteeship, and how were obtained, since July 1.

The Finance Minister replied that the information was not yet obtainable, an answer which Mr. Monk declared to be quite unsatisfactory.

Mr. Fielding's answer was, however, relied by the Speaker to be unquestionable.

The Minister of Interior, replying to Mr. Ames, said that application had been made by Messrs. Belcourt and Ritchie, in 1907, for grazing leases on behalf of J. W. Woods, A. W. Ross and the Bar Ranch Ranch. No leases were granted, but Messrs. Ritchie and Belcourt changed their applications to John R. Craig, who had been granted leases comprising 43,800 acres, subject to cancellation. No action was taken on the application of M. W. Woods.

The Debate Resumed.

E. N. Lewis (Nipissing) resumed the debate on the address. He was considerable interested in the criminal law, pointing out serious discrepancies in the proposed law. He advocated making it a criminal offence for a man to shoot a fellow man in mistake for a deer, in case of culpably becoming, he said, altogether too frequent. Mr. Lewis said that a law be passed to prepare for the inspection of locomotive as well as stationary boilers. He did not think Mr. Cockshutt or anyone else who talked of hard times. There were no hard times or at all events only a little pinching. Wages were shortening sail and curtailing credit, but the prosperity was not unreasonable in view of conditions in other countries. He said that the admiration for the Canadian banks system and Canadian banks was great, but did think that when the banks increased their rate of interest from six to seven per cent they should be obliged to increase from three to four per cent allowed on savings deposits. In this connection he remarked that in the village of Sudbury there were two millions of money in the savings banks.

Transportation Facilities.

On the need of better transportation facilities in Northern Ontario, West Elgin spoke impressively. He told of instances in Government offices, where people were obliged to restrict their output for lack of cars and asked the pertinent question why it was that railways from north of the Georgian Bay were unable to handle the business brought by two lines of railway to Fort William and Arthur? One result of this was, he said, that twelve million bushels of Canadian wheat was shipped by way of Buffalo.

Mr. Lewis also made a second plea for an export duty on pulp wood. American industries were buying Canadian pulpwood at $6 per cord and selling at $30 in the finished product.

The debate upon the address was continued by Messrs. Macdonell (Algoma), Roche (Halifax), Barr (Dufferin), Lafar (Haldimand), Chisholm (Huron) and Kason (Middlesex). Dr. Clark (Jasper) criticized the French treaty, and claimed that it would not increase the trade between France and Canada, and Mr. Elson pleaded for rural delivery. The discussion of the address, moved by Mr. Cockshutt (Brantford), caused the usual division this session. It was a party vote, and the Government was sustained by a majority of 39. The debate now continues for some days.

FAMOUS EARTHQUAKE SUICIDES.

Mrs. Bloodgood Sends Bullet Through Roof of Her Mouth.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 6—Mrs. Clara Bloodgood, the actress, committed suicide by shooting in her room at the Hotel Stafford here last evening. Mrs. Bloodgood's body was found lying on the bed with a bullet hole through the roof of her mouth. Near by lay a book entitled, "How to Shoot Straight," and a 38-calibre revolver in the three chambers empty. She attended a matinee performance at Albaugh's Theatre in the afternoon, and returned to her hotel about four o'clock, seemingly in the best of spirits.

Later, when it was time for the curtain to raise for her curtain call at the Academy of Music, where she was appearing in "Truth," she was not there to an appearance. Word was sent to the Stafford Hotel and a bellboy was sent to her room. Finding no answer to his knock he opened the door he heard a pistol shot. Hurrying back to the office, he notified the clerks of what he had heard. An investigation was made, and Mrs. Bloodgood was found stretched on the bed as described. Before retiring to her room she had a talk with her stage manager, John Bourgeres, who declared that she observed nothing unusual in her demeanor.

The only motive he can ascribe is that Mrs. Bloodgood feared an attack of nervous prostration, and had been working very hard, he said, and she feared a breakdown.

Mrs. Bloodgood left a note addressed to her husband, who is said to be on his way to this city.

The audience at the Academy of Music was dismissed with the announcement that there would be no performance owing to a sudden indisposition of Mrs. Bloodgood.

STRIKE TO SHOW SYMPATHY.

Fifty Thousand Mill Hands Walk Out In Russian Town.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 6—Fifty thousand mill hands employed in St. Petersburg walked out yesterday on a one-day strike as a mark of sympathy with the thirty-seven Social-Democratic members of the second Duma who were yesterday arraigned on a charge of high treason.

Seventeen soldiers and civilians are also being tried, charged with the same offences.

In addition the students of the University of St. Petersburg have made a big demonstration.

Several thousand young men and women listened to revolutionary speeches, but they were rapidly dispersed by troops and police.

ACCUSED OF BIGAMY.

Police Arrest Charles Shaw While Holding a Bridal Reception.

Kingston, Dec. 6—A man from Hamilton, Charles Shaw, yesterday was married on Tuesday night, and Wednesday night he was the guest of the police cells, accused of bigamy. He was taken to the home of the bride while receiving congratulations.

He is accused of deserting a wife and two babies, one four years old, living on Montreal street, and within a few blocks away from Miss Ethel Watkins, whom he had just married. The young woman fainted when she learned she had been married, so did the first wife, who was formerly Miss M. Gascoign of this city.

Old Man Rescued.

Brockville, Dec. 6—Rescued just in the nick of time, as his house was burning down, was the experience of Thomas Miller, a farmer, living alone about 12 miles from Brockville.

It was just before daybreak yesterday morning that his nearest neighbors was dyveded to the scene by the reflection of the blaze, and who a very old, deaf and an odd character generally, had come outside and was about to remove for some valuable papers he had forgotten, when he was surprised to see the house collapsed a few minutes later, destroying the entire contents.

Man's Nose Cut Off.

St. Thomas, Dec. 6—Mr. Oscar Little met with a strange accident at Tilson, where the B-T Telephone Co. is doing some work. Mr. Little is foreman of an erecting gang, and had an arm in hole preparatory to stabbing. The wire was at high tension and as he approached it he was knocked down across his face in such a manner that it made a clean cut of his nose. The organ was left hanging, and the unfortunate man held to life in place and immediately rushed Dr. Jackson, who stitched it on.

Judge's Sudden Death.

Butte, Mon., Dec. 6—Judge E. W. Harney, aged 46 years, died suddenly Wednesday night of cerebral hemorrhage. He occupied the district bench during the Heinze-Amalgamated Copper fee litigation, and it was upon an allegation that he had been improperly influenced that the Amalgamated Company attorneys obtained a new trial.

UNIQUE RAILWAY INCIDENT.

Engineer Operated Upon For Dropsy While Train Waited.

London, Dec. 6—An example of the courtesy in which the rules of the Grand Trunk are strictly carried out is demonstrated in an incident of recent occurrence on the London, Huron and Bruce at Wingham.

Engineer Matthew Brown, one of the best-known men on the road, was suffering from an attack of dropsy, and just before he came to Wingham he was seized suddenly and found it impossible to go any further.

Under the rules of the company when an engineer dies or as taken sick on his engine, the train must be placed into a siding until another engine is secured. The fireman, no matter how capable a man, is not permitted to take charge of the engine.

A physician was summoned in this case and he immediately set about to perform an operation, to "tap" the engineer.

This was successfully done, and when the engineer had recovered, an hour and a half later, he again took charge of his engine and brought it into the city. Another engineer had not been available.

Railroad men say that Engineer Brown's case is without a parallel in the history of railroads.

The engineer has now completely recovered, and has his run on the Bruce, but hopes for no more such unique experiences.

SHROUDED IN MYSTERY.

Toronto Agent Dies In Detroit Resort Under Suspicious Circumstances.

Windsor, Dec. 6—John Christie, agent of a Toronto building supplies firm, and whose home is in that city, died suddenly in a Brush street resort in Detroit at early hour of last evening yesterday under circumstances considered highly suspicious.

Christie, who was a fine appearing man, about 50 years old, reached Detroit Wednesday on his way to China. Missing his train at this point he decided to remain over and spent his away the evening he visited several places of amusement, finally winding up at the home of Mrs. Harvey on Brush street, shortly after four o'clock yesterday morning. Within a few minutes after his arrival there he fell ill and died before medical assistance could be called.

The inmates of the house say that Christie had taken several drinks while there, but nothing stronger than ordinary ale. The police, however, have ordered the body removed for a post mortem will be held to determine the exact cause of death.

The home of the dead man was found several hundred dollars in Canadian money as well as letters which served to establish his identity.

Bank Clerk Shoots Himself.

Ingersoll, Dec. 6—Utterly without explanation is the suicide of R. H. Dawson, teller of the Traders Bank here yesterday. He shot himself with a pistol at 10.30, and was dead a few minutes later.

The manager, R. H. Forneri, heard the shot in Dawson's room above the bank, and, rushing upstairs, he found the young man dead with a revolver beside him.

Young Dawson was not short in his accounts.

He was of an exceptionally buoyant temperament, and enjoyed himself last night before at a dance at Harley, commencing at 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

He complained of being ill shortly before taking his life.

An inquest was considered unnecessary, and the body was sent to his home in Orangeville for burial.

Stanley Beeston's Suicide.

Winnipeg, Dec. 6—Stanley Beeston, a son of Sir Henry Beeston, and a popular young clubman, committed suicide by shooting himself and came to Winnipeg from Port Hope, Ontario, a year ago. His father is a prominent insurance company official in this city.

The deceased was teller of the bank there. He left his desk without explanation shortly after 11 a. m. yesterday, and was not seen again until his body was found yesterday. He was not a drinking man, and is believed to have become sudden insane.

Runaway Balloon Lands.

Belfast, Dec. 5—An airship believed to be La Patrie descended on a farm near Ballycallagh, County Down. The machinery of the car was wrecked.

The French Minister of War has ordered the loss of the military balloon La Patrie and finds that no one was responsible.

Foreign Minister Says Emigration Will Be Closely Limited.

VISCOUNT HAYASHI IS FIRM

Hon. Mr. Lemieux Receives Assurances—Details to Be Given Later—Commissioner Ishii Presents Report—Says Objection Is to Laborers—Agriculturists Do Well—Tyranny of Labor Unions.

Tokio, Dec. 6—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the Canadian Minister of Labor, held a lengthy conference yesterday with Viscount Hayashi, Minister of Foreign Affairs, at the Foreign Office, and received verbal assurances of the limitation of Japanese emigration, and that he will be given later full details of plans on foot for its control.

A committee from the emigration agents here had held a conference with Minister Hayashi, who announced that the plan of the Japanese Government was closely to limit all emigration to the United States and Canada. The members of the committee angrily announced their opposition to this course, but Minister Hayashi remained firm and dismissed the committee without changing his attitude or making any compromise.

Kiki Yire Ishii, chief of the Japanese Bureau of Commerce, who a few days ago returned from his visit to the United States and Canada, where he was sent to investigate the emigration problem, addressed a meeting of the Tokio newspapers around him at the Foreign Office last evening and discussed his mission abroad. He said that there were two classes of Japanese in America, day laborers, of whom there were 15,000, and a few agriculturists. He said that the emigration of the former that objection was raised. He found that many of this class were desired by employers, and others were discharged as living were objectionable. The Japanese agriculturists generally were successful.

Baron Ishii described the existing economic conditions in America, and explained the method of state self-government in the United States. He said that between the trusts and the labor unions the middle class of American and foreign laborers suffered, declaring that union labor was largely controlled by unreasonable persons, their attitude being almost that of tyrants, and that they were in danger of destroy anything standing in their way.

Japanese engaged in agriculture as land owners or lessors," said Baron Ishii, "require a few of the best class of their countrymen as laborers, but the Government of Japan has been limiting the emigration of this class."

FIRE IN GUELPH HOTEL.

Domestics Rescued After Exciting Time—Cut Off by Smoke.

Guelph, Dec. 6—Fire broke out yesterday in a storeroom in the basement of the Royal Hotel, and before it was put out some damage was done to the basement of the building. Volumes of smoke spread throughout the white hotel, and the escape of several of the domestics was cut off, but all them were taken from the upper storeys by the firemen and carried in safety to the ground, none the worse except for the fright they got. The damage is estimated at only about $2,000. The hotel proper will continue in working order, and the guests in the upper portion of it is untouched.

NEGRO HAS SLAYING FIT.

Runs Amuck and Shoots Seven White Men, Then Is Killed.

Augusta, Ark., Dec. 6—Crazed by cocaine, Nash Muscay, negro, ran amuck here yesterday, shooting seven white persons before he was killed by men. The negro was finally corralled in a barn, and was shot to death by a posse, fighting until he fell, literally riddled with bullets. One of Muscay's victims will die.

TRAGEDY AT BOSTON

Two Labor Leaders Shot in State House Ante-Room.

ONE OF THE VICTIMS MAY DIE

Madman Entered Looking for Governor Guild — Found Man Waiting Outside His Room and Fired Revolver—President Cohen Received Bullet Through His Head in Adjoining Secretary's Room.

Boston, Dec. 6.—John A. Steele, an insane man of Everett, walked into the ante-room of the executive chamber of the State House yesterday afternoon, and finding Governor Guild's door closed, turned on three prominent labor leaders and fired three shots at them, probably fatally wounded Edward Cohen of Lynn, president of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor; secretary-treasurer Frank Morrison of Boston, secretary of the same board, and painfully injuring with the butt of his revolver John Hurley, a Boston Herald reporter, who was waiting to see the Governor. Hurley was struck on the head by the first shot fired by Steele, who was overpowered by Secretary Cohen and Sergeant John J. H. Whitney, chief of the State House.

Steele was released on parole last month from the Danvers Insane Asylum. He was 27 years old.

Governor In His Office.

Governor Guild was in his office only a few feet away when the shooting occurred, and, rushing out, assisted in subduing Steele, and subsequently directed the removal of the wounded men to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Cohen was shot twice through the head and he is in critical condition. The third bullet struck Driscoll a glancing blow on side of the forehead and rendered him unconscious. Both recovered consciousness shortly hour later. Hurley's wound was not serious.

The three labor leaders came to the State House to meet the governor in regard to a petition, but they found the governor was busy at the time and were asked to wait in one of the ante-rooms.

All three were standing beside a long table conversing pleasantly, while at the further end of the room Secretary Cohen was writing a letter to a stenographer.

Grappled With Steele.

Suddenly Steele appeared at the door of the room from the hallway, and without announcing himself walked by the doorkeeper and a messenger and glanced through Governor Guild's room about ten feet away. The door was closed. Steele then drew a revolver and fired at Hurley, who was about six feet away. Cohen's face was turned from the shooter, but the back of the head, passed directly through and comes out at the back of the head, drown a great splash of blood from the opposite side of the room. Steele made no attempt to fire again.

By this time Secretary Cohen had leaped over a table and grappled with Steele, who was now at the same moment Gen. Whitney, who had been summoned by the shooting, hearing, came through the door and rushed to the assistance of Mr. Grieve.

Huddell also jumped up and grappled with Steele, and some of the messengers handed the revolver to Gen. Whitney, who had the murdering people in the lobby.

The governor came out of his room and helped to overpower the insane man. Word was sent for assistance to the office of the state police and the assistance of the building, and a force of officers quickly came to the assistance of the State Board of Insanity, was the first to reach the excitement. Steele was at once pronounced insane, having had him under observation for more than five years in various state insane institutions. Some doctors were appeared and aided in the removal of the wounded men to the hospital.

The previous record of 4 days 22 hours and 50 minutes was made by the Lusitania, sister ship of the Mauretania. Consequently the Mauretania has beaten the Lusitania by 22 minutes.

The Mauretania cleared Sandy Hook lightship July 26, at 2.22 p. m.

The request of a group of students to make a deputation to welcome Secretary Taft upon his arrival was denied by the authorities, and it was feared that this deputation was merely a pretext for a revolutionary demonstration.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., NEW YORK.
Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered this to could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, by generally employed. So this now world famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its composition.

A glance at the list of its ingredients, given on its bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medical roots growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the medical profession, leaders and writers on Materia Medica, the world over, as being the best remedies for the diseases for which Golden Medical Discovery is recommended.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking some by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, extracts from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied by a cough, spitting of phlegm, shortness, short breathing, long-hang-on coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated, are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you get well, for, if you do, it is most likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. So much can it do, it will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, or nervous Nervous Heart, or Nervous Weakness, is a condition in which the heart muscle is diseased, or, in a word, actually diseased. It is a disease, always a hidden fiery little nerve that really is at fault. This disease—the Cardiac or Heart Nerve—usually needs and must have more power; some nerves need more than others, according to their severity. Without this power, heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so well and so favorably known for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart disease. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a popular prescription—is alone directed to these nerves. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is not a "heart stimulant," it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—nerves which they are needed, why

A Rock in the Baltic

By ROBERT BARR,

Author of

"The Triumphs of Eugene Valmond," "Tekla," "In the Midst of Alarms," "Speculations of John Steele," "The Victors," Etc.

Copyright, 1905, by Robert Barr.
By Arrangement with The Authors and Newspapers Association of New York.

"Provoking!" I should say it was. He pretended he was going to tear his letter up on the corridor board in the hall of the hotel, so that every one might know what guests of distinction the Matterhorn House held. But the most exasperating feature of the situation is that this letter has been lying for days and days at our cottage in Bar Harbor. I am quite certain that I left instructions for letters to be forwarded, but, as nothing came, I telegraphed yesterday to the people who have taken our house, and now a whole heap of belated correspondence has arrived, with a note from our tenant saying he did not know our address. You will see at the bottom of the note that the prince asks my father to communicate with him by sending a reply to the Consteration at New York, but now the Consternation has sailed for England, and poor John must have waited and waited in vain."

"Write care of the Consternation in England."

"But Jack told me that the Consternation paid off as soon as she arrived, and probably he will have gone to Hussia."

"If you address him at the admiralty in London, the letter will be forwarded wherever he happens to be."

"How do you know?"

"I have heard that such is the case."

"But you're not sure, and I want to be certain."

"Are you really in love with him, Kate?"

"Of course I am. You know that very well, and I don't want any stupid misapprehension to arise at the beginning, such as allows a silly author to carry on his story to the four hundredth page of such trash as this." And she gently touched with her foot the unoffending volume which lay on the ground beneath the hammock.

"Then not adopt your father's suggestion and collect? It isn't you who are calling, you know."

"I couldn't consent to that. It would look as if we were in a hurry, wouldn't it?"

"Then let me cable."

"You? To whom?"

"Hand me up that despised book, Kate, and I'll write my cablegram on the fly leaf. If you approve of the message, I'll go to the hotel and send it at once."

Katherine gave her the book and lent the little silver pencil which hung jingling with other trinkets on the chain at her side. Jack scribbled a note, tore out the fly leaf and presented it to Katherine who read:

Alan Drummond, Bluewater Club, Pall Mall, London:

Tell Lamont that his letter to Captain Kempt was delayed and did not reach the captain until today. Captain Kempt's reply will be sent under cover to you at your club. Arrange for forwarding if you leave England.

DOROTHY AMHURST.

When Katherine finished reading she looked up at her friend and exclaimed, "Well!" giving that one word a meaning deep as the clear pool on whose borders she stood.

Dorothy's face reddened as if the sinking sun on them was shining full upon it.

"You write to one another, then?"

"Yes."

"And is it a case of"—

"No; friendship."

"Sure it is nothing more than that?"

Dorothy shook her head.

"Dorothy, you are a brick; that's what you are. You will do anything to help a friend in trouble."

Dorothy smiled.

"I have so few friends that whatever I can do for them will not greatly tax my capabilities I may possess."

"Nevertheless, Dorothy, I thoroughly appreciate what you have done. You did not wish any one to know you were corresponding with him, and yet you never hesitated a moment when you saw I was anxious."

"Indeed, Kate, there was nothing to conceal. Ours is a very ordinary exchange of letters. I have only had two—one at Bar Harbor a few days after he left and another longer one since we came to the hotel, written from England."

"Did he last one go to Bar Harbor too? How came you to receive it when we did not get ours?"

"It did not go to Bar Harbor. I gave him the address of my lawyers in New York, and they forwarded it to me here. Lieutenant Drummond was ordered home by some one who had authority to do so and received the message while he was sitting with me on the night of the ball. He had got into trouble with Russia. There had been an investigation, and he was acquitted. I saw that he was rather worried over the order home, and I expressed my sympathy as well as I could, hoping everything would turn out for the best. He asked if he might write and let me know what happened, being interested. I quite willingly gave him permission and my address. The letter I received was all about his conversation meeting at the admiralty in which he took part. He wrote to me from the club in Pall Mall, to which I have addressed this cablegram."

"There was a sly dimple in Katherine's cheeks as she listened to this straightforward explanation, and the faintest possible suspicion of a smile flickered at the corner of her mouth. She murmured rather than sang:

"Well!"

"A pair of lovesick maidens we."

"One, if you please," interrupted Dorothy.

"Lovesick all against our will."

"Only one."

"Twenty years hence we shan't be

"A pair of lovesick maidens still."

"I am pleased to note," said Dorothy demurely, "that the letter written by the prince to your father has brought you back to the Gilbert and Sullivan plane again, although in this fairy glen you should quote from 'Iolanthe' rather than from 'Patience.'"

"Yes, Dot, this spot might do for a cove in the 'Pirates of Penzance,' only we're too far from the sea. But, to return to the matter in hand, I don't think there will be any need to send that cablegram. I don't like the idea of a cablegram, anyhow. I will return to the hotel and dictate to my frivolous father a serious composition quite as stately and formal as that received from the prince. He will address it and seal it, and then if you are kind enough to inclose it in the next letter you send to Lieutenant Drummond it will be sure to reach Lieut. Lamont ultimately."

Dorothy sprang from the hammock to the ground.

"Oh," she cried eagerly, "I'll go into the hotel with you and write my letter at once."

Katherine smiled, took her by the arm and said:

"You're a dear girl, Dorothy. I'll race you to the hotel as soon as we are through this thicket."

CHAPTER IX.

THE next letter Dorothy received bore Russian stamps and was dated at the Commandant's shop, Bolshoi Prospect, St. Peterburg. After a few preliminaries which need not be set down here Drummond continued:

"The day after Jack arrived in London, there being nothing whatever to detain him in England, we set off together for St. Petersburg and are now domiciled above his blacksmith shop. We are not on the fashionable side of the river, but our street is wide, and a very short walk brings us to a bridge which, being crossed, allows us to wander among palaces if we are so disposed. We have been here only four days, yet a good deal has already been accomplished. The influence of the prince has smoothed my path for me. Yesterday I had an audience with a very important personage in the foreign office, and today I have seen an officer of high rank in the navy.

"The prince warns me to mention no names, because letters, even to a young lady, are sometimes opened before they reach the person to whom they are addressed. These officials who have been kind enough to receive me are gentlemen as polished that I feel quite uncouth in their presence. I am a little shaky in my French and feared that my knowledge of that language might not carry me through, but both of these officials speak English much better than I do, and they seemed rather pleased I had voluntarily visited St. Petersburg to explain that no discourtesy was meant in the action I had so unfortunately taken on the Baltic, and they gave me their warmest assurances they would do what they could to ease the tension between our respective countries. It seems that my business here will be finished much sooner than I expected, and that I can off on the quickest stranger for New

A RUBBER PLATFORM.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the course of a spectacular speech in the House Tuesday, said:

The now year 1907 has seen the construction of a new platform for the new Conservative party. It is a memorable structure. It is not remarkable for what one would look in such a structure, but rather for the very reverse. It is remarkable, not for its solidity, but for its elasticity. It was built, not of oak, not of India rubber. Its planks are not the ordinary boards, but nameless things, intended to stretch or expand according to time, place and circumstance. I do not think I can at all quickly advise of how that platform was propounded advanced was constructed with a "plank" which made it so elastic. Looking a decade into existing Everything is connected by the air-rounding one. Every step forward is followed by a step backward, and Mr. Borden reminded me very much of a crazed squirrel, always in motion, but always revolving in a circle, and accomplishing nothing.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Kingston Whig: No Oriental immigrants will now be allowed to land in British Columbia until they have been examined and medically pronounced "fit." It would be a good thing if the same rule applies to some European immigrants.

Uncle Sam has spent $48,285,110 on the Panama Canal since he took hold of it, and the appropriations amount to nearly $86,000,000. Then $60,000,000 was paid for the French concessions rights. It will furnish excuse for high taxation for some time to come.

The County Orange Lodge in Toronto has passed a resolution forbidding the lodges of the Orange order from aiding publicly the political cause of our Roman Catholic. The motion has caused a great stir, and the grand master, Dr. Sproule, has declared the proposed action unconstitutional. Does that end the matter?

According to the St. John Sun, in Colchester, N. S., election the Liberals gained ground in eleven ridings, one district and the Conservatives in eight. Sinnfield's election was won in Truro, his home town, where his mills are located. He received there 236 more votes than the Conservative candidate in 1904. How these votes were gained will be made the subject of a court inquiry.

Socialism is a complete failure, is the verdict of the French city of Brest. After a trial of three years that city finds itself with one-third of the population on the poor rates, ten thousand more employed in the arsenal, where there was work for every one thousand, nearly every industry in the city jeopardized by strikes, socialist theatres run at an annual loss of $5,000 milk sold for three cents, a litre which cost the city seven cents, and three-quarters of the $30,000 surplus left by the previous city council spent and no account given. In Saint Denis, Roubeia, Marseilles and Limoges similar disaster is reported.

Peterboro Examiner: Work on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is progressing, at a good rate, of course, the difficulty of securing labor is hindering construction considerably. Upon the Government portion of the railway, from Moncton to Winnipeg, nearly half the distance is under construction. Though Conservative journals have complained that the Government section would be slow of construction, some going so far as to say that it would never be built, it is not easy wagering that the 1800 odd miles will be built before the expiration of the Ontario Government railway, from New Liskeard to the junction, with the Transcontinental at Abitibi. The Borden Government built the whole line from North Bay in two years, a year less than the Whitney Government has spent upon the Abitibi, which is not yet completed.

The Band will be at the roller rink to-night. (Friday.)

ABOUT CEMENT WALKS.

What it Cost Belleville—Cement Mixer Effected a Great Saving:

The finance and works committee of Belleville City Council recently briefly presented a report on the work of construction of cement walks, which may prove of interest to Lindsay citizens, and more especially to our city fathers.

This year, instead of sand, the commission used granite, giving the walks a granite face of 1-12 inches thick instead of the gain coarsely-cut crushed stone and sand used for concrete instead of gravel. With all this extra expense a saving of one cent per foot was made, over the price of last year. The cost per foot was 18 cents and the contractor, Mr. Coates, made a saving of $2,713.08 on this season's work, profit for which is given the cement mixer, which was installed for $800. It took Point Hope 12-2-3 cents per foot, out one, which was far from going of the highest standard.

It might be well for our aldermen to consider the above figures regarding the work in Belleville.

THE COLLEGIATE PROMENADE

A Delightful Time Enjoyed Last Evening—About 300 Present.

The promenade held in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute of the Literary Society, last evening, was a great and magnificent success. Besides the students, there were a number of old students and officers of the Literary Society in attendance, and the proportion of boys to girls was near eight to 1. It is a pleasure to obtain in an affair of this size. There were between two and three hundred persons promenading over to the pretty music played by a few of the musicians of the school.

The hour and location of the evening were Principal and Mrs. Harbinson who did their utmost to see that these present had an enjoyable time. There was not one who was not fond in the pleasure of such a thing as time. There were fun promenades and three extras, and between the promenades a most enjoyable program was rendered. Pte. Hunter gave a short but interesting address, Mrs. Cathro and Miss Chapman charmed the audience with a duet. At the end of the third promenade, Mr. Harbinson gave an address, stating that since he was called to Lindsay he had promenade no would-be or-able to attend at the school, he would like to point out a few things. He went on to show that the school should take a more active interest in sport—not, of course, to overcome the other studies, but to fair account, for it has always been conceived that if proper interest is maintained along this line, boys will take more and healthier interest in their studies, and would do so much better physically when through the course. He spoke of the disadvantages he had labored under when going to school in not being allowed to address meetings and he felt the loss yet. He thought the Literary Society was a great tool in the school-man-prophecy that in about 50 years he learnt several other things which, if followed up, would be for their good.

After this Mr. D. W. Puffer gave a solo in fine style, and Mr. Maddock and brought down the house by a humorous reading. The girls Glee Club sang so well that they had to come back, whether or no, and sing a second to the encore. Miss Brady gave a solo in a way that charmed the school, and had to satisfy them with an encore. A vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Harbinson, to the Literary Society, and to the committee in charge was moved by Mr. J. M. Kingsley, seconded by Mr. Ernest Rae, and received round on round of cheering. Mr. Harbinson thanked the school for their kind words of welcome, and said a few words on the success of the evening. All agreed that night certainly was the time Mrs. Harbinson and nought their partners for going home, after one of the most successful evenings the School has ever dealt.

Reminder to Clergymen.

Recently a local clergyman neglected to ask for the burial certificate of a person buried in funeral, and in his report to the Registrar of Vital Statistics was unable to report that he had buried the dead. Now this delay has caused a circuit, but showing the obligation of clergymen to their duty as required by law. Before a clergyman can report a person buried he must request the undertaker to produce the burial certificate. Clergymen should remember this. Now they are reminded that they must. The question is taken to have a double stack of cordials.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST Homestead Regulations

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The land entry fee is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:—

(1) 3 least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him not less than eight (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If his father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or on a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined to mean not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of such allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by him self must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

THE MAN WHO ROSE FROM NOTHING.

Around the world the fame is shown
Of fighting heroes, lead and gone;
But we've a hero of our own—
The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,
His faith is figured on his tax,
And always cuts an axe—
The man who rose from nothing.

The gentleman in work and deed,
And short and simple in his creed,
He's not afraid to help the need of
The man who rose from nothing.

In other lands he's hardly known,
For he's a product of our own—
Could grow nowhere but on a throne—
The man who rose from nothing.

Here's to the land of the sun and rain,
On which the sun of freedom shines,
Peoples we need on its soil, see—
The man who rose from nothing.

—Alexander McLaren.

POPULAR PRICES

—The Y.M.A. of St. Paul's church will be a popularity meeting on Tuesday Dec. 3rd. The Rev. Thos. Marsh very humorously and pleasantly delivered Dickens' present, and today the attendance was rather small owing to counter attractions. All were pleased with the profitable evening evening spent.

The utility does not include several large conventions. Evidently the town's fine lakeside park is proving a good investment.

—The Canadian Northern Railway auditors in their report for October show an increase of $18,000 over the same week last year. The figures are: 1907, $921,000; 1906, $15,100; gross for last 10 days 1907, $5,500,000; 1906, $2,638,200; an increase of $911,200 over the same time last year.

—A Petroboro auditor says bill is sent quarterly on the bank for other day in conversation with The Review. After expressing the opinion that the coming winter will be extraordinarily hard one for many persons in the city, he continued, "People are live from to their last cent, and do not even display the sagacity of a squirrel in storing for the winter, or even scrambling out of the rain." Some Lindsay business men, who are carrying the accounts of men who have had steady work all summer, will comment on the above utterance.

RANG IN AN ALARM.

East Ward Teachers and Pupils Given a "Scare" This Morning.

Dr. White and Mr. Wm. McWaters met on Kent-st. this morning and connected a plot against the East Ward teachers and their pupils. Driving over to the school just after recess, they waited in the hall until the subdomes of all noise in the adjoining class rooms indicated that the children had settled down to work again hard at work at their lessons.

Then and not till then, did the Doctor reach for the fire gong and send in a most bloodcurdling alarm, which brought everybody to their feet in the school building as the fire inside of one minute every pupil in the four class rooms, had marched in orderly fashion two long citizens into the open air, and not till then did they realize that the alarm was a false one, sent in merely with the object of testing the system of discipline put in practice by the teachers on such occasions. The demonstration was eminently satisfactory, and the teachers — Misses Fanning, Cassidy, Hopkins and Hesbine—were the recipients of earnest compliments for the celerity with which they had marshalled the children and led them to apparent safety.

My Wife Says

The Suit I got at J. Houzer's yesterday is the best I ever bought for $10.00, and she was quite confident that I never got one as good for $15.00.

That is what an enthusiast told a friend about a suit he selected yesterday. We hear similar comments every day. You are hurried perhaps, and would get a suit of clothes to-day if you had the time to spare. Give us ten minutes—we will do the rest.

I also inform you, Ladies, that Xmas is soon at hand, and if you want a good Coat, of the very latest style you can come and select at my store at a very reasonable price. We also have a nice selection of furs. If you come to see them we will interest you very much to see the prices.

I have lots of more things which are too numerous to mention. Don't fail to call and see me.

J. HOUZER,

Do You Know

that a great many of the people you know come to me for everything they need in the meat line? The reason is because I make it an unfailing rule to buy only the best animals, and also because I want it no trouble to give buyers just what they want, and do not forget how to do it again next time. Try me once—you'll be satisfied.

FIELD OF SPORT.

What is Occurring in Sporting Circles Generally

THE RACE WAS A GRIN

The Marathon road race received a very black eye as it was carried on after quite a fashion in the vicinity of N. Y., last Thursday. The entire course was strewn with fallen runners who collapsed under the terrible strain. Here and there a champion would appear in the following morning in New York, but only twenty-five in all, which will be of interest to Canadian athletics.

One man is in critical condition in the hospital, five others removed to their homes, a couple of collapses, a dozen delirious, and at least six Queens who failed to report at the finish and were discovered later on officially at a late hour—such was the result of the Marathon run—Thanksgiving Day, Saturday, at Yonkers.

The runner who may lose his life is G. C. Cunningham, of the New York Athletic Club. After he had gone seventeen miles he fell exhausted on the Tuckahoe road, at Central Park. He was removed, unconscious, to the Hollywood Inn, Yonkers, and thence to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Scouts for the Stragglers

For hours after the finish of the leaders, bicycle policemen, automobiles and others, scoured the country side for stragglers. Some of the guides on bicycles deserted the runners they were supposed to accompany, and several of the runners, more or less exhausted, thus lost their way and wandered off through the woods. It was reported that more than half a dozen of the contestants had fallen out of the way places. These reports gained credence because of the failure of quite a number to appear at the club house on to-all are now. Many anxious inquiries as to the whereabouts of some of the missing runners were received.

WINNIPEG STAYS AMATEUR

The Winnipeg Hockey Club has decided to remain in amateur ranks rather than submit to the ruling of the professionals, that they must play a test game with the Maple Leafs, who hitherto were regarded more as intermediates than seniors. This leaves the standings of the teams as follows: Maple Leafs of Winnipeg, Kenora, Portage la Prairie, and Brandon.

A ROLLER CHALLENGE

J. Sullivan, of Toronto, is on with a challenge to race anybody on roller skates, at three to five miles. Address 10 Kennedy-avenue, or S. W. Smith, Riverdale Roller Rink.

Oshawa has entered a team in the Intermediate series of the O. H. A.

Monaghan, the famous speed producing outsider, has been sold to a Strathroy syndicate of horsemen.

Varsity will altogether likely have a team in the senior O. H. A. series, instead as in the Intercollegiate Union.

It is proposed to start a branch of the Irish-Canadian Athletic Club at Orillia. The town has done well at football, cricket and hockey.

Orillia has been off the hockey map for several years, but this winter, with a fine new rink, will come back into the O. H. A. arena strong and clear ones.

The 100 yards record is 9 4-5, held by J. W. Morton, of England, 9.2 yards, 21 3-5, by D. J. Walsh, of New York, 110 yards, 10 seconds, by G. W. Long, of New York.

Montreal greatly scored 75 points against Peterboro Saturday. Considering gloves only one point, as a touch in goal, when in reality he had scored a try. It was Jeffrey Britton's first game in the county.

The pacing gelding, Blackbird, 2.13 1-4, by Alcyonian Boy, 2.17 1-4, dam Little Day, by Kendal, acknowledged to be the best pacer out on the tracks last winter, is now in training at Dufferin track, Toronto.

A movement is on foot to send a cricket cricket team to Philadelphia for a week's play next July. The Canadian team will be picked from the unequalled best young players of the country, and, in all probability, Hamilton will have two members on the team. If the project succeeds it will be double, give an impetus to cricket among the younger men.

Provincial Winter Fair, Guelph.

On account of the Provincial Winter Fair the Grand Trunk Railway System will issue return tickets at single first class fare from all stations in Ontario, Kingston and West, to Guelph, Ont., commencing Dec. 1st to Dec. 10th, valid for return until Monday, Dec. 16th, 1907. Full information can be obtained from any Grand Trunk Ticket Agent.

NEW CURE FOR CATARRH.

Post Sufferers Have a Chance to Try it on Money-Back Plan.

Since nobody knows when, people have suffered from indigestion, sick headaches, blosting, dizzy spells, distress after eating, sleeplessness, and many other symptoms of stomach trouble, and have found the usual remedies powerless.

At last a prescription called Mi-o-na stomach tablets is offered to the medical profession and general public as a fast solution of caring stomach and intestinal troubles. Its success everywhere has made it, in the last few years, the acknowledged specific it is to-day.

Indigestion, which is so common, is usually the principal cause of a great share of the general poor health. It has misleading symptoms that seemingly have no relation to the stomach, such as headaches, sleeplessness, nervous symptoms, etc. These conditions, if neglected, become chronic and hard to shake off.

Strengthen the whole digestive system with Mi-o-na, and you will soon find that the stomach and bowels do their work as they should. There will be no distress after eating, and the refuse will be expelled from the system without the aid of physic.

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results. Write for free sample, addressing Booth's Mi-o-na, Box 977, Buffalo, N. Y.

PAYABLE AFTER REACHING SIXTY.

For $13 a Year a Person Can Purchase a Life Annuity of $156 (or $200.

The Government bill to authorize the issue and sale by the Government of old-age annuities is practically the same terms as Sir William Mulock's Richard Cartwright introduced in the Senate last year. It's purpose is to encourage thrift and saving among the working classes of the country, and to secure the beneficiaries of an annual income, after they have reached the age of sixty-five years, sufficient to keep them from want. For an annual contribution of thirteen dollars, beginning at the age of 20, the beneficiary will become entitled, after he has reached the age of sixty, to an annuity of $156 per year, thereafter, as long as he lives. If the annuitant prefers to wait for his annuity until he has reached the age of sixty-five, he will then be entitled to $200 yearly.

The contributors' savings will be paid into the local post offices wherever they may reside. These savings will then be given compound interest half yearly from then.

The Government annuity shall not be made in favor of any person other than the actual annuitant, nor for any larger amount than four hundred dollars a year. No annuities will be paid until the beneficiary has attained the age of 60.

These Government annuities will be declarably inalienable, that is to say, they cannot be capitalized or sold to anyone else, and the law provides that the money that a family derive from them cannot be seized for any reason whatever.

The Government undertakes the management of the annuities, and payment of the annuities will be guaranteed by the Dominion Government.

If any annuitant is either unable or unwilling to keep up his payments, such he has reached the age of 65, he will be allowed to withdraw whatever money he has paid in, to which the Dominion Government will add interest at the rate of 3 per cent. The Government annuity, of course, will cease with the death of the beneficiary in exactly the same way as it would if his contract had been made with any annuity company.

DO YOU KNOW THESE THINGS?

Pointers Worth Remembering.

That all old fellows do not belong to a lodge?

That a widow who wouldn't flirt is unknown?

That many girls would rather die than be an old maid?

That you can't meet a girl who will refuse an ice cream?

That a faithful heart is considered an even more rare gem than a diamond?

That even a blind man can find trouble without much difficulty?

That a man can live on a pretty girl's smile and you'll feel hungry for more?

That we sometimes write love letters on wish-wash paper instead?

That the girl that cannot sing and will sing ought to be muzzled?

That nothing costs more than things we try to get for nothing?

That it's only the pretty women who know who will make good wives?

That courtship is a vessel in which few single ladies object to embarking?

That you hardly ever meet a woman mother anyone larger than himself?

That smiles cost less than elaborate lights and they may make the home brighter.

That it is easier for some men to make love than it is to make a living?

That a woman never weeps more bitterly than when she weeps for spite?

That the most timid girls have a way of hinting at supper after the theatre?

That you can't convince a woman that a bargain is a bargain unless she gets it?

That whenever a man angles for a pretty girl no bait his hook with lottery?

That the "better" half, whichever it is, should build the fires in the morning?

That truth is better than false hood, but false teeth are better than no teeth at all?

That about the second time you meet a woman she begins to tell you her troubles?

That a person enjoys ripping up something useful to make something ornamental?

That no matter what a girl's political creed may be, she always wants protection?

That you hardly ever can induce a boarding house steak which is "tender and true?"

That no matter how good a church man he may be, there is not one in a million who would not get the back in a deal if he could?

That a man who was demonstrating to a crowd that there was no more danger in hypnotism was the first to climb up a lamp-post when a small yellow dog came running down the street?—Skeeiky Bits.

JACK THE HUGGER.

Thought it Was Her Husband, But Was a Real Bear

Mrs. Adoe Luther, who lives with her husband on his father's farm, in a place known in the mountainous region of Virginia, some miles west of Winchester, is proud of her husband, who, after having been in the embrace of a savage bear, routed the animal with a mere weapon and refused to faint afterward.

In speaking of the circumstances afterwards Mrs. Luther said that she was in an other life had such a hugging as the bear gave her; she thought it was her husband at first, and she was at first, thinking that she was in the arms of her brawny husband. Luther was at work in the field and he's sang about her that she realized that neither Mr. John Luther nor any other man could hug like that. Mrs. Luther was in the kitchen, when the bear, probably attracted by the smell of the cooking, struck his nose in the door. The woman, thinking it was her husband, who had gone to the mountains for chestnuts, ran straight up behind her to give her a kiss.

Ah, John! Your awful whisk ers! she exclaimed without looking up, when a shaggy head brushed her aside.

Then Mrs. Luther felt two strong arms encircle her waist, and she gave a faint, dying cry, as about the chest, for the sharp rightness.

John you has like a bear," she exclaimed, and twisting in his embrace, she looked squarely into the face of brute.

You ornery brute!" yelled the woman, swinging her fryingpan in her surprise and disappointment on the back of brute's head. She followed up this advantage with a fled from from the scene, raising a moment later upon a formidable poker, with which she pounded brute so vigorously, that the surprised beast scurried off in flight.

INTERESTING TRUTHS.

WASTE OF LA BOR.

The small profit on farm, all of it, also country, and the big wages in small, is not due so much to lack of work, as it is to misdirected work, work that brings no profit.

That field that yields but a few bushels per acre through lack of fertility or want of drainage, the cow that makes less than 200 pounds of butter in a year, the pig that is kept alive up on a poor and fed till the feed amounts to more than it is worth, these are what make so much farming unprofitable.

It does as much to plow a field that yields only 10 bushels to the acre as it does to plow one that yields fifty. The cow that gives only 3000 pounds of milk in a year takes up as much barn room, as much pasture and practically as much feed and care as a cow that gives 6000. The pig that has been kept a year and a half or two years, sells for but little more than the one that is kept on 8 months and forced along.

Most of these things results in little profit, although the farmer keeps at it from sun to sun. Right hours a day, of intelligent, systematic work with fields and plants and animals of high quality will result in greater production and greater profit than 16 hours a day of average farming. The proof of this may be seen the country over. Who are the most successful farmers? Is it on the mortgaged, run-out farms where the man works from sun to sun and the farm yields a poor living?

Let us farmers seek to farm, rightly, else long hours of labor available little.—Maritime Farmer.

THE FARMER'S UNIQUE PLACE.

With financial houses tumbling down, with stockholders shivering in their boots, the splendid isolation of the farmer, through all the storm and rumors of to-day, stands unique. He is as serene, his living and his support, if less do not degenerate, he get rent, to-day and thereby cause a failure. He is on the rock of safety because his money is invested in the soil. For, after all, wheat is property. If there is any stability in values, the farmer has the dig and the wheat and stick.

The wealth is measured every time by ability, and he who has the means of supporting his fellow man with the necessities of life has the real wealth of the world on his command. Thus it is that the life-sustaining goods from the farms, with the means at hand for their increase, make the farmer a truly wealthy man. Prudence and foresight are the crystals of kings," retire one who knows, and yet, with that is imparted by associated values is made and destroyed by a mendth.

These facts of the real values of an agricultural life on the good Ontario farms ought to be impressed up on the young man to-day as never before. There is not a single item of inflated values in agricultural possessions. There is not an element of speculative gambling in the life of farm securities. It is even better than work, where many people are the victims of their optimistic view values.

The security of the farmer against the commercial and financial ups and downs of values is certainly unique.

GO SLOW IN SELLING HOGS.

That farmers who slaughter hogs for their own use should be careful to reap a some-Scary advantage in the high price of grain, and with the fall of the financial storm in the mind, may as making a serious mistake. The burden of a letter, written to The Herald by Mr. W. J. Lochel, of the Agricultural College at Guelph, Mr. Day writes:

It is seldom that the farmer allows himself to be carried away by a panic. His customary hard common sense and conservative methods usually protect him from this, and not, when we hear of young pigs being sold at fifty cents each at weaning time, or slaughtered for pork, they demanded for food, it would seem as though something closely approaching a panic had begun to throw up a few pigs. Selling stock on a poor market in order to sell grain upon a high market is not always a profitable enterprise, and the manner of doing it coming during the year may be considerably less under this method, than had the grain been marketed in the form of meat. Farm animals, and especially hogs, consume and turn into valuable meat, many products which otherwise, would have been wasted, and though the farmer may not always realize the fullest market prices for the grain fed to the hogs, the otherwise unsalable products for which the hogs have provided a market will more than compensate for a careful system of feeding, much more than make up the deficiency.

What does the farmer gain by exercising his judgment and selling his grain? In the first place, he gains prevailing market prices for his grain, which might, or might not, have been obtained had the grain used for to hogs. Secondly, he saves the labor of feeding the hogs. Thirdly, he has less risk, and less capital invested. Against this, he has incurred a heavy loss by depletion of his stock on a glutted market. He still has the labor of cleaning the grain ready for the market. He has lost the sale of a number of products which the hogs could profitably provide, and has placed himself in a position where he cannot take advantage of the high prices for finished hogs which seem certain to prevail when the present excitement has our mad itself out.

Every farmer who be his own judge as to what is the best course for him to pursue. But two things seem to be clear, that he should be counsel with themselves, and thoroughly consider all the features of the question before deciding upon a line of action.

CAN CONQUER CATARRH.

One can't help being born in a bad climate, but one can guard against its effects. Canada and catarrh are synonymous, but if proper treatment is given, catarrh should have little effect on the average person. If you will have your druggist mix the following simple remedy you will soon lose the feeling of uncleanliness, arising from catarrh: One ounce sweet spirits of nitre, four ounces syrup of rhubarb, and one ounce compound vinous. Take a dessertspoonful in a little water after meals and at bedtime. Be sure that your room with lots of ventilation, dress warmly, eat well cooked foods, and abstain from stimulants.

IN THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring Among Local and District Clubs and Sporting Circles Generally.

TROTTING.

NEW CIRCUIT MOOTER.

Preliminary steps have been taken by horsemen at a meeting in Ottawa to organize what is known as the Eastern Ontario circuit. The general meeting will be held on December 12 at the Russell. It is proposed to include in the circuit, Montreal, Cornwall, Morrisburg, Gananoque, Kingston, Brockville, Kemptville, Winchester, Alexandria, Ottawa, Perth, Smiths Falls, Arnprior, Pembroke, Eganville, North Bay, Renfrew and Sudbury.

Former Jockey Grover Cleveland Fuller, who has a record of carrying $60,000 in one season, was locked up in a New York police cell the same day, being unable to pay a fine of $2 imposed for drunkenness.

FOOTBALL.

Telegram: Montreal lost money on their arguments with Peterboro. This place Peterboro $500 in cash to crave the wrath of the O.R.F.U., and the C.A.A.U. and 1500 the wrath of Mr. Wilfrid Wheldon, with a chance to upset their first Canadian championship. But the football population of Peterboro will not part to quietly from their own fireside to sit in difficulty chairs of front to watch a top-shelf football game. There were ten thousand spectators, and the gate receipts did not figure up to the guarantee. However, the Montreal's receipts were a Canadian championship. They also felt it their duty to show that like Four football was in a class by itself, and they also wanted to take one more crack at their dearest enemy, the C.A.A.U. Doubtless they think the money well spent.

HOCKEY.

"FOURFLUSHERS" IN HOCKEY

"Every hockey centre is troubled with "fourflushers" to stop period of the year," says the Woodstock Express. They slight into town with a people of gallons of hot air, on how they can play hockey, ready to shoot off at every opportunity. About the time when the ice comes they will wither away and say hockey or baseball is their game, but just at present it is good ice sporting spot has been selected, they live on the fat of the land. Hot air artists seldom can play their occupation and play the puck-chasing game. Show them!

Next year the Wanderers hockey club, of Montreal, will be in a international hockey league which will take in Montreal, New York, Pittsburg and Chicago at least.

The Toronto Star was in error when it stated that Peterborough would have no team this season. Since the item was penned, proof of the Peterboro hockey sports have joined the order of intermediate team in the O.H.A., and it will be a strong one.

Guelph Mercury: It has been learned that the Berlin management are on a still hunt after players. They are also after "Riley" Hearn. Seibert would go up on the forward line. If the other goal tender elects to remain with the Stanley Cup holders, Seibert will defend the nets. The local management have lined out for a man from Port Hope.

BASEBALL

TORONTO CAPTAINCY.

World: In the most informal baseball circles it is admitted that Joe Kelley is all but signed with Boston. The National Leagues meet in Chicago to-morrow, Tuesday in New York, while Kelley has an engagement with President Dorsey, of the Senators, and when they are expected to fix matters up. The American Leagues meeting takes place in Chicago the following day, Dec. 11. Meanwhile Jimmie J. McCaffrey is still president of the Toronto, and he says the board in Boston is still vacant, and that here will be nothing doing until the New Year.

THE PETERBORO MEET.

The indoor athletic meet held in Brock-st. rink, Peterboro, on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers, turned out a grand success. The former officiated as starter of the three-mile Marathon, and was received a great reception by the huge crowd present on being introduced by the Hon. J. R. Stratton, ex-M.P.P.

At San Francisco on Tuesday Jack Donnelly, winner of the opening handicap, made no team dispatches, running five furlongs, taking two fifths of a second off the time made by George F. Smith. Donnelly's time was :58, 3-5.

That there is still plenty of money abroad for professional cyclists is evidenced by the fact that in addition to the prizes won and stakes, for riding in his own country, Cecil Frendsman, Guignard, has cleared nearly $3,000 in Germany alone this season in long distance races.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Rugby Football Union will be held in Toronto, Saturday, December 14th, and nomination and amendment close next Saturday. Apart from the amendment to reduce the quota of goals from the field from four points to three, and from three to two on a penalty, few changes on the rules are likely to be proposed. A reduction in points for dropped goals was made by the International Union at their annual meeting, which took place last month.

SEPARATION FROM COUNTY.

Board of Trade is Still Considering the Pros and Cons of the Matter.

We understand that the committee appointed by the Board of Trade to look into the question of separating from the county, has had several meetings, which have gone into the matter very thoroughly. They have been in correspondence with towns that are now separated, and towns that were separated towns before they became cities. As such sides to the controversy start out, from the same basis with the same figures, it would appear to resolve itself, first as to what the county would or would not do in case of separation, and second as to what the arbitrators would be likely to do in case the question had to go to arbitration.

A meeting of the Board of Trade is to be held next Tuesday night in the Council chamber, at which a report from each side will be presented, and an interesting discussion may be looked for.

SUCCESSFUL TEA AND SALE.

Baptist Church Ladies Aid Scored Big Success Yesterday.

—Yesterday afternoon and evening the Ladies' Aid of the Baptist church held a highly successful tea and sale. A 15c tea was served during the afternoon and evening, when from six o'clock to eight a choice 25 cent supper was served. A sale of useful articles meanwhile was carried on nearby. Bread and cake, rakes, and all kinds of edible dainties were offered. There were also a kind of fancy work and useful articles about the house. Everything took well, and the ladies had fine sales receipts. There was a large crowd, and the ladies realized about $90 from their venture.

The many zeos toward improvements in the church, among which are a Sunday school and a new furnace. The Ladies' Aid expect to raise $700 of the amount needed, and the $90 they made yesterday, with what they already have, nearly gives them the required amount. Great credit is due them for their success. The affair was the most successful and enjoyable they have ever held.

Make Your Wife Barkeeper

"Let your wife be your bartender and dollars a divider O" is the counsel of Dr. Madison C. Peters, of New York. He says:

If you must drink, let me make a rational suggestion. There are sixty-five drinks in the world, which, kept, retailed at the ordinary saloon, will cost you a drink, which brings $2 to $3 in the saloon. Why do you not let the saloonkeeper over $2 aside, leaving a profit of $7 on every drink, and let your friend, the saloonkeeper, bank this profit, and when you are unable to support yourself, and you are a pauper, expected to support your wife may have money to keep you?"
